This qualification has been accredited within the Qualifications and Credit Framework (QCF) and is eligible for public funding as determined by the Department for Education (DfE) under Sections 96 and 97 of the Learning and Skills Act 2000.

The qualification title listed above features in the funding lists published annually by the DfE and the regularly updated website. It will also appear on the Learning Aims Database (LAD), where relevant.

You should use the QCF Qualification Accreditation Number (QAN), when you wish to seek public funding for your learners. Each unit within a qualification will also have a unique QCF reference number, which is listed in this specification.

The QCF qualification title and unit reference numbers will appear on the learners’ final certification document. Learners need to be made aware of this when they are recruited by the centre and registered with Edexcel.
This title replaces the following qualifications from 01/01/2011:

Key features of the Edexcel Level 3 Diploma for the Children and Young People’s Workforce (QCF)

This qualification:
- is a recognised qualification for those wishing to enter the Children and Young People’s Workforce in England
- is based on the Skills for Care and Development National Occupational Standards (NOS). The NOS, assessment requirements/strategy and qualification structure(s) are owned by Skills for Care and Development
- has a minimum credit value of 65 credits
- covers the age range from birth to 19 years
- requires the learner to spend time in a real work environment
- is suitable for different types of learners, including those in full-time formal learning, those in part-time formal learning and those in full-time employment

The Edexcel Level 3 Diploma for the Children and Young People’s Workforce (QCF) has been approved as a component required for the Children’s Care, Learning and Development Apprenticeship framework.

What is the purpose of this qualification?

This qualification is intended to guide and assess development of knowledge and skills relating to early learning and childcare, social care and the learning development and support services workforces. The qualification confirms competence in these areas where appropriate and serves as the required qualification (for all new practitioners) for registration and regulatory requirements in the sector.

Who is this qualification for?

These qualifications are for all learners aged 16 and above who are capable of reaching the required standards.

Edexcel’s policy is that the qualifications should:
- be free from any barriers that restrict access and progression
- ensure equality of opportunity for all wishing to access the qualifications.

What are the benefits of this qualification to the learner and employer?

The Edexcel Level 3 Diploma for the Children and Young People’s Workforce (QCF) (Early Learning and Childcare pathway) will meet the qualification requirements stated in the Early Years Foundation Stage Statutory Framework. ‘In registered settings other than childminding settings, all supervisors and managers must hold a full and relevant level 3 qualification (as defined by the Children’s Workforce Development Council (CWDC)) page 31’. The requirement to have 80% of the social care workforce qualified to Level 3 was introduced and made mandatory through the National Care Standards Act 2000. The Edexcel Level 3 Diploma for the Children and Young People’s Workforce (QCF) (Social Care pathway) will be the accepted qualification to meet this requirement.

What are the potential job roles for those working towards this qualification?

- Care worker
- Careers adviser
- Children’s centre worker
- Connexions personal adviser
- Education welfare officer
- Foster carer
- Healthcare assistant
- Learning mentor
- Nursery nurse
- Nursery school teacher
- Registered childminder
- Registered nanny
- Residential childcare worker
- Youth and community worker.

What progression opportunities are available to learners who achieve this qualification?

It is anticipated that learners selecting the Early Learning and Childcare pathway will progress to relevant foundation/honours degrees. It is anticipated that learners selecting the Social Care pathway will progress to the Level 4/5 Diploma in Health and Social Care or Level 4/5 Diploma for Leadership and Management for Care Services or relevant foundation/honours degrees. It is anticipated that learners selecting the Learning, Development and Support Services pathway will progress to the Level 4/5 Diploma in Learning, development and Support Services or relevant foundation/honours degrees.

How is the qualification graded and assessed?

The overall grade for the qualification is a ‘pass’. The learner must achieve all the required units within the specified qualification structure.

To pass a unit, the learner must:

- achieve all the specified learning outcomes
- satisfy all the assessment criteria by providing sufficient and valid evidence for each criterion
- show that the evidence is their own.

The qualifications are designed to be assessed:

- in the workplace, or
- in conditions resembling the workplace, as specified in the assessment requirements/strategy for the sector, or
- as part of a training programme.

Assessment requirements/strategy

The assessment requirements and strategy for this qualification have been included in Annexe D. They have been developed by Skills for Care and Development in partnership with employers, training providers, awarding organisations and the regulatory authorities. The assessment strategy includes details on:

- criteria for defining realistic working environments
- roles and occupational competence of assessors, expert witnesses, internal verifiers and standards verifiers
- quality control of assessment
- evidence requirements.

Evidence of competence may come from:

- current practice where evidence is generated from a current job role
- a programme of development where evidence comes from assessment opportunities built into a learning/training programme whether at or away from the workplace
- the Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) where a learner can demonstrate that they can meet the assessment criteria within a unit through knowledge, understanding or skills they already possess without undertaking a course of learning. They must submit sufficient, reliable and valid evidence for internal and standards verification purposes. RPL is acceptable for accrediting a unit, several units or a whole qualification
- a combination of these.
It is important that the evidence is:

- Valid is relevant to the standards for which competence is claimed
- Authentic is produced by the learner
- Current is sufficiently recent to create confidence that the same skill, understanding or knowledge persist at the time of the claim
- Reliable indicates that the learner can consistently perform at this level
- Sufficient fully meets the requirements of the standards.

Types of evidence

To successfully achieve a unit, the learner must gather evidence which shows that they have met the required standard in the assessment criteria. Evidence can take a variety of different forms including the following examples:

- direct observation of the learner’s performance by their assessor
- outcomes from oral or written questioning
- products of the learner’s work
- learner explanation/personal statement
- outcomes from simulation, where permitted by the assessment strategy
- professional discussion
- assignment, project/case studies
- authentic statements/witness testimony
- expert witness testimony
- reflective accounts
- evidence of Recognition of Prior Learning.

Learners can use one piece of evidence to prove their knowledge, skills and understanding across different assessment criteria and/or across different units. It is, therefore, not necessary for learners to have each assessment criterion assessed separately. Learners should be encouraged to reference the assessment criteria to which the evidence relates.

Evidence must be made available to the assessor, internal verifier and Edexcel standards verifier. A range of recording documents is available on the Edexcel website www.edexcel.com. Alternatively, centres may develop their own.

Age range covered by this qualification

The age range of children and young people covered in this qualification is 0-19 years. In delivering this qualification, tutors must ensure that the knowledge and understanding component encompasses the 0-19 age range. However, competence need only be demonstrated for the age range with which the candidate would normally work.
Confidentiality requirements

Confidentiality must be observed throughout the assessment process. Names, video recordings, and photographs of children and young people under 18 years of age should be avoided if possible. If parental permission is obtained to use such evidence, the candidate must be aware of their responsibility regarding data protection and safeguarding children. Confidential records can be seen in situ by the qualified occupationally competent assessor. The internal verifier and external standards verifier will need to know how the evidence contributed towards the assessment process and where it is located.

Work experience time

Learners will require sufficient time to be able to carry out and demonstrate the competence elements of this qualification, showing that they understand how knowledge components are applied in practice. Since the amount of time required to evidence achievement of all assessment criteria will vary between learners, Edexcel is only able to make recommendations regarding work experience time required for learners. Edexcel recommends, as a guide, that learners working towards the Edexcel Level 3 Diploma for the Children and Young People’s Workforce (QCF) would require approximately 400 hours working in real work environments.

Recommendations for assessment methods, assessment planning and tracking progress

Initial assessments are important in providing evidence to determine the starting point of learning and assessment.

Induction and initial assessment are a key part of the assessment process and can identify the learner’s present experience in the sector and any credit they may be able to use as part of the assessment process. Initial assessment can also form part of the agreement of appropriate methods for the assessment process itself and ensure that an appropriate setting is available for the learner to use. Any specific needs learner needs can be identified and appropriate support arranged as a result. This may be done by means of a basic skills test.

Steps in carrying out an initial assessment include:

- checking that the learner has the language, literacy and numeracy skills necessary to achieve the qualification that they are registering for, offering support where needed
- ensuring that, where a learner is registering for a qualification that includes assessment in the workplace, they will have opportunities to demonstrate those criteria in their day-to-day work
• identifying opportunities for to motivate learners and those who support them within the workplace. Consider opportunities for:
  - transferring credit from units that also appear in the rules of combination of other qualifications
  - recognising the equivalency of any QCF units already achieved
  - claiming exemptions for achievements outside of the QCF
  - using the RPL process to claim credit for what the candidate already knows and can do for immediate assessment
  - identifying what candidates need to learn.

A range of information can be used to inform the initial assessment including:
• candidate’s self-assessment
• head teacher or line manager appraisal
• previous qualifications and achievements
• prior learning and experience
• learning style preferences
• job role and career aspirations
• potential, aptitude and commitment, and
• personal circumstances.

Taking a holistic approach to assessment will avoid unnecessary duplication of evidence and:
• pay dividends in the efficiency and effectiveness of the assessment process and might well be easier for the learner to understand
• allow for evidence for a number of learning outcomes to be drawn from a range of activities, thus making it easier to cover aspects that may not occur in a one-off assessment
• avoid the inefficient use of assessment opportunities and over-assessment associated with planning for assessment on an outcome-by-outcome or unit-by-unit basis.

Assessment planning is recommended for this qualification as good practice. It is recommended that learners have assessment plans that identify when and how assessment will be carried out. Assessors should have a thorough knowledge of the qualification and its assessment requirements and be able to give learners a clear understanding of what they are being assessed on, what methods will be used and what evidence they need to produce.

Where workplace assessment is required, assessors should:
• familiarise themselves with the learner and their workplace
• find out when the learner is available for assessment, eg what hours/days they work
• take account of the learner’s job role and circumstances, eg what managers, teachers, classes, groups or individuals they work with, their timetable or work pattern, their commitments outside of work
• identify different opportunities for demonstrating competence, eg a task may be carried out in different ways depending on the group or individual with whom the learner is working

• draw upon the skills and resources of a mentor, if available, to facilitate assessment opportunities (but keeping them separate from the assessment process)

• ensure assessment planning takes account of the learner’s learning needs and agreed plans for addressing these.

It is recommended that the learner’s progress is tracked appropriately. Regular reviews with learners, involving the line manager for qualifications assessed in the workplace, should be carried out to measure progress towards achievement of the qualification and maintain progress. Feedback from the mentoring process may also contribute to the review process but only where confidentiality allows.

Reviews should take account of:

• actions agreed at the last review meeting
• progress made in relation to any agreed learning plan, where such a plan exists
• assessments undertaken
• any problems or obstacles encountered and how these will be addressed
• any changes in learner’s circumstances or work circumstances, eg changed work role
• future learning needs and how they will be addressed,
• any implications for the assessment plan and revising this as appropriate.

Progress reviews should also be used to check that the learner and the line manager:

• understand and are comfortable with the assessment process
• know what progress the learner has made towards achievement of the qualification • understand the appeals process.

Unit content

Unit content is provided for all mandatory units in this qualification and for selected optional units.

The content provides the range of subject material for the programme of learning and specifies the competences, knowledge and understanding required for achievement of the learning outcomes in the unit. This is informed by the requirements of the related National Occupational Standards (NOS), where relevant.

Each learning outcome is stated in full and then the key phrases or concepts related to that learning outcome are listed in italics followed by the subsequent range of related topics.
Relationship between content and assessment criteria

The learner should have the opportunity to cover all of the unit content.

It is not a requirement of the unit specification that all of the content is assessed. However, the indicative content will need to be covered in a programme of learning in order for learners to be able to meet the standard determined in the assessment criteria.

The information below shows how the unit content is structured and gives the terminology used to explain the different components within the content.

Italicised sub-heading: it contains a key phrase or concept stated within the assessment criteria. This is content which must be covered in the delivery of the unit. Colons mark the end of an italicised sub-heading.

Elements of content: the elements are in plain text and amplify the sub-heading. These are the elements of content which must be covered in the delivery of the unit. Semi-colons mark the end of an element.

Brackets contain amplification of content which must be covered in the delivery of the unit.

‘eg’ is a list of examples, used for indicative amplification of an element (that is, the content specified in this amplification could be covered or could be replaced by other, similar material).

Online support

‘Ask the Expert’ is an online service you can use to ask any question about the delivery or teaching of Edexcel qualifications. Search the database of frequently asked questions or submit your enquiry directly to us using an online enquiry form. You’ll receive a personal response sent to the email address you provide from one of Edexcel’s administrative or teaching experts.

Ongoing support for the qualification is also available from your Edexcel Regional Quality Manager or Regional Development Manager. For details of other ways to contact Edexcel, see the Further Information section of this document.
What do you need to offer this qualification?

Centre recognition

Centres that have not previously offered Edexcel qualifications need to apply for and be granted centre recognition as part of the process for approval to offer individual qualifications. New centres must complete both a centre recognition approval application and a qualification approval application.

Existing centres will be given ‘automatic approval’ for a new qualification if they are already approved for a qualification that is being replaced by the new qualification and the conditions for automatic approval are met. Centres already holding Edexcel approval are able to gain qualification approval for a different level or different sector via Edexcel online.

Approvals agreement

All centres are required to enter into an approvals agreement which is a formal commitment by the head or principal of a centre to meet all the requirements of the specification and any linked codes or regulations. Edexcel will act to protect the integrity of the awarding of qualifications, if centres do not comply with the agreement. This could result in the suspension of certification or withdrawal of approval.
Quality assurance

What resources are required?

This qualification is designed to support learners working in the Children’s Care, Learning and Development sector. Physical resources need to support the delivery of the qualifications and the assessment of the learning outcomes and must be of industry standard. Centres must meet any specific resource requirements outlined in Annexe D: Assessment requirements/strategy, including access to an appropriate setting where required. Staff assessing the learner must meet the requirements within the overarching assessment strategy for the sector.
Unit format

Each unit in this specification contains the following sections.

Unit title: Understand Child and Young Person Development

Unit reference number: F/502/5807

QCF level: 3

Credit value: 4

Guided learning hours: 30

Unit summary:

This unit provides knowledge and understanding of how children and young people from birth to 19 years develop, including underpinning theoretical perspectives. It also includes actions taken when differences in development are identified and the potential effects of transitions on children and young people's development.

Unit content:

Learning outcomes:

1. Understand how communication techniques can be used to help the customer choose products

1.1 Explain how communication techniques can be used to match product features and benefits to complex customer needs

1.2 Explain how communication techniques can be used to narrow the choice of products to those best suited to the customers needs

Assessment criteria:

1.1 Explain how communication techniques can be used to match product features and benefits to complex customer needs

1.2 Explain how communication techniques can be used to narrow the choice of products to those best suited to the customers needs

Evidence type:

- O observation
- Q&A questions and answers
- P learner products
- RA reflective accounts/personal statements
- S simulation
- PD professional discussion
- A assignment, project/case studies
- WT witness testimony
- EPW expert witness evidence
- RPL Recognition of Prior Learning

The learner should use this box to indicate where the evidence can be obtained e.g. portfolio page number.

The learner should give the date when the evidence has been provided.

Learning outcomes state exactly what a learner should know, understand or be able to do as a result of completing a unit.

The assessment criteria of a unit specify the standard a learner is expected to meet to demonstrate that a learning outcome, or a set of learning outcomes, has been achieved.

Learners must reference the type of evidence they have and where it is available for quality assurance purposes. The learner can enter the relevant key and a reference. Alternatively, the learner and/or centre can devise their own referencing system.
Units
Unit 1: Understand Child and Young Person Development

Unit summary
This unit provides knowledge and understanding of how children and young people from birth to 19 years develop, including underpinning theoretical perspectives. It also includes actions taken when differences in development are identified and the potential effects of transitions on children and young people’s development.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development's QCF Assessment Principles.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the expected pattern of development for children and young people from birth-19 years

Expected pattern of development birth – 19 years: stages 0-3, 3-7, 7-12, 12-16, 16-19 years; sequence usually same for all children; rate of development individual; gross motor physical development eg infant reflexes, development of locomotion, balance and co-ordination; fine motor physical development eg infant reflexes, use of pencil, brushes, tools, increase in control of tools; physical maturity eg puberty, sexual maturity; communication eg infant responses, single words, sentences, increase in vocabulary; intellectual/cognitive eg object permanence, use of symbols, development of abstract concepts and thinking skills; social development eg social interaction, cooperation with others, development of friendships, peer groups; emotional and behavioural development eg attachment, multiple attachments, self-concept, self-esteem, confidence, personal identity; moral development eg Kohlberg’s stages of moral development

Sequence of development: broadly the same sequence; normal ranges of development

Rate of development: development is holistic; individual differences in rate; different aspects of development affect one another; aspects of development proceed at different rates in individuals; range of factors affecting individual differences

2 Understand the factors that influence children and young people’s development and how these affect practice

Personal factors influencing development: health status; disability; sensory impairment; learning difficulties; genetic inheritance; other factors eg motivation, adult expectations, bullying, family background, social, cultural, financial, economic and environmental factors

Theories of development and frameworks affecting practice: competing theories; cognitive/constructivist (Piaget) eg learner-centred educational philosophy, learning through play; psychoanalytical (Freud) eg drives, development of morality; Humanist (Maslow) eg self-motivation, self-concept; social learning theory (Bandura) eg learning from observing others, role modelling; operant conditioning (Skinner) eg encouraging natural, desirable behaviours through reinforcement; behaviourist (Watson) eg behaviour is learned; social pedagogy eg holistic approach to children’s experiential learning
3 Understand how to monitor children and young people’s development and interventions that should take place if this is not following the expected pattern

Methods of monitoring development: formal; informal; observation and assessment: formative; summative; comparison with milestones; relation to child development theorists; information from parents/carers, colleagues; assessment frameworks eg Common Assessment Framework (CAF), curriculum frameworks (Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS), National Curriculum); standard measurements eg milestones, percentiles

Recording, reporting and sharing information: sharing information with parents or carers and children, sharing findings as appropriate and according to the procedures and policies of the setting, referring concerns eg particular difficulties, suspected abuse, legal evidence to an appropriate professional such as the SENCO; procedures in familiar setting

Reasons why development is not following expected patterns: disability; emotional or physical difficulties; environmental factors; cultural reasons; social factors; particular learning needs; communication difficulties

Different types of intervention: social worker eg support for looked after children; speech and language therapist eg support with communication difficulties; psychologist eg support with learning and behavioural difficulties; psychiatrist support with emotional difficulties; youth justice eg support for young offenders, support to stop children and young people offending; specialist nurse eg support for children/young people with specific health needs; additional learning support eg support in the classroom; physiotherapist eg support for gross motor skills development; assistive technology eg technologies to enable pupils who have specific needs to access the curriculum, computer programmes, speech recognition device hearing aid; health visitor eg liaison with the family on health issues

4 Understand the importance of early intervention to support the speech, language and communication needs of children and young people

Importance of early identification of speech, language and communication delays and disorders: language and communication delay impacts on cognitive development/learning, social development, emotional development/behaviour

Multi-agency teams supporting speech, language and communication: speech and language therapist; special educational needs coordinator (SENCO); teacher; school support worker; sensory support teacher; autism advisory teacher; educational psychologist; parents/carers
Play and activities to support speech, language and communication: whole-class and small-group activities; strategies eg body language including gestures, pointing, facial expressions; young children eg puppets, pictures, games, songs and rhymes; signs; technology eg story tapes, CDs, computer programs, interactive whiteboards; modelling language

5 Understand the potential effects of transitions on children and young people’s development

Types of transitions: emotional eg bereavement, birth of sibling, family break up, entering or leaving care, change of carer; physical eg moving house, nursery, school, class, moving from one activity to another; physiological eg transition from baby to toddler, puberty, long-term medical conditions; intellectual eg moving from one key stage to the next

Impact of transitions: physical impact eg growth spurts, losing or gaining weight; behavioural impact eg anxiety, bed-wetting, withdrawal, moodiness, using illegal substances; attitudinal impact eg being rude, losing interest, reluctance to join in; difficulty in building relationships and emotional and social development; lack of trust; loss of self-esteem; understanding that transition can have positive effects eg increase in interest, development of self-identity, eagerness to learn, development of friendships

Importance of positive relationships: effects on emotional, physical, psychological and cognitive development; provides stability, consistency and security; some one to talk to; someone who understands how they may be affected, provides opportunities for children or young people to explore the effects of transitions on their lives, provides opportunities for children and young people to express feelings about impact of transitions for self and others, opportunities for child or young person to develop of empathy for others undergoing transitions, opportunities to support and encourage decision making, independence and recognition of choices and consequences, opportunities to identify any situation arising from the transition that might require referral to an appropriate person or authority

Unit 2: Promote Child and Young Person Development

Unit code: CYP Core 3.2
Unit reference number: R/601/1694
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 25

Unit summary
This unit provides a basis of knowledge, understanding and the competence required to promote children and young people’s development and positive behaviour. It also includes how to support children and young people through transitions in their lives.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 1, 2, 3, 5 and 6 must be assessed in a real work environment. Reflection on practice should be included in the assessment evidence.

1 Be able to assess the development needs of children or young people and prepare a development plan

Relevant factors when assessing development: child or young person’s wishes and feelings, ethnic, linguistic and cultural background, disability or specific requirements, additional needs; reliability of information; avoiding judgements or bias, age and stage of development; confidentiality and circumstances where total confidentiality is not appropriate eg safety of the child or young person is at risk

Assessing different areas of development: physical development; development of communication; intellectual/cognitive development; social, emotional and behavioural development; moral development

Assessment methods: assess the child or young person’s overall development making reference to the expected developmentally norms for the appropriate age; give an explanation of the selection of the assessment methods used eg assessment frameworks, observations, standard measurements; external assessment; internal assessment; peer assessment; self assessment; importance of appropriate questioning techniques and listening; learning styles; knowledge acquisition; review; procedure for information sharing with parents, carers, children and young people, other professionals and colleagues; use of photographs or other similar material

A plan that meets the development needs of a child or young person: refer to developmental norms as a guide and recognise that development is both holistic and interconnected; include the value of involving the child or young person in taking responsibility for own development and contributing to the plan; awareness of prior learning; consolidate learning of child or young person; provide suitable structure; remove barriers to learning; develop strategies to inspire and motivate; plan for ways to provide constructive feedback eg performance indicators, timely communication use, of praise, constructive criticism, reflection, review

2 Be able to promote the development of children or young people

Implement development plan: implement the individual development plan with the child or young person according to procedures for setting; evaluate success of plan through observation and revise the plan if necessary

Importance of a person-centred and inclusive approach: importance of actively involving child or young person in decisions affecting their lives (according to their age and abilities); importance of actively involving child or young person (according to their age and abilities) in the services they receive; approach should include reference to holistic development of the child or young person through eg individual learning plans, the role of observations, working with parents or carers, use of effective planning, equality of opportunity, providing constructive feedback and encouragement

3 Be able to support the provision of environments and services that promote the development of children or young people

An environment or service that promotes the development of children and young people: environment should be safe, stimulating, attractive, well-organised environment, personalised, inclusive environment, encourages participation, meets individual and group needs; high quality policies which are understood by practitioners and implemented; all regulatory requirements are met; environment provides appropriate risk and challenge; environment welcomes and values involvement from parents, families and carers

Organisation of work environment or service to promote the development of children or young people: details of specific plans and activities eg learning activities, home visits, the provision of a range of services, how outcomes are measured for success, importance of collaboration and reflective practitioners, how parents are actively encouraged to be involved in the setting, how the setting supports children and young people’s rights

4 Understand how working practices can impact on the development of children and young people

Effect of working practice on children and young people’s development: negative impact of eg poor organisation and planning of appropriate activities, lack of enthusiasm, poor relationships with colleagues and other professionals, lack of rapport with parents, families and carers, reluctance to maintain and update qualifications; positive impact of eg appropriate development plan that is child-centred or young person centred, effective communication and information sharing between all parties involved in caring for child or young person, early identification and intervention regarding developmental needs and/or difficulties

Effect of institutions, agencies and services on children and young people: impact of eg charities, support groups, faith-based groups, community projects, children centre services, Kidscape, NSPCC, extended schools provision; various effects eg offer empathy, support and guidance to children and young people and families experiencing difficulties, help identify problems in development of children or young people, raise awareness of rights, information, available help, opportunities and ways to progress in development

5 Be able to support children and young people’s positive behaviour

Work with children and young people to encourage positive behaviour: identify and implement strategies used to encourage positive behaviour eg positive reinforcement, rewards, involving child or young person in decision making where appropriate; strategies used for preventing unwanted behaviour eg ensuring a stimulating environment, reinforcing rules and expectations in a clear and consistent manner, use of distraction and diversion, adequate resources made available in order to avoid frustration or boredom on part of child or young person

_Different approaches to supporting positive behaviour:_ eg positive reinforcement strategies, modelling positive behaviour and responses to situations, having an overall positive culture in the setting, creating an environment that promotes positive behaviour, individual behaviour planning, distraction and diversion strategies, boundary setting and collaborative ground- rule making, supporting children and young people’s reflection on and managing of own behaviour

6 _Be able to support children and young people experiencing transitions_

_Supporting children and young people experiencing different types of transitions:_ different types of transition eg emotional (bereavement, entering/leaving care, family break up), physical (moving house or school), physiological (puberty or long-term medical condition, disability)

_Support for children and young people experiencing transitions:_ home visits, developing a close working relationship with the family, use of mentors, implementing a key person system, a robust settling- in process where parents and carers are welcome to stay with the child or young person as long as needed while they settle in the new setting; providing continuity of care for the child or young person and family where possible, referral to specialist community or charity support organisations where appropriate

_Provision of structured opportunities for children or young people to explore the effects of transitions on their lives:_ activities as appropriate to age and development stage of child or young person eg circle time activities, storytelling, song-writing, music, dance, discussion, reflection activities, personal storybooks of the child’s own transition, role play

QCF level: 3

Credit value: 3

---

Unit summary

This unit covers the understanding, knowledge and competences required to support the safeguarding of children and young people.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development QCF Assessment Principles.

Unit content

1 Understand the main legislation, guidelines, policies and procedures for safeguarding children and young people

Current legislation, guidelines and policies regarding the safeguarding of children and young people: legislation applicable to own home country eg The Children Act 1989, The Children Act 2004, Every Child Matters (England), Legislation Children Act 1989, The Education Act 2002, Children Act 200; UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989); Guidelines applicable to own home country eg Working Together to Safeguard Children 2010, What to do if you’re worried that a child is being abused 2006, Safeguarding Children and Safer Recruitment in Education 2007, Safeguarding Disabled Children 2009; Common Assessment Framework (CAF); child protection policies and procedures applicable to local setting or organisation including safeguarding and protecting, reporting and recording, e-safety, bullying and cyber bullying Care Orders, local authority guidelines; areas of child protection applicable to own home country eg early intervention, improving accountability and coordination of children’s services, improving support for parents and carers, a childcare workforce strategy

Child protection within the wider concept of safeguarding children and young children: child protection is action taken to protect specific children who are suffering, or who are at risk of suffering from significant harm, policies and procedures; safeguarding is broader definition and includes preventing risks of harm to the welfare of children and young people

National and local guidelines, policies and procedures for safeguarding affecting day-to-day work with children and young people: applicable to own home country and applicable to day-to-day practice; childcare practice eg policies and procedures regarding propriety and behaviour, intimate personal care, physical contact; child protection eg Criminal Records Bureau checks (CRB), setting’s policies for recording and reporting suspected abuse, whistle-blowing policies; risk assessment eg hazard recognition, vigilance of practitioners, indoors, outdoors, trips and outings, visitors to school; ensuring the voice of the child or young person is heard eg advocacy; supporting children and young people and others who may be expressing concerns eg believe child/young person, take action; provide up-to-date training for all workers in safeguarding issues

Inquiries and serious case reviews: Local Safeguarding Children Boards (LSCB) Regulations (2006); process for serious case reviews (SCR) in document Working Together to Safeguard Children 2010; SCRs required in situations where a child or young person has died due to known or suspected abuse or neglect; reviews may be carried out where a child or young person has been seriously harmed or has suffered life-threatening injuries; purpose of SCR is for agencies to determine the lessons which are to be learned about the way in which professionals have worked and make recommendations Process used by own work setting or service to comply with legislation that covers data protection, information handling and sharing:
instructions for clear and appropriate action to be taken in the event of a suspected child protection situation; action to be taken in the event of a suspected child protection situation eg reporting concerns, lines of reporting, information sharing confidentiality; policies for e-safety, cyber bullying, confidentiality; procedures for reporting and recording, information storing, how information is gathered, stored and shared; confidentiality, methods of reporting concerns; Data Protection Act 1988

2 Understand the importance of working with other organisations to safeguard children and young people

Importance of safeguarding children and young people: responsibility of all adults working with children and young people to safeguard children and young people from harm; professional duty while children are in a particular setting; duty to report concerns about issues occurring outside the setting; safeguarding policies and procedures need to include physical safety and security on the premises and on off-site visits, e-safety and security when using the internet (if applicable); staff awareness and training, monitoring and record-keeping; partnership and involvement with other agencies

Child/young person-centred approach: the wishes and feelings of children must be identified and taken account of; children must be involved in decision making eg involving the child or young person in meetings, asking for their opinion when discussing matters relating to them; children must be treated with respect

Partnership working in the context of safeguarding: the importance of the role of all parties in child protection; different agencies may be involved in safeguarding; communication essential to ensure the safety and protection of children; essential to act on concerns as soon as they arise in order to ensure early intervention; prevent children/young people slipping through the net; learning lessons from past failures eg Victoria Climbie case 2000

Roles and responsibilities of the different organisations that may be involved when a child or young person has been abused or harmed:
Children’s Social Care (act when concerns raised about a child, carry out assessment of child’s needs, interview child or young person and family, gather information from other agencies, lead Child Protection Conference, take action if child or young person in immediate danger); police (make decision about whether crime has been committed, take emergency action if child or young person is in immediate danger); health professionals eg general practitioners, doctors in emergency departments (examine/observe a child or young person thought to be at risk of abuse or who has suffered abuse); health visitors; The Local Safeguarding Children Board (LSCB) (role and responsibility to oversee the work of other agencies, includes experts from the range of children’s services, reviews all serious cases of abuse; The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC) (charity with statutory power to take action when children are at risk of abuse, provides helplines for children and for people who are worried about a child or young person, supports families); school (provide support for children or young people who are known to be on the ‘at risk’ register); psychologist eg work with child or young person and family; probation eg work with offenders

3 Understand the importance of ensuring children and young people’s safety and protection in the work setting

Importance of ensuring children and young people are protected from harm within the work setting: applicable to own home country and setting or organisation eg responsibility of adults in certain settings to act loco parentis; effect of harm on children and young persons’ wellbeing and development; all aspects of the setting require consideration eg health and safety issues, behaviour, bullying, safeguarding, internet safety, safety on off-site trips

Policies and procedures to protect children and young people and adults who work with them: applicable to own home country and setting or organisation eg working in a transparent and open way, personal and collective accountability, listening to children and young people, duty of care, whistle-blowing, power and position of trust, propriety and behaviour, physical contact, intimate personal care routines, off-site visits, use of photography and video material, sharing concerns and recording or reporting incidents

Reporting concerns about poor practice: whistle-blowing policy; confidentiality; protection from repercussions towards the individual who reported the incident or those whose practice is being questioned; avoiding discrimination or victimisation

Steps practitioners can take to protect themselves within their everyday practice in the work setting and on off site visits: follow child protection, anti-bullying, health and safety, e-safety policies and procedures of setting with regards to propriety and behaviour, intimate personal care, physical contact, non-use of mobile phones while with children/young people, use of photography and video; informing colleagues of whereabouts and actions

4 Understand how to respond to evidence or concerns that a child or young person has been abused or harmed

Signs, symptoms, indicators and behaviours causing concern: different forms of abuse–neglect, emotional, physical, sexual; recognising symptoms, indicators and behaviours that may cause concern in the context of safeguarding

Actions to be taken if a child or young person alleges harm or abuse: taking action in line with policies and procedures of own setting; provide reassurance for the child; record the disclosure including date, time, what was said; remain non-judgemental; take allegations seriously; listen carefully to child or young person; avoid asking excessive number of questions; report the disclosure to the senior designated manager or the setting’s child protection or safeguarding officer

The rights of children, young people and their carers in situations where harm or abuse is suspected or alleged: right to be listened to; right to 5 Understand how to respond to evidence or concerns that a child or young person has been bullied

Different types of bullying and the potential effects on children and young people: physical, verbal, emotional and cyber-bullying; physical abuse includes pushing, kicking, hitting, pinching and other forms of violence or threats; verbal abuse includes name-calling, insults, sarcasm, spreading rumours and persistent teasing; emotional abuse includes tormenting, excluding, ridicule and humiliation; cyber-bullying includes the use of information and communication technology particularly mobile phones and the internet, to deliberately upset somebody; other types of bullying eg homophobic or gender-based, racist, bullying relating to age, special educational needs and disabilities; effects on emotional development eg self-esteem, mental health; effects on social development eg isolation, effects on cognitive development eg concentration, learning and achievement; school attendance following the policies and procedures of the setting or organisation in response to concerns about bullying

Policies and procedures for dealing with bullying: procedures to prevent bullying in the setting; all staff, parents, carers and children or young people made aware of the procedures that should be followed and the consequences of bullying; follow anti-bullying policy; deal immediately with any incidents of bullying; record or report to the designated person according to the setting’s policy; parents or carers to be informed; measures introduced following discussion with all parties concerned

How to support a child or young person and/or their family when bullying is suspected or alleged: guidelines from local authority; follow guidelines and procedures of the setting; reassure child or young person and their parents or carers; work as a member of the team to support the child or young person; inform child or young person about websites or organisation that provide help and support eg Childline, Kidscape

6 Understand how to work with children and young people to support their safety and wellbeing

Support children and young people’s self-confidence and self-esteem: supporting the development of self-confidence eg through team games, group activities, praise of personal success, recognition of achievement and progress, celebrating successes, valuing children young people as individuals, celebrating differences and similarities; empowering children and young people to be better equipped to keep themselves safe eg teaching children and young people how to recognise and deal with approaches from strangers, strategies for what to do if they got lost, saying ‘no’ if someone tries to touch them in a confusing or unsafe way, refusing to keep secrets of any kind, learning to shout and run away in a frightening situation and promptly informing an adult
Importance of supporting resilience: resilient children and young people are better equipped to resist stress and adversity, cope with change and uncertainty, recover faster and more completely from traumatic events or episodes; positive affects on long-term wellbeing

Reasons to work with children and young people to ensure they have strategies to protect themselves: to help them assess risks; to enable them to make decisions; to give them independence

Empowering children and young people to make positive and informed choices that support their wellbeing and safety: listen to children and young people; encourage children and young people to express their feelings and concerns; maintain observations recording child or young person’s behaviour; use strategies and activities that increase the child or young person’s confidence, encourage children and young people to think about their own personal safety and to think about possible strategies they could use in a range of situations; provide information about organisations to protect them eg NSPCC, Childline, Kidscape

7 Understand the importance of e-safety for children and young people

Risks and possible consequences for children and young people of being online and of using a mobile phone: social networking sites eg personal information such as telephone numbers, photographs, email addresses, information such as school name, clubs they attend, where they meet up, can be pieced together, personal information online also becomes accessible to individuals other than their friends; internet eg children in the setting should be unable to access inappropriate material due to filters which setting’s computers are required to have, home computers may not have filters in place; buying online eg risk of identity theft; mobile phones eg can be a means of bullying children

Reducing risk to children and young people from internet and mobile phone use: clear e-policy for setting or organisation; internet filters eg Child Safety Online Kitemark; emphasise importance of keeping personal details private; privacy settings on social networking sites; information workshops for parents about e-safety

Unit 4: Support Children and Young People's Health and Safety

Unit code: CYP Core 3.4
Unit reference number: D/601/1696
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 2
Guided learning hours: 15

Unit summary

This unit provides the knowledge, understanding and skills required to support children and young people’s health and safety. It requires a demonstration of competence in recognising hazards and undertaking risk assessments in the work setting.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Assessment of learning outcome 2 must take place in a real work environment. Simulation is not permitted for this learning outcome.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how to plan and provide environments and services that support children and young people’s health and safety

Planning healthy and safe indoor and outdoor environments and services: taking into account the individual age and abilities of the children or young people being planned for; identifying specific risks to individual children or young people eg those with sensory impairment; identifying the needs of adults where relevant eg resources, equipment or training; recognising the duty of care; meet regulatory requirements eg EYFS, Ofsted; links to the desired outcomes for children and young people eg Every Child Matters; recognition of the lines of responsibilities and accountability; use guidance eg EYFS, Ofsted

Monitoring and maintaining health and safety: people in the work setting need to be made aware of risks and hazards and encouraged to work safely eg staff, parent helpers, volunteers, visitors; health and safety responsibility of everyone; deliver safety education to children and young people eg EYFS, curriculum; routine health and safety assessment/checklist for both indoors, outdoors, visits and outings; staff training; health and safety policies and procedures in place to ensure good practice; recording accidents and incidents; review policies and procedures and incidents

Guidance for planning healthy and safe environments and services: sources eg Health and Safety Executive, Department for Education, St John Ambulance, The British Red Cross, British Standards Institute (BSI)

2 Be able to recognise risks to health, safety and security in a work setting or off site visits

Potential hazards to health, safety and security of the children or young people or others: hazard recognition and risk assessment applied to indoors, outdoors, outings; potential hazards which may include physical, security, fire, food safety, personal safety; identify and reduce risk through use of observations, checklists, health and safety risk assessments; importance of record-keeping and sharing of information
Dealing with hazards: act immediately to make sure that others are not put in danger; remove hazards if appropriate; direct others away from the area; send for another adult if required; report and record

Health and safety risk assessment: check all areas of setting; identify hazard; assess risks from each hazard; establish procedures for managing to an acceptable level risks from hazards that cannot be removed; make improvements in line with changing circumstances and requirements or service; record and report

Monitoring and reviewing health and safety risk assessments: importance of detailed records of accidents and incidents eg accident books; regularly reviewing and updating polices and procedures; keeping up to date with current legislation and models of good practice

3 Understand how to support children and young people to assess and manage risk for themselves

A balanced approach to risk assessment: take into account the child or young person’s age, needs and abilities; avoid excessive risk taking and avoid being excessively risk-averse; present a balanced viewpoint; promote managed risk taking and challenge; recognise the importance of risk and challenge to a child or young person’s development; work with children and young people to identify hazards and manage risk; role model assessing and managing risk

4 Understand appropriate responses to accidents, incidents and emergencies and illness in work settings and off site visits

Policies and procedures of the setting or service in response to accidents, incidents, emergencies and illness: accidents involving children, young people or adults; emergencies eg fire, missing children or young people, evacuating a setting; incidents eg school security/strangers; recognising signs and symptoms of illness eg fever, rashes, unconsciousness, taking action as required; policies and procedures of setting eg for dealing with ill children and readmission to setting following illness, for recording and reporting accidents, incidents, injuries, signs of illness and other emergencies

Recording and reporting: procedures of setting; lines of responsibility eg qualified first aider; accountability; accuracy; confidentiality; written reporting; verbal reporting

Unit summary

This unit aims to enable learners to understand and practise the skills required to develop positive relationships with children, young people and carers.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development QCF Assessment Principles. This unit must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1. Be able to develop positive relationships with children and young people

   Importance of positive relationships with children and young people: building positive relationships in order to provide the best possible care, support, learning opportunities and effective safeguarding for children and young people.

   Building positive relationships with children and young people: effective and positive communication; keeping confidentiality as appropriate, responding to children and young people in an appropriate manner; demonstrating respect and courtesy; involving children and young people in decisions affecting their lives; other ways eg identifying and addressing conflict in a sensitive manner, maintaining a consistent and fair attitude, valuing the ideas of others, honouring responsibilities, appropriate use of humour, using positive body language, eye contact.

   Own effectiveness in building relationships with children or young people: reflecting on own effectiveness in building relationships with children or young people in the workplace setting eg reflecting on what worked well, what did not work so well; use of feedback to evaluate own performance and inform development eg use feedback to raise awareness of strengths, identify areas for improvement, actions to be taken to improve performance; actively seek feedback; use appropriate sources of feedback and support eg mentors, teachers, colleagues, other professionals involved in care of children and young people; develop personal development plan where appropriate eg personal development plan to manage development using reflection and structured planning on how to meet own goals.

2. Be able to build positive relationships with people involved in the care of children and young people

   Importance of positive relationships with people involved in the care of children and young people: common goal to work effectively together to provide the best possible care, support, learning opportunities and effective safeguarding for children and young people; others involved in the care of children and young people eg colleagues, organisational manager, carers, official visitors, multi-agency professionals, external partners.

   Building positive relationships with people involved in the care of children and young people: eg through joint training activities, team meetings, sharing of good practice and information as appropriate, valuing and respecting the contributions, ideas and skills of others, understanding the roles and responsibilities of others involved in the care of children and young people, reflecting on own effectiveness in building relationships with others involved in the care of children or young people, seeking feedback and support, reflecting on what worked well, what did not work so well.

Unit 6: Working Together for the Benefit of Children and Young People

Unit code: CYP Core 3.6
Unit reference number: K/601/1698
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 2
Guided learning hours: 15

Unit summary

This unit aims to enable the learner to understand the importance of multi-agency and integrated working and to develop the skills required for effective communication for professional purposes. It includes and assesses competence in information sharing between those involved in the work with children and young people.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 2 and learning outcome 3 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand integrated and multi-agency working

The importance of multi-agency and integrated working in delivering better outcomes for children and young people: teams need to work proactively together for the best outcomes for the child, young person and family; integrated working involves everyone supporting children, young people and families working together effectively to put them at the centre, meet their needs and improve their lives; integrated working as part of government policies for children and young people in the relevant home nation; multi-agency and integrated working enables sharing of skills, information and best practice; multi-agency and integrated working facilitates a child-centred or young person-centred approach

Functions of external agencies: external agencies as applicable to own setting and home country eg local education authority, Ofsted, social services, early years and childcare, play work, youth justice, police, further education, youth work, NHS and health services, sports and culture sector organisations; function of external agencies as applicable to own organisation eg investigate referral in suspected case of abuse of child or young person, provide support for child or young person experiencing transition, provide support for child or young person with disability or long-term health condition, inspect provision of care in setting

Referrals between agencies: as required by legislation or procedures and policies of home country and own setting eg: Every Child Matters – Change for Children (2004), Every Child Matters - Making It Happen: Working together for children, young people and families (2008) Common Assessment Framework (CAF), Aiming High for Disabled Children, Better support for Families (2007); using correct referral routes within the setting eg SENCO, Child Protection officer, supervisor or manager; reasons for referral to different agencies eg safeguarding children and young people, early intervention, need for specialist or additional support; policies and procedures for referrals between organisations; role of the lead professional in coordinating services; the use of the Common Assessment Framework (CAF) to provide support; role of Early Intervention Teams

Common barriers to integrated working and multi-agency working: lack of understanding of roles and responsibilities, time constraints, logistical challenges, multitude of contacts within the working environment and multi-agency team, terms and conditions of employment, different professional values and ethos, different priorities; ways of overcoming barriers eg include joint training activities, joint team meetings, team building activities, information sharing as appropriate

Assessment frameworks: as applicable to own UK home nation eg details of The Common Assessment Framework (UK), CAF as key part of delivering frontline services that are integrated, and are focused around the needs of children and young people, CAF as a standardised approach to conducting assessments of children's additional needs and deciding how these should be met, use of CAF by practitioners across children's services

2 Be able to communicate with others for professional purposes

Appropriate communication methods for different circumstances: use of electronic aids, pictorial aids eg Makaton, use of an interpreter, effective use of the telephone and emails, preparing and delivering presentations, written communication and record-keeping

3 Be able to support organisational processes and procedures for recording, storing and sharing information

Recording, storing and sharing information: recording information in accordance with legal requirements eg Children Act 2004 (England and Wales), Working Together to Safeguard Children 2006, EYFS Statutory Framework, Ofsted inspections (England); importance of recording information clearly, accurately, legibly and concisely; reasons for keeping records eg accident and incident reports; need to record facts; sharing information with colleagues, parents and carers; accessibility; sharing findings as appropriate and according to the procedures and policies of the setting; referring concerns eg particular difficulties, suspected abuse, legal evidence to an appropriate professional such as the SENCO or designated child protection person within the setting

Maintain secure recording and storage systems for information: as required by legislation applicable to home country and policies of setting; how information is gathered, stored and shared; data protection requirements eg Data Protection Act 1998, Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations; organisational systems and procedures; roles and responsibilities for contributing to and maintaining record keeping systems; policy for storing records; security and confidentiality; accessibility to information eg limited access to computer storage systems; protection of identity, if appropriate

Possible conflict between need to maintain confidentiality and the need to disclose information in cases of suspected abuse or crime: understanding that confidentiality cannot be maintained in a situation where abuse of a child or young person is suspected or when it is suspected that a crime has been committed or may be committed; child protection concerns that could identify a particular child are kept confidential and only shared with people who need to know this information; balancing the duty of care and individual rights and responsibilities

Unit 7: Understand How to Support Positive Outcomes for Children and Young People

Unit code: CYP Core 3.7
Unit reference number: M/601/1699
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 25

Unit summary
This unit aims to provide members of the children and young person’s workforce with understanding of the factors that can impact, both positively and negatively, on outcomes and life chances of children and young people. It includes approaches to supporting positive outcomes including disability and specific requirements (additional needs).

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles.
Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how the social, economic and cultural environment can impact on the outcomes and life chances of children and young people

Social, economic and cultural factors that impact on the lives of children and young people: factors eg impact of being in the care system, living consistently in same parental home, relationship with parents or carer, attitude of parents or carer to education and a healthy lifestyle, poverty, poor housing, adequate/appropriate housing, level of access to community resources, being marginalised or excluded by society, discrimination and injustice, ethnic or cultural beliefs and customs, family expectations, health status, lack of opportunity and support

Impact of poverty on outcomes and life chances for children and young people: poverty as significant threat to the health and wellbeing of children and young people; growing up in poverty can affect every area of a child’s development, eg lack of opportunity and support, inadequate access to resources, poor health, poor diet, poor quality of life, difficulties in social and emotional development, increased chance of accidents or illness, less likely to do well at school; long-term effects of poverty for the child or young person into adulthood eg long-term health problems, employment prospects, difficulties in building and maintaining positive relationships, homelessness, crime

Role of children and young people’s personal choices and experience on their outcomes and life chances: the negative impact of poor choices on all areas of development and wellbeing eg impact of smoking on health, repercussions of offending behaviour, impact of substance abuse, impact of aggressive behaviour

2 Understand how practitioners can make a positive difference in outcomes for children and young people

Positive outcomes for children and young people: Every Child Matters outcomes for children and young people (England) - Be Healthy, Stay Safe, Enjoy and Achieve, Make a Positive Contribution and Achieve Economic Wellbeing

Designing services around the needs of children and young people: services more likely to be successful if they are child-centred or young person-centred and relevant to the individual’s needs, preferences, likes and dislikes; services that are targeted at individuals are more likely to achieve goal of supporting wellbeing and positive outcomes

Importance of active participation of children and young people in decisions affecting their lives: active participation of children and young people in decision making can dramatically increase the service’s chances of success; helps build self-esteem, accountability and independence in child or young person

Support children and young people according to their age, needs and abilities to make personal choices and experiences that have a positive Impact on their lives: encouraging children and young people to think about consequences of choices or behaviour; offer accurate and easy to understand information about possible consequences of their choices or offer access to such information as necessary; be a positive role model; plan and/or facilitate age-appropriate activities and experiences that take advantage of current interest or issues of children or young people; use of different types of activities eg discussion groups, circle time activities

3 Understand the possible impact of disability, special requirements and attitudes on positive outcomes for children and young people

Potential impact of disability on outcomes and life chances of children and young people: potential impact eg discrimination, lack of choices or opportunities, decreased accessibility, low self-esteem or confidence, depression, poor disposition to learning; positive attitudes towards children and young people with disabilities can have significant impact on outcomes; importance of focusing primarily on the child or young person as a human being and seeing the disability as secondary; importance of working to minimise the impact of the disability in order to enable the disabled child or young person to lead as normal a life as possible

Social model of disability and its impact: idea that disability is caused by the way society is organised, not caused by the child or young person’s disability; emphasises ways of removing obstacles which restrict life choices for children or young people with impairments or differences

Medical model of disability and its impact: idea that disabled children or young people are defined by their medical condition or illness; disabled child or young person should be helped to fit into society rather than society be encouraged to change in order to meet the needs of disabled child or young person; medical model strongly rejected by organisations representing disabled people

Support available for disabled children and young people and those with specific requirements: appropriate to the needs of the individual eg speech and language therapy, support from health professionals, assistive technology, specialised services; responsibility of social services to provide a range of services to support families with disabled children to minimise the impact of any disability eg short-term breaks, respite care, support services in the home, assistance for children and young people to participate in out-of-school activities alongside their peers

4 Understand the importance of equality, diversity and inclusion in promoting positive outcomes for children young people

Equality, diversity and inclusion in the context of positive outcomes for children and young people: Every Child Matters (England) and any other current legislation; the Children Act 2004, the Education Reform Act 1988, the Equality Act 2010; equal opportunities policy of own setting; support services use the social model of disability and work towards removing barriers which restrict life choices for children and young people; services planned according to the individual child or young person's needs and abilities in order to maximise chances of success; all practitioners should have a child-centred or young person-centred approach; child or young person needs to be involved in decisionmaking as appropriate for their age and abilities

Unit 8: Promote Communication in Health, Social Care or Children’s and Young People’s Settings

Unit code: SHC31
Unit reference number: J/601/1434
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 10

Unit summary

This unit is aimed at those who work in health or social care settings or with children or young people in a wide range of settings. The unit explores the central importance of communication in such settings, and ways to meet individual needs and preferences in communication. It also considers issues of confidentiality.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit must be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s Assessment strategy.

Unit content

1 Understand why effective communication is important in the work setting

Reasons for communication: express needs; share ideas and information; to reassure; express feelings and/or concerns; build relationships; socialise; ask questions, share experiences

How communication affects relationships at work: communication in the work environment eg with colleagues, people using services, children and their families; helps to build trust; aids understanding of individuals’ needs; ways communication is used to negotiate; communication used to prevent or resolve conflict and prevent misunderstanding; relevant theories eg Tuckman’s stages of group interaction (forming, storming, norming, performing)

2 Be able to meet the communication and language needs, wishes and preferences of individuals

Needs, wishes and preferences of individuals: importance of recognising individual needs; age and stage of development of child or young person; home language; preferred method; additional learning needs; physical disabilities; alternative methods communication eg language; British Sign Language, Makaton, Braille, the use of signs, symbols, pictures and writing; objects of reference, finger spelling, communication passports, human and technological aids to communication

Factors to consider: Argyle’s stages of the communication cycle (ideas occur, message coded, message sent, message received, message decoded, message understood); type of communication eg complex, sensitive, formal, non-formal; context of communication eg one-to-one; group, with people using services, children or young people, with professionals/colleagues; purpose of communication; cultural factors, need to adapt communication; environment; time and resources available

Communication methods and styles: eg non-verbal communication (eye contact, touch, gestures, body language, behaviour) verbal communication (vocabulary, linguistic tone, pitch, pace), signing, symbols, touch, music and drama, objects of reference; technological aids to communication

Responding to reactions: verbal responses eg tone, pitch, silence; nonverbal responses eg body language, facial expressions, eye contact, gestures, touch; emotional state; signs that information has been understood; when and how to adjust communication method

3 Be able to overcome barriers to communication

Differences in use and interpretation of communication methods: ways that an individual’s background can influence communication eg age, gender, culture, socio-economic status; differences in verbal... communication eg language, vocabulary, dialect, intonations; non-verbal eg facial expressions, use of body language, eye contact, gestures

Barriers to effective communication: language eg dialect, use of jargon, sector-specific vocabulary; environmental eg noise, poor lighting; emotional and behavioural eg attitudes, anxiety, lack of confidence, aggression; sensory impairment; health problems or medical conditions; learning disabilities; effects of alcohol or drugs

Overcoming barriers: use of technological aids eg hearing aids, induction loop, telephone relay services; human aids eg interpreters, signers, translators, advocates; use of age-appropriate vocabulary; staff training; improving environment; reducing distractions

Clarifying misunderstandings: checking understanding; avoiding misinterpretation of body language; use of active listening; repeating; rephrasing; use of visual cues

Accessing support: interpreting service; translation service; speech and language services; advocacy services; third sector organisations eg Stroke Association, Royal National Institute for Deaf People (RNID)

4 Be able to apply principles and practices relating to confidentiality

Confidentiality: where one person receives personal or sensitive information from another person, this information should not be passed on to anyone else without the consent of the person from whom the personal or sensitive information was received; meaning of confidentiality as contained in principles of current legislation eg the Data Protection Act 1998

Maintaining confidentiality in day-to-day communication: confidentiality in different inter-personal situations eg adult receives personal or sensitive information about child or young person, adult receives personal or sensitive information about another adult or colleague, child or young person receives personal or sensitive information about other child or young person, child or young person receives personal or sensitive information about an adult; following policies and procedures in own workplace setting eg policies for sharing information, situations where unconditional confidentiality cannot be maintained, support and guidance regarding confidential information, role of manager or supervisor, referral, training; types of information eg paper based, electronic, verbal, hearsay; confidentiality relating to the collection, recording and storage of different types of information

Tensions caused by confidentiality: the need for consent to share information; understanding when information may be shared without consent; concept of ‘need to know’; need for transparent policy and protocols for information sharing

Unit 9: Engage in Personal Development in Health, Social Care or Children’s and Young People’s Settings

Unit code: SHC32
Unit reference number: A/601/1429
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 10

Unit summary

This unit is aimed at those who work in health or social care settings or with children or young people in a wide range of settings. The unit considers personal development and reflective practice, which are both fundamental to such roles.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

Assessment of this unit must adhere to the requirements of Skills for Care and Development’s assessment strategy.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand what is required for competence in own work role

Duties and responsibilities of own work role: contractual responsibilities eg hours, lines of reporting; specific roles and responsibilities eg behaviour support, supporting children and young people with special educational needs, supporting bilingual children and young people; compliance with policies and procedures of setting eg behaviour, children and young people protection, health and safety; keeping up to date with changes to procedures; keeping up to date with changes to practice

Expectations about own work role as expressed in relevant standards: standards relevant to own role eg national occupational standards for Children’s Care, Learning and Development (NOS CCLD), national occupational standards for Learning, Development and Support Services (NOS LDSS) in relation to own duties and responsibilities eg role to support child or young person with special educational needs, expectations to meet standards eg CCLD 202 Help to keep children safe, CCLD 303 Promote children’s development, LDSS 320 Support the needs of children and young people with additional requirements, GCU 6 Reflect on, develop and maintain your practice

2 Be able to reflect on practice

The importance of reflective practice in continually improving the quality of service provided: aim to continually review progress to improve or change approaches, strategies, actions; benefits to children, young people, setting and individual of improved performance eg enables learning to take place and practice to improve, enables all relevant factors to be taken into account, provides clarity; identification of learning needs of individual undertaking reflection; Experiential Learning Cycle (Kolb)

How to reflect on practice: regular reflection; focused; use a structured approach; appropriate way of recording eg a reflective journal/diary, learning log, diary, critical incident journal; reflective questions eg description (what happened, what was the context); analysis (what went well, why, what did not go well, why, how do I feel about it, why did I do what I did); theory (what needs to be done differently, why); action (what needs to be done next, how); seek alternatives; keep an open mind; view from different perspectives; think about consequences; test ideas through comparing and contrasting; ask ‘what if?’; synthesise ideas; seek, identify and resolve questions

How own values, belief systems and experiences may affect working practice: self-awareness of values, beliefs, experiences affecting approach to working practices eg motivation, conformity, cooperation, consistency, respect, fairness, creativity, previous experiences of learning; ways own values affect practice positively and negatively eg conflict between own values, beliefs and standards
3 Be able to evaluate own performance

Evaluate own knowledge, performance and understanding against relevant standards: self-evaluation; consider extent to which own practice meets required national occupational standards for role in relation to roles and responsibilities; refer to reflections to appraise extent to which own knowledge and performance meets standards

Use of feedback to evaluate own performance and inform development: use feedback to raise awareness of strengths, identify areas for improvement, actions to be taken to improve performance; actively seek feedback; sources of feedback eg mentors, teachers, supervisor, colleagues; effective feedback develops confidence, competence, motivation

4 Be able to agree a personal development plan

Sources of support for planning and reviewing own development: sources of support eg mentor, supervisor, teacher, manager, local authority, training providers, awarding organisations, further and higher education institutions, Learn Direct, Teachers Development Agency (TDA), Children’s Workforce Development Council (CWDC)

Work with others to review and prioritise own learning needs, professional interests and development opportunities: others eg mentor, teacher, manager; performance review; appraisal; reflective journal; learning needs in relation to job role, progression, children and young people’s workforce needs; development opportunities eg training, qualifications, shadowing a more experienced colleague, on-the-job project work, coaching and mentoring less experienced colleagues

Work with others to agree own personal development plan: others eg mentor, teacher, manager, multi-agency professionals; personal development plan to manage development using reflection and structured planning on how to meet own goals; personal development plan templates

5 Be able to use learning opportunities and reflective practice to contribute to personal development

How learning activities affect practice: examples of learning activities eg formal lessons, training programmes/sessions, research activities, observing practice, practical activities; practice affected eg by applying newly learnt theories, using different approaches

How reflective practice leads to improved ways of working: examples of ways continually challenging current behaviour has developed and enhanced own practice and skills; how monitoring own practice has enabled change to take place

Record progress in relation to personal development: regular review of personal development plan; use reflective journal to consider progress made; evidence of achievements eg certificates; review goals and actions in light of progress

Unit summary

This unit is aimed at those who work in health or social care settings or with children or young people in a wide range of settings. The unit covers the topics of equality, diversity and inclusion, and how to promote these in the work setting.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

Assessment of this unit must adhere to the requirements of Skills for Care and Development’s assessment strategy.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the importance of diversity, equality and inclusion

Diversity: differences between individuals and groups eg culture, nationality, ability, ethnic origin, gender, age, religion, beliefs, sexual orientation, social class

Equality: promotion of individual rights; giving choice and opportunity; respect and fairness; services in response to individual need

Inclusion: individuals at the centre of planning and support; valuing diversity

Effects of discrimination: direct discrimination; indirect discrimination; institutional discrimination; individuals being treated less favourably than others; lack of opportunity; prejudice and injustice; harassment; stereotyping; labelling; delay in development; loss of self-esteem

Promoting equality: policies and procedures in workplace setting; inclusive practices and procedures; challenging discrimination; promoting rights; empowering; removing barriers eg to physical access, to effective communication; improving participation; promoting dignity and respect; individuals at the centre of planning and delivery of services

Supporting diversity: valuing differences between individuals; using positive images of individuals from diverse groups; celebrate differences

2 Be able to work in an inclusive way

Interactions: eg colleagues, adults using services, children and young people in childcare settings; active listening; knowledge of individuals eg beliefs, cultures, values, preferences; maintaining confidentiality as appropriate; using preferred method of communication

3 Be able to promote diversity, equality and inclusion

Inclusive practice: observe the social model of disability; engage in reflective practice; encourage choice; empower individuals; encourage independence; remove barriers to access; promote equality and rights; provide opportunity and access to services according to needs; use appropriate language

Support others to promote equality and rights: understand and share information about the needs of individuals; demonstrate ways to value differences and recognise similarities between individuals; highlight the benefits of diversity eg cultural enrichment, the arts, food, social cohesion; model the use of appropriate language; take part in staff training activities; follow procedures of the setting; demonstrate fair practice in interactions; acknowledge rights of others; provide information on disciplinary and complaints procedures

Challenging discrimination: identifying and challenging discriminatory behaviour; recognising stereotypes in attitudes or written materials; understanding and adapting own beliefs and attitudes; know how to report concerns; review and develop policy and procedures

Unit 11: Principles for Implementing Duty of Care in Health, Social Care or Children’s and Young People’s Settings

Unit code: SHC34
Unit reference number: R/601/1436
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 1
Guided learning hours: 5

Unit summary

This unit is aimed at those who work in health or social care settings or with children or young people in a wide range of settings. It considers how duty of care contributes to safe practice, and how to address dilemmas or complaints that may arise where there is a duty of care.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

Assessment of this unit must adhere to the requirements of Skills for Care and Development’s health assessment strategy.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how duty of care contributes to safe practice

Duty of care in own work role: accountability in particular areas eg exercising authority, managing risk, working safely, safeguarding children and young people, monitoring own behaviour and conduct, maintaining confidentiality, storing personal information appropriately, reporting concerns and allegations, making professional judgements, maintaining professional boundaries, avoiding favouritism, maintaining high standards of conduct outside the professional role

Contribution of duty of care to safeguarding and protection of individuals: safeguarding children and young people eg protection from sexual, physical or emotional harm, preserving respect and dignity, engendering trust; protecting children and young people eg safety in the environment, safe use of resources and equipment, prevention from intimidation or humiliation; protecting self eg ensuring against risk of allegation of misconduct or abuse, avoiding risk of accusations of malpractice

2 Know how to address conflicts or dilemmas that may arise between an individual’s rights and the duty of care

Potential conflicts or dilemmas and individual’s rights: conflicts and dilemmas eg attitudes, unsafe behaviour such as drug or alcohol abuse, truanting, staying out without permission, aggression and violence, bullying and intimidation, vandalism; individual’s rights eg respect for views and actions, safety and security, love and belonging, education, equality

Managing risks: eg implement policies and codes of practice, act in individual’s best interests, foster culture of openness and support, be consistent, maintain professional boundaries, follow systems for raising concerns

Support and advice about conflicts and dilemmas: eg line management, training and professional development, health professionals, school or college services, counselling services, mediation and advocacy services

3 Know how to respond to complaints

Responding to complaints: eg listen to complainant without judgement or prejudice, refer complainant according to policy, suggest that complaint is made in writing, report complaint to line manager or other designated person

Main points of agreed procedures for handling complaints: as appropriate to setting eg acknowledgement of complaint, stages within procedure, report and recommendations, review and appeals

Unit 12: Context and Principles for Early Years Provision

Unit code: EYMP 1
Unit reference number: J/600/9781
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 24

Unit summary

To familiarise learners with the requirements and principles of the early years framework within which they work. The unit also requires skills and knowledge relating to the implementation of the relevant framework.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles.

Learning outcome 2 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit content

1 Understand the purposes and principles of early years frameworks

Legal status and principles of the relevant early years framework: to the early years framework/s relevant to own home nation eg Early Years Foundation Stage (UK), Every Child Matters (England); each framework sets aims to provide quality and consistency in approach providing for young children’s care, learning and wellbeing

Influence of different approaches to work with children in the early years on current provision in the UK: influence of early years theorists, pioneers and approaches eg Reggio Emilia, High/Scope, Steiner, Montessori, Forest Schools; Early Years and Childcare component of The Common Core of Skills and Knowledge

Reasons for personal and individual approach to learning and development in early years frameworks: eg places individual child at centre of all learning and development, enhances emotional wellbeing of child, shows respect for individuality of the child, child needs to have the opportunity to develop self-awareness, the ability to manage their own emotions, to empathise with others and to handle relationships, wishes and feelings of child identified and taken account of, child involved in decision making as appropriate to age and abilities

2 Be able to provide environments within the work setting that support and extend children’s development and learning in their early years

Areas within the work setting which support and extend children’s development and learning: prepared area should be safe, stimulating, attractive, well-organised environment, personalised, inclusive environment, encourages participation, meets individual and group needs; all regulatory requirements are met; environment provides appropriate risk and challenge; appropriate resources and equipment selected and prepared; sufficient resources and equipment made available in the area

Monitoring and observing children using the area: eg event samples, checklists, asking children questions and interacting with them, supervising and encouraging without being intrusive, selection of activities appropriate to child’s age and abilities, recognising when adult intervention is not required, explaining and instructing before observing (as appropriate), objectivity, checking findings with others, reporting and recording information accurately, record-keeping systems and procedures, assessment of learning, confidentiality requirements

Effectiveness of the area in extending children’s learning and development: considering whether area prepared in accordance with key features of development of child including physical, intellectual, language, gender, emotional, social; age appropriate; stage appropriate; requiring specialist support with learning difficulties and/or disabilities/sensory impairment; evaluating progress made by individual children as a result of participation in the prepared area

Effectiveness of the area in encouraging high expectations of child’s achievement: provision for ‘stretching’ child, appropriate provision of risk or challenge, linking to other opportunities for development

Effectiveness of the area in meeting the needs of individual children: knowledge of children’s needs, identifying individual needs, monitoring progress, ability to use alternatives and adapt environment, materials, equipment and timeframes to meet needs of individual children, accommodating a variety of learning methods and learning styles, appropriate arrangements for children with special needs or disabilities, needs of bilingual and multilingual children, needs of children with English as an additional language, children involved in decisions regarding use of the area (as appropriate to age and abilities)

3 Understand how to work in partnership with carers

Partnership model of working with carers: current legislation applicable to own home nation; the Children Act 2004; recognising and valuing parents as the child’s first and most enduring educator, working in close partnerships with carers in a proactive way, respecting and valuing their experience, knowledge and input

Barriers that hinder a positive working relationship with carers: barriers eg communication barriers, language and vocabulary, time constraints, lack of confidence, lack of trust, disability, negative attitude, aggression, negative past experiences of similar situations; carer’s negative beliefs about or perception of self as a carer, ways to overcome barriers eg encouraging carers to participate in sessions and activities, valuing their input, translation of newsletters and other documents into home language of carers, home visits, work with colleagues and others to apply and share ideas of best practice for removal of barriers

Strategies to support carers regarding partnership opportunities: eg plan and implement appropriate manner and time of communication with carers, listen to concerns and comments of carer in a non-judgemental manner, emphasise the qualities and skills that carers have and how they can benefit their child and those involved in caring for the child, highlight opportunities for involvement without exerting pressure or sense of obligation, highlight benefits of involvement for child, carer and others, involve parents in decision making and offer flexibility and choices as appropriate

Effective multi-agency working operating within early years provision benefits children and carers: enhancing prospects for positive outcomes for children, valuing and respecting roles and responsibilities, maintaining confidentiality, working towards a shared ethos or aim, shared procedures and working methods, effective communication

Unit 13: Promote Learning and Development in the Early Years

Unit code: EYMP 2
Unit reference number: L/600/9782
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 5
Guided learning hours: 40

Unit summary

This unit aims to prepare the learner to work with children in supporting their learning and development within the relevant early years framework within the UK home nation. The unit assesses competence in planning to meet children’s needs and providing and supporting learning and development activities.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3, 4 and 5 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the purpose and requirements of the areas of learning and development in the relevant early years framework

Areas of learning and development and how these are interdependent: as outlined in the required framework for early years provision within the relevant UK home nation eg EYFS (UK); areas of learning and development including personal, social and emotional development; communication, language and literacy; problem-solving; reasoning and numeracy; knowledge and understanding of the world; physical development; links between various areas of development eg speech, language and communication skills support learning, emotional, behaviour and social development, child with speech and language difficulties may exhibit frustrated or aggressive behaviour, a baby who crawls early has increased opportunity to explore their environment, learn about the world around them and develop and fine and gross motor skills, children who form secure attachments with parent or carer may find social development easier, making friends with other children and playing cooperatively

Documented outcomes for children that form part of the relevant early years framework: desired outcomes for children and young people as in the required framework for early years provision within the relevant UK home nation eg The Early Years Foundation Stage (UK) sets out to achieve the 5 Every Child Matters outcomes, namely Stay Safe, Being Healthy, Enjoying and Achieving, Making a Positive Contribution, Achieving Economic Wellbeing

Assessment and recording of documented outcomes: eg through recorded learning journeys, observations, planning, EYFS profiles

2 Be able to plan work with children and support children’s participation in planning

Plan work using different sources: children’s interests and preferences; observations and assessments; information provided by family or carers; ideas from other professionals and colleagues

Encourage the child’s participation and involvement in planning their own learning and development activities: child-centred approach to planning; led by child’s current interests and developmental needs; maintain child’s interest and motivation eg by adapting activities and resources as appropriate, allowing child to express their ideas and/or preferences, encouraging child to make choices, make use of feedback from child as appropriate to their age and abilities

Support the planning cycle for children’s learning and development; regular observations and how they are used to inform planning; the use of assessment to support planning; the role of assessment in enabling adults to plan appropriate learning activities and experiences to the needs of the child; reflection as an integral part of planning
3 Be able to promote children’s learning and development according to the requirements of the relevant early years framework

How practitioners promote children’s learning within the relevant early years framework: effective organisation and management of the learning environment, sensitive interventions, ‘scaffolding’ learning; recognition of a child’s particular interest, likes or dislikes; modelling positive behaviour and attitudes towards learning; giving praise and encouragement, providing a balance between child-initiated and adult-initiated activity and play; providing a range of stimulating activities and experiences that cover all of the areas of learning and aspects of development

Prepare, set out and support activities and experiences in each area of the relevant early years framework: prepare and set out learning activities and experiences eg select and prepare the resources required for planned learning activities, adapt resources to meet the learning and development needs of children, ensure the activities and experiences meet relevant health, safety, security and access requirements; support learning activities and experiences; use a range of learning support strategies to meet the developmental needs of children eg creative use of language and modelling of language that is accurate and grammatically correct in order to extend children’s language development, support children during learning activities by offering encouragement and praise to build self-esteem of children and contribute to their emotional/social development, support children in area of acceptable physical risk or challenge during physical play activities

4 Be able to engage with children in activities and experience that supports their learning and development

Work alongside children, engaging with them in order to support their learning and development: eg sensitive intervention without taking over, talking about the task being carried out by the child, the use of open questions, listening to responses and encouraging sustained shared thinking, provide activity related language, ‘scaffold’ learning, encourage development of communication skills, problem-solving and curiosity

Importance of engaging with a child to support sustained shared thinking: EYFS states that sustained shared thinking should be a part of a child’s creativity and critical thinking (EYFS 4.3); EYFS refers to importance of sustained shared thinking in all six areas of learning and development (EYFS 4.4); importance of shared sustained thinking in the overall effectiveness of a setting in facilitating child’s learning and development; shared sustained thinking enables children’s learning to be taken further and deeper than could be achieved without the shared experience; extends and supports child’s thinking, reasoning and problem-solving skills; helps child make relevant connections in setting; facilitates development of language and communication skills by encouraging child to express ideas; encourages social and emotional development through collaboration and cooperation between child and others in the setting as child works together with others to develop idea or skill

Language that is accurate and appropriate in order to support and extend children’s learning when undertaking activities: eg the use of correct mathematical terms that enhance the child’s learning and understanding of mathematical concepts, open questions designed to promote and extend children’s thinking, curiosity, problem-solving, language and communication skills, modelling of language that is accurate and grammatically correct in order to extend children’s vocabulary

5 Be able to review own practice in supporting the learning and development of children in their early years

Reflect on own practice in supporting learning and development of children in their early years: keeping a record of development through log, diary or other format appropriate to setting; identifying positive and negative aspects eg organisation, own role, resources used; review progress; reflect on outcomes of own practice for individual children

Use reflection to make changes in own practice: the purpose of reflection and reviewing own practice; how reflection can positively influence future practice, inform planning, improve provision; use of self-assessment and personal development plan; seek feedback on changes to make in future practice; identify training needs; access appropriate sources of training and support; identify opportunities to develop or acquire necessary knowledge and skills

Unit 14: Promote Children’s Welfare and Wellbeing in the Early Years

Unit code: EYMP 3
Unit reference number: Y/600/9784
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 6
Guided learning hours: 45

Unit summary

The key focus of this unit is the welfare and wellbeing of young children. It assesses the learner’s ability to provide basic care in a hygienic environment. It includes understanding nutritional needs and the promotion of health and wellbeing.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles.

Learning outcomes 2, 4 and 6 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit content

1 Understand the welfare requirements of the relevant early years framework

Welfare requirements and guidance of the relevant early years framework: welfare requirements that all early years providers must meet, regardless of type, size or funding of the setting; the Practice Guidance for the Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) or other framework relevant to own home nation; meeting the legal requirements in a way that reflects the needs of the individual children’s own care and is appropriate to setting

Lines of reporting and responsibility within the work setting: how to recognise when a child is displaying behaviour that is cause for concern; duty to report concerns and problems; who to report concerns to within the setting and how to report concerns; appropriate methods for recording concerns; procedures and strategies for reviewing progress of child eg team meetings, documentation and feedback, sharing of information and/or making referrals as appropriate

2 Be able to keep early years children safe in the work setting

Safe supervision of children while allowing the child to explore and manage risk and challenge: understanding that risk and challenge important for the child’s development eg development of independence, confidence, reasoning skills; understanding the importance of following policies and procedures for health and safety while balancing child’s right to explore and make choices; allowing child to take experience acceptable challenges and risks as appropriate to their age and abilities; intervening sensitively and appropriately when child engages in unsafe behaviour or attempts to take unacceptable risk; explaining why certain challenges or risks are unacceptable in context of the setting (according to age and abilities of child)

Systems for supporting children’s safety when receiving children into the setting: obtain necessary information from parents or carer in advance of a child being admitted to the provision; ‘necessary information’ includes emergency contact numbers, details of the child’s special dietary requirements, preferences or food allergies the child may have, the child’s special health requirements, information about who has legal contact with the child, who has parental responsibility for the child

Systems for supporting children to ensure their safety on departure: appropriate safety and security arrangements for indoor and outdoor premises eg signing-out forms, use of entry phone systems, security codes for doors at main access points; practitioners must only release children into the care of individuals expressly named by the parent or carer; practitioners must ensure that children do not leave the premises unsupervised; practitioners must take steps to prevent intruders and unauthorised persons entering the premises

Systems for supporting children’s safety during off-site visits: legal and organisational responsibilities for safeguarding children; local and national policies for off-site visits; health and safety policies applicable to off-site visits; providers must carry out a full risk assessment for each type of outing and take all reasonable steps to minimise risk to children and adult carers; assessment of required adult to child ratios must be carried out and strictly enforced; reporting cтверждение or incidents to the person responsible for health and safety matters and taking appropriate actions; reporting concerns or incidents to the person responsible for coordinating off-site visits and taking appropriate actions

*Inside and outside environment, equipment and materials are checked and used *to ensure safety: premises and equipment should be clean and safe; staff fully awoj of the requirements of health and safety legislation, including hygiene requirements; informing and keeping staff up to date on matters relating to health and safety; stafiparticipating in health and safety training as necessary; planning and carrying out cleaning routines; planning and carrying out health and safety checks on equipment and indoor and outdoor play areas; regular cleaning of equipment and resources; sterilising baby toys to avoid cross-infections; checking for breakages or damage to toys and equipment; evaluation eg of cleaning routines and health and safety checks, of hygiene practices

*Minimum requirements for space and staff ratios are necessary for the safety of *the children: minimum space requirement for children under two years is 3.5 m² per child; minimum space requirement for children over two years is 2.5 m² per child; minimum space requirement for children aged three to five years is 2.3 m² per child; required staff to child ratio for children under two years is 1–3 children per staff member; required staff to child ratio for children aged two to three years is 1–4 children per staff member; required staff to child ratio for children aged three to five years is 1–13 children per staff member

*Importance of staff and space ratios for children’s safety: allows children and adults to move safely and freely within the setting; allows appropriate adult supervision and children to be kept within sight of adults; allows procedures to be followed safely and promptly in event of emergency eg evacuation of children from a building in case of fire

3 Understand the importance of promoting positive health and wellbeing for early years children

*Promoting children’s health and wellbeing in an early years work setting: understanding that children learn and develop best when they are healthy, safe and secure, when their individual needs are met and when they have positive relationships with the adults caring for them

*Roles of professionals and professional advice: providers need to create settings which are welcoming, safe and stimulating; children given opportunities to enjoy learning through play; children supported to grow in confidence and to fulfil their potential; individual needs of children taken into account and met; child-centred and collaborative approach to planning and reviewing development of child; early identification and intervention in situations where there is concern about the health and/or wellbeing of a child; referral, support and information sharing as appropriate in order to secure positive outcomes for child experiencing difficulties

4 Be able to support hygiene and prevention of cross infection in the early years setting

*Keeping equipment and areas in the setting clean and hygienic and preventing cross-infection: understanding and complying with all health and safety requirements regarding hygiene and prevention of cross-infection; participating in cleaning routines; hand-washing; regular cleaning of tables, floors and other surfaces; sterilising babies’ toys and equipment; dealing promptly and appropriately with spillages and related incidents; removal of outside footwear in areas where babies may be in close contact with the floor; ensure visitors, parents and carers observe policy of no outdoor footwear in babies’ area; adequate ventilation of environment

Prepare and store food, formula and breast milk safely according to health and safety guidelines: ensure correct storage and handling of food or drink that needs to be kept cold eg use a fridge thermometer, cool food quickly, cover or wrap food; observe requirements for storage of raw foods; clearly label foods and feeding bottles; maintain designated milk preparations area; formula milk quantities for different aged babies; making up feeds in line with manufacturer’s guidelines; breast milk to be clearly labelled with date expressed, baby’s and mother’s name; hand-washing when dealing with food, formula or breast milk

5 Understand how to ensure children in their early years receive high quality, balanced nutrition to meet their growth and development needs

Balanced meals, snacks and drinks for children in their early years following current government guidance on nutritional needs: children should be provided with healthy meals and other healthy snacks and drinks as appropriate; use of menu plans to ensure balanced meals; practitioners should obtain, record and act on information from parents about a child’s dietary needs and use this information when planning meals; fresh drinking water must be available to children at all times; awareness of the requirements of a balanced meal for a child eg different nutrients and proportions of nutrients, proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals, water, fibre, recommended daily amounts, suitable sized portions; nutritional requirements of babies before, during and after weaning on to solid foods

Follow carer’s instructions in respect of their child’s food allergies or intolerances and other dietary requirements: practitioners must follow parental guidance on food allergies and intolerances in order to avoid serious medical problems for children; understanding that some food allergies can be potentially fatal; awareness of the most common food allergies eg cow’s milk, nuts, dairy products, strawberries, tomatoes; recognise the possible presence of most common allergenic food items in other foods eg presence of nuts in puddings or pastry; presence of tomatoes in cooked meat dishes

Dietary requirements of different cultures or religious groups: religious or cultural aspects of food and dietary principles of religious or cultural groups eg Halaal, Kosher, Hindu vegetarianism, ethical/moral reasons for being a vegetarian or vegan; implications for the preparation and storage of food within settings eg keeping some food groups or food items in separate areas

Educating children and adults in effective food management: provide accurate and appropriate information on portion control and food groups; encourage healthy food choices; appropriate procedures for supporting underweight and overweight children; food phobias; modelling healthy eating habits

Support children’s personal routines showing respect to the child and using opportunities to encourage learning and development: care routines include care of skin, hair, teeth; allowing for differences based on parent or carer’s choice, ethnicity and culture; sun awareness and the need for sunscreen, hats and keeping children out of the sun at certain times; babies should be kept out of the sun; appropriate care of nappy area; dressing and undressing; toileting routines; supporting children to achieve independence and self-care as appropriate to their age and abilities; encouraging and modelling good personal hygiene with children; engaging with children during care routines to support learning and development as well as to calm and reassure them eg singing songs and rhymes during nappy changing time, use of distraction if child is unhappy about application of sunscreen, teach children names of clothing items during dressing and undressing.

Regulations concerning the management of medicines and how these are interpreted in the work setting: settings are required to implement an effective policy on administering medicines; setting’s policy must include effective management systems to support individual children with medical needs; settings must keep written records of all medicines administered to children, and inform parents accordingly; settings must obtain prior written permission for each and every medicine from parents before any medication is given; medicines should not usually be administered unless they have been prescribed for that child by a doctor, dentist, nurse or pharmacist; non-prescription medication eg pain and fever relief or teething gel may be administered, but only with the prior written consent of the parent and only when there is a health reason to do so; a child under 16 should never be given medicine containing aspirin unless it has been prescribed for that child by a doctor; medicines should be stored strictly in accordance with product instructions and in the original container in which dispensed; medicines must include prescriber’s instructions for administration.

Protection of self when lifting and handling children and equipment in the work setting: understanding of legal requirements governing manual handing procedures in the workplace including duties of employers and employees; participating in staff training regarding health and safety and manual handling procedures; awareness of situations in childcare setting that can contribute to injury of staff eg working at low levels, transferring a child to a cot, pram or feeding chair, walking with a child; understanding how to protect oneself from injury whilst lifting and handling young children eg reduce risk of back injury by using correct methods of bending and lifting, understanding how to protect oneself from injury while lifting and handling equipment eg using dual/team lifting.

Unit 15: Professional Practice in Early Years Settings

Unit code: EYMP 4
Unit reference number: H/600/9786
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 20

Unit summary
This unit covers the competences required for the application of principles and values in day-to-day practice. The unit includes the importance of evidence based practice. It revisits the issues of professional practice, reflection and review and requires a focused approach to the development of strategies to address professional development in areas identified as challenging.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the scope and purposes of the early years sector

   Range of early years settings reflects the scope and purpose of the sector: different types of settings; private, voluntary, independent and the range of provision and services each provides; the role of children’s centres, nursery classes, nursery units, nursery schools, private day nurseries, private nursery schools, kindergartens, childminders, nannies, extended services for children and young people

2 Understand current policies and influences on the early years sector

   Current policies, frameworks and influences and their impact on early years practice: as appropriate to the relevant UK home nation eg The Children Act 1989, Every Child Matters, Early Years Foundation Stage, National Curriculum, Local Authority initiatives, central government initiatives; other influences eg the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC), current equalities legislation, current research; social and economic influences eg family work patterns, financial constraints; range of current policies, frameworks and influences has significant impact on the early years sector; aims to maintain high standards of practice and to provide the best possible care for children; emphasises multi-agency working and child-centred approach to early years practice

   Influence of evidence-based practice: observation schedules and routines; formal and non-formal observations; reflective practice; how these can influence work with children in their early years eg emphasis on quality and accountability, requirement on staff training and review of procedures and/or policies in order to keep up to date with new evidence in the provision of health and educational provision, links to evidence-based planning or strategies with clear goals and expected outcomes in terms of positive outcomes for individual children

3 Be able to support diversity, inclusion and participation in early years settings

   Inclusion: placing individuals at the centre of planning and support; valuing diversity

   Participation: facilitating and encouraging all individuals, including children, to be meaningfully involved in decisions, practices and activities that affect their lives; removing barriers to participation

   Importance of anti-discriminatory/anti-bias practice: role of the practitioner in modelling good practice; valuing the individual child’s culture and family background, anti-discriminatory and anti-bias practice
can impact positively on learning, development, self-image, self-esteem and disposition to learning; application of anti-discriminatory/anti-bias practice eg ensuring everyone is represented in the setting, inclusion of disabled children in all relevant activities as appropriate to their abilities, positive images in books and posters, dual language text in books, modification of equipment to ensure accessibility to activities and experiences, celebrating festivals and acknowledging special events for all the cultures represented in the setting, appropriate staff training, communicating with parents and carers to aid effective planning, awareness of and respecting parental wishes, cultural differences and diverse parenting approaches

Active participation of children in decision making affecting their lives promotes the achievement of positive outcomes: children involved in decision making are more likely to successfully meet targets, goals, action plans and positive outcomes; promotes learning and development of the child eg confidence, independence, thinking skills, accountability; motivates child and enhances sense of self-worth

4 Review own practice in promoting diversity, inclusion and participation in early years settings

Importance of reviewing own practice: helps to make sense of and learn from experiences; identify new opportunities; develops skills and techniques; understanding what has been achieved; thinking about aspects that worked well or not so well; considering what could have been done differently

Reflective analysis of own practice: cycle of reflection on practice; reflect in detail on own practice and identify what went well, what could be done more effectively; SWOT analysis of own practice to support the identification of strengths and challenges; own contribution to the work of a team of practitioners; whether own practice is contributing to meeting learning and developmental needs of individual children

Dealing with areas of difficulty and challenge: action planning to tackle challenges and to support continued professional development; ways to keep up to date with developments in policy and legislation; identifying and accessing appropriate sources of training, support and development eg line manager, subject experts, outside agencies

Unit 16: Support Children’s Speech, Language and Communication

Unit code: EYMP 5
Unit reference number: T/600/9789
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 30

Unit summary

This unit aims to provide the basis for understanding the importance of speech, language and communication for a child’s overall development and explores the ways in which those working with children can support the development of speech, language and communication skills.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the importance of speech, language and communication for children’s overall development

Speech, language and communication needs of children: 0-5: verbal communication, voice tone, sound patterns, repetition, rhyme, alliteration, naming familiar objects; non-verbal communication, eye contact, facial expression, hand gestures, pointing; social interactions, peers, parents, teachers, other adults; opportunities to follow simple instructions; use of resources, picture books, treasure baskets, story sacks, ‘telephone’, music, songs, dance, role play; work with parents/carers within boundaries of own role

5–11: verbal communication, storytelling, news, drama, role play, anecdotes from personal experience, past, present and future, social interactions between peers, parents, teachers, other adults; greetings; good byes; manners; opportunities to follow complex instructions; support sustained conversations; opinions; work with parents, carers within boundaries of own role

11–16: verbal communication, discussion; review of books, articles, film, TV, drama, music; check understanding; summarise; join in social interactions; interest in personal, social news; awareness of social networking sites; rapport; trust; openness; praise; support; work with parents, carers within boundaries of own role

16–19: active listening; reflect back; body language; open questions; non-judgemental; empathy; understanding; shared decisions; consult; negotiate; discuss; share opinions; involve parents, carers as appropriate within boundaries of own role

Development of speech, language and communication: theories of language development eg nature versus nurture, Piaget, Vygotsky, Bruner and Chomsky’s theory of language development, four approaches to studying language development (normative approach, behaviourist approach, nature theory and social constructivist theory); role of the adult to support language and communication skills which in turn support the child’s learning, emotional, behaviour, social development; speech language and communication needs of individual children eg those with disabilities or special educational needs, those for whom English is an additional language, bilingual or multilingual children

Speech, language and communication skills support children’s learning, emotional, behaviour and social development: communication; listening; literacy; understanding; expression; explanation; discussion; instructions; interaction; empathy; care; expectations; relationships

Potential impact of speech, language and communication difficulties on the overall development of a child, both currently and in the longer term: limited ability to play with others; limited ability to build relationships; limited social skills; poor or inappropriate behaviour; isolation; low self-esteem; low confidence; poor communication; lack of interaction; poor literacy skills; visual impairment; hearing impairment; motor impairment; difficulties with understanding information, expressing themselves, understanding what others are saying, making friends or relating to adults; inability to access the curriculum

2 Understand the importance and the benefits of adults supporting the speech, language and communication development of the children in own setting

Ways in which adults can effectively support and extend the speech, language and communication development of children during the early years: provide supportive language environment; appropriate use of words and level of language by adults when communicating with children and parents or carers; understanding and valuing the importance of a child’s first language or home language; naming familiar objects; non-verbal communication, eye contact, facial expression, hand gestures, pointing; social interactions, peers, parents, teachers, other adults; use of resources, picture books, treasure baskets, story sacks, ‘telephone’, nursery rhymes, music, songs, dance

Positive effects of adult support for children and their carers: improved communication skills, listening, body language, vocabulary, conversation conventions; increased levels of social interaction; positive behaviour; self-esteem; self-confidence; positive relationships with peers, parents, carers, families, other adults; ability to follow verbal instructions; emotional development, increased self-confidence; inclusion; more positive disposition towards learning

Levels of speech and language development vary between children entering early years provision and need to be taken into account during settling in and planning: children’s speech and language development can vary dramatically due a range of reasons eg lack of exposure to language, hearing difficulties, health issues, illness, low confidence; assess child’s language development through observations; initiate planning procedures within boundaries of own role; involve parents or carer in developing plan for child; develop personalised targets; positive, realistic outcomes and timeframes; assess individual and group needs; create appropriate materials and resources eg audio, visual, tactile, ICT; implement plans; seek support eg therapists; engage in feedback; conduct appropriate reviews

3 Be able to provide support for the speech, language and communication development of the children in own setting

Models of providing support taking into account the age, specific need, abilities, home language, interests of the children in own setting: eg adapting own language, scaffolding children’s language, giving children adequate time and opportunity to communicate, facilitating communication opportunities between children, learning through play and discussion, working with carers, stimulating visual environment, first hand experiences, familiarity with words for ‘special objects’, appropriate words, use of Makaton and sign language, lip reading and ICT, specialist communication aids, cue cards, picture cards, photographs, favourite toys, dual language books, posters, familiar objects, hobbies, interests, involvement, circle time, singing, reading, poems and rhymes, puppets,
How day-to-day activities can be used to encourage speech, language and communication development in young children: the role of the adult in planning for and accommodating language opportunities in groups, on a one-to-one basis and between children; play; structured activities; opportunities for self-expression; discussion; interaction with peers, parents, teachers, other adults; opportunities for one-to-one conversation; interventions; praise; constructive feedback; rewards; sanctions; adapt own language style, age, stage; engage with and involve parents, carers, family members, other professionals

How to work with children to develop speech, language and communication on a one-to-one basis and in groups: helping children feel welcome and valued; encouraging children participation in making decisions and choices; negotiating with children according to age and stage of development eg asking questions, encouraging children to express ideas and suggestions; supporting children's development of thinking skills; showing respect for individuality, the feelings of others and group versus individual needs; listening to children and maintaining children's interest; monitoring children’s progress; referral to others; adapting strategies for different learning needs and styles; supporting positive relationships between children and other adults in the setting, eg helping children understand the importance of clear communication with adults or explaining the importance and value of positive relationships with adults

Evaluate the effectiveness of speech, language and communication support for children in own setting: records, contribute to record-keeping systems; observation; checklists; engagement; discussion; assessments; team meetings, staff meetings, parent/carer liaison, multi-agency groups within boundaries of own role; development norms; cultural factors; individual needs; attitudes; behaviours; Common Core of Skills and Knowledge for the Children and Young People’s Workforce, Early Years Foundation Stage Curriculum, National Curriculum, Every Child a Reader, Every Child a Writer, Every Child Matters; benchmark; review; reflect

4 Be able to contribute to maintaining a positive environment that supports speech, language and communication

The importance of the environment in supporting speech, language and communication development: eg environment can encourage children to speak and value what they have to say; adults should model correct speech, speech and communication that is age appropriate in order to support children’s speech, language and communication development; importance of relaxed atmosphere where adults and children can share experiences and develop two-way conversations; environments should offer plenty of opportunities to speak, sing, tell stories, share rhymes and talk; appropriateness of other environmental factors eg displays, lighting, sound levels, comfort; appropriate learning activities and range of resources available; visual, sensory and audio stimuli; relationships within the setting; staffing profile, range of roles and levels of responsibility, accessibility

Review evidence about the key factors that provide a supportive speech, language and communication environment: physical environment; roles and responsibilities; training, development needs; appropriate involvement of others; records; development norms; cultural factors; individual needs; attitudes; behaviours; importance of play; specialist support; parent involvement; government reports and legislation eg Childcare Act 2006, Common Core of Skills and Knowledge for the Children and Young People’s Workforce, Early Years Foundation Stage Curriculum, National Curriculum, Every Child a Reader, Every Child a Writer, Every Child Matters

Demonstrate how settings use the environment to provide effective support for speech, language and communication for all children: eg welcoming and happy environment, emphasis on integration, respecting diversity, tolerance, understanding of the children with whom they mix and learn, teamwork, parental involvement, multi-agency support, age-appropriate activities and resources, minimising distractions such as lighting, noise, temperature, ventilation, appropriate policies of setting such as behaviour management, inclusion, equal opportunities, special needs, curriculum, staff development, recruitment and staff deployment, utilising other professionals, staff adapt own behaviour and communication for children as appropriate, consideration of age, ethnicity, needs and abilities, bilingual or multilingual settings, conducive learning environment, displays, comfort, learning activities, range of resources, visual stimuli, sensory stimuli, audio stimuli, sound, engage with children and young people, build trust and relationship

This unit provides a basis of knowledge, understanding and competence in order to make effective contributions to the assessment and planning for the lives of children and young people in need. The unit stresses the importance of children and young people engaging with the process of assessment and planning.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how to place children and young people at the centre of assessment and planning

Value of a child-centred model of assessment and planning: planning addresses real needs of child and takes into account individual age and stage of development, likes and dislikes, individual targets and goals; ensures all targets and goals are appropriate, fair; children are more interested in activities and experiences that are designed to be relevant to them specifically and therefore participate and learn more effectively

Identify the needs of children and young people: eg through observation, working in close partnership with parents and colleagues

Importance of working with others to assess the needs of children and young people to inform planning: by working with others to assess the needs of children and young people, practitioners are able to develop a fuller, more accurate picture of the needs of the child and therefore plan more effectively; ‘others’ may include parents, carers, foster carers, residential workers, social workers, psychologists, doctors, support workers, police, youth justice, occupational therapists, speech and language therapists

Analyse current evidence about effective methods of ensuring participation and engagement of children and young people of all ages and level of understanding in assessment and planning: appropriate venue/location, contributions through play, children and young people involved in setting ground rules, written contributions, contributions through pictures, individual learning styles, likes and dislikes, particular interests, activities and experiences are well planned, engaging and build on previous experience

Importance of permanency planning for children and young people: eg provides opportunity for assessment of the child or young person’s needs and how best to meet those needs, takes into account the past and present circumstances of child or young person, enables effective plans to be made for long-term future of child or young person, gives child or young person a greater sense of security and belonging

2 Be able to participate in assessment and planning for children and young people towards the achievement of positive outcomes

Engage with children or young people and their carers in expressing their needs and aspirations to inform planning: eg through focus groups, feedback forms, ‘open time/drop in’ sessions, small-group activities, circle time activities, group council, feedback can be used to directly inform planning

Encourage a child or young person to plan realistic, achievable but challenging goals: goals and targets need to be appropriate and specific, reflecting both age and stage of development; takes into account resources and time available
How the goals and targets identified will support the achievement of positive outcomes: eg how the plans will be used with the children or young people, goals and targets referred to regularly, progress will be monitored, achievement and success would be recognised and celebrated, goals and targets reviewed as necessary

Develop a plan with a child or young person and others to meet their needs with a focus on the achievement of positive outcomes: goals and targets need to be realistic and appropriate; reflecting both age and stage of development; taking into account resources available and realistic timescales; child or young person involved in making decisions about development of plan

How to support a child or young person and others to understand and agree the goals, targets and outcomes of the plan: show understanding of the value and importance of involving children or young people in the development of their own development plan; plans should be age and stage appropriate, children and young people’s ideas should be used to inform the setting of goals and targets; understanding that if children and young people do not participate in or agree to the identified goals and targets then they are unlikely to achieve them

3 Be able to work with children and young people to implement the plan for the achievement of positive outcomes

A child, young person and others should be provided with clear information about the roles and responsibilities of all those involved in the plan: eg clear communication and instructions, using language that is appropriate to age and stage of development of child or young person, use of one-to-one meetings or group sessions

Agree with the child or young person and others how goals and targets will be measured: how targets are going to be measured, timescales, how frequently monitored, how recorded, what happens when a goal or target is accomplished

How a positive approach is used to encourage children or young people to work towards the achievement of goals and targets: give children or young people sense of control and choice as appropriate; encourage participation in decision making; discuss targets for work or behaviour; give constructive feedback; focus on strengths and progress rather than weaknesses

How progress towards goals and targets is agreed and recorded with the child or young person: collaborative approach; takes into account views and ideas of child or young person; constructive and positive approach to feedback; agreeing a method of recognising and recording progress which is clear and acceptable to all concerned; baselines for evaluation; key success criteria

4 Be able to work with children and young people to review and update plans

How to record relevant information to prepare for a review: eg clear concise factual information, dates, times, people’s name, clear indication that child or young person’s view has been taken into account, records kept confidential according to requirements of the setting, correct storage of records,

How to support children and young people to contribute to reviewing achievement of goals and targets: regular review with child or young person; listening carefully to feedback and perceptions of child or young person; self-evaluation and a renegotiation of targets as appropriate to age and stage of development, rewards and sanctions when necessary

How to contribute to reviews based on measurement of progress of the child or young person: eg discussion with other professionals as appropriate, using own knowledge and experience, using knowledge gained from own and others’ consultations, offer feedback on successes, and challenges, consider whether needs of individual child or young person were met, consider successful strategies, unsuccessful strategies, alternative strategies

Present information to reviews about aspects of the plan that are working well and those that need to be changed: what evidence is required to support claims, records, evidence from child or young person, evidence from practice

Unit 18: Promote the Wellbeing and Resilience of Children and Young People

Unit code: SCMP2
Unit reference number: F/600/9780
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 30

Unit summary

This unit provides the basis of knowledge, understanding and competence to support children and young people to be well and happy and to face the challenges they encounter. It includes the promotion of health as well as promoting self-esteem and supporting children to recognise and value who they are.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development's QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
1 Understand the importance of promoting positive wellbeing and resilience of children and young people

Factors that influence the wellbeing of children and young people: social, emotional, physical, economic, health eg poor attachments, relationship difficulties, discrimination and racism, emotional insecurity, poor health, low self-esteem, poor diet, lack of regular exercise, lack of rest and sleep, poor housing conditions, lack of prompt medical or dental treatment, lack of preventive health measures

Importance of resilience for children and young people: for development of self-esteem and positive disposition towards learning; resilience key to coping with change and transition; development of perseverance and independence; make sense of and cope with challenges and setbacks; relate to others in positive and appropriate ways

Analyse effective ways of promoting wellbeing and resilience in the work setting: eg encouraging children and young people to take part in physical activity or sport, develop hobbies and interests, group activities, discussion groups, promote independence, recognition of choices, promote self-help skills, involving parents and carers in the planning and organisation of activities, recognise and promote skills and abilities of child or young person

Ways of working with carers to promote wellbeing and resilience in children and young people: actively involve carers in the planning and implementing of a wide range of activities organised for children and young people; encourage participation and involvement in activities and experiences, be a good role model

2 Be able to support the development of children and young people’s social and emotional identity and self-esteem in line with their age and level of understanding

Why social and emotional identity is important to the wellbeing and resilience of children and young people: helps children and young people to recognise and value their place in family, the community and wider society; developing a sense of belonging and citizenship; ability to form positive relationships; need to have a positive self-image in order to feel emotionally secure; children and young people who feel emotionally secure are more likely to have a positive disposition to learning

How to support children and young people to identify with their own self-image and identity: ensure each child or young person is represented in the setting through displays, posters and other materials; positive images in books and other learning resources; recognition of respect for individuality of the child or young person and planning activities and assessments accordingly; encourage self-image and identity through eg cultural and ethnic networks, interest in and celebration of all cultures and ethnicities represented in the setting, life story work, positive role models, visitors and visits to relevant establishments
How to encourage children and young people to recognise and value their own abilities, talents and achievements: spend time with child or young person in creative activities and discuss the positive outcomes and benefits of the activities for self and/or others, encourage child or young person to focus on strengths and achievements rather than weaknesses, celebrate successes and progress, use of constructive feedback and praise, emphasise and demonstrate that skills and abilities are transferable from one area or activity to another.

How to support children and young people to be involved in decisions and have as much control as possible over their lives: give children or young people sense of control and choice as appropriate; various ways eg encourage participation in decision making by listening to needs and ideas of child or young person, discuss targets for work or behaviour, give constructive feedback, focus on strengths and progress rather than weaknesses, support development of resilience, provide accurate information about sources of help and support.

How goals and targets identified as part of the planning process contribute towards building the self-esteem of children or young people: completion of targets and reaching goals give children and young people a sense of achievement and success; has a positive impact on the self-esteem and motivation of child or young person; goals should be challenging but realistic and achievable for child or young person.

3 Be able to provide children and young people with a positive outlook on their lives.

Work with children or young people in a manner that is open, trustworthy, respectful and reliable: demonstrate child-centred approach in interactions with children and young people; emphasis on meeting needs of individual child or young person; involve child or young person in decisions affecting their lives; inclusive approach that ensures all children and young people in the setting are taken into account; use of appropriate language, vocabulary, body language, tone, listening skills and other aspects of communication; being fair, consistent and non-judgemental; provide information about choices and consequences as appropriate.

How a solution-focused approach will encourage children and young people to have a positive outlook on their lives: eg encourages children and young people to find solutions to situations and be active problem solvers, to support one another in expressing feelings, views and opinions, to deal with disappointments, set goals and targets so that progress can be recognised and celebrated.

Support and encourage children and young people to respond positively to challenges and disappointments: eg allow children and young people opportunities to express their feelings and thoughts about challenges and disappointments, support development of resilience and perseverance, offer appropriate reassurance and encouragement in order to support child or young person’s self-esteem, highlight sources and ways of getting help and support.
Ways to encourage and support children and young people to express their feelings, views and hopes: use of different methods to aid expression eg one-to-one discussion, art, dance, role play, puppets, circle time activities, songwriting

Support children and young people to reflect on the impact of their own actions and behaviour: eg through role play, drama, discussions, stories and experiences of other people, restorative justice

4 Be able to respond to the health needs of children and young people

Support children and young people to recognise, value and meet their health needs: encourage development of self-esteem so that children and young people recognise the importance of meeting their health needs; taking a no blame approach; discussing choices and consequences

Encourage children and young people to make positive choices about all of their health needs: support children and young people to take responsibility for their own health as appropriate to their age and level of understanding; provide accurate information about consequences so that children and young people can make well-informed choices; provide support in a non-judgemental and respectful way; encourage development of self-esteem so that children and young people feel confident about making choices relating to their own lives

Assess any risks or concerns to the health and wellbeing of children and young people and take appropriate action: concerns eg regarding illness, accidental and non accidental injury, use of illegal substances, emotional distress, poor lifestyle choices, victim or perpetrator of bullying, exploitative behaviour either as victim or perpetrator, harm or abuse; recognising changes in behaviour and signs for possible concern; take appropriate and prompt action if there are concerns about a child or young person’s health or wellbeing

Importance of informing relevant people when there are concerns about a child or young person’s health or wellbeing: know who to report concerns to eg parent or carer, own line manager or supervisor, setting’s designated Child Protection person, social worker, lead professional, residential worker

Record concerns about a child or young person’s health or wellbeing following recognised procedures: maintain accurate, detailed records of concerns about a child or young person’s health or wellbeing according to required procedures of setting eg record the concern including date, time, and details of what was said or observed, data protection requirements, Data Protection Act 1998, Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations, policy for storing records, security and confidentiality, accessibility to information, protection of identity(if appropriate)

Demonstrate in own practice how to support children and young people to recognise, value and meet their health needs: needs eg physical, nutritional, mental, emotional, sexual; encouraging and modelling positive choices about diet, lifestyle choices, exercise and health; support children and young people to take responsibility for their own health needs as appropriate to their age and level of understanding; providing accurate information about consequences so that children and young people can make well-informed choices; providing support in a non-judgemental and respectful way; encourage development of self-esteem so that children and young people feel confident about making choices relating to their health needs.

Unit 19: Professional Practice in Children and Young People’s Social Care

Unit code: SCMP3
Unit reference number: F/601/0315
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 30

Unit summary
This unit introduces the competence required for the application of principles and values in day-to-day practice. It introduces the concepts of the practitioner’s duty of care and the need to support positive outcomes for children and young people.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit content

1 Understand the legislation and policy framework for working with children and young people in social care work settings

How current and relevant legislation and policy affects work with children and young people: current and relevant legislation and policies appropriate to UK home nation eg The Common Core of Skills and Knowledge, Health and Social Care Act 2008, The Children Act 1989, The Children Act 2004, The Children and Young Person Act 1933, Every Child Matters; legislation, codes of practice and policy inform and guide practice; provide a framework for good practice for work with children and young people; outline principles and values including welfare of the child and young person as paramount; workers contribute to children’s care, learning, development and safeguarding and this is reflected in every aspect of practice and service provision

Impact of social care standards and codes of practice on work with children and young people: as appropriate to own home nation eg emphasis on multi-agency working, information sharing, child protection as everyone’s responsibility, early identification and intervention where there is concern about child or young person’s wellbeing or development, emphasis on child-centred approach and involving children and young people in decisions that affect their lives

Importance of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC): the treaty has been signed by almost every country in the world and applies to all children under the age of 18; outlines the basic human rights of children everywhere; all children have the right to survive, develop to their full potential, be protected from harmful influences, abuse and exploitation, participate fully in family, cultural and social life, have their own views taken into account, play, rest and enjoy leisure

2 Understand the professional responsibilities of working with children and young people

Corporate parent: the collective responsibility that is placed on local government, services agencies and associated professionals to work together to achieve good parenting and positive outcomes for all children and young people in their care

Professional carer: professional carers are employed by local authorities, private individuals or private agencies to support people to achieve highest possible levels of independence in their everyday lives, foster carers look after children or young people who cannot live with their parents, some children who cannot live with their parents are placed into the care of a children’s residential establishment

Impact of professional relationships on children and young people: the range of ways children and young people may respond to professionals, eg uncertainties about how to behave or relate to professionals, possible feelings of powerlessness, power relationships; positive impact these relationships can have on the child or young person and their future success e.g. build sense of self-esteem, offer support, provide opportunity for child or young person to express their feelings, concerns and ideas.

Examples of poor practice and unprofessional conduct that may impact on outcomes for children and young people: e.g. professional incompetence, misrepresentation or fraud (e.g. giving inaccurate or misleading information in child protection matter, failure to disclose own previous criminal convictions), neglect of professional duty, acting outside boundaries of own role and/or responsibilities, immoral or indecent behaviour, violation of ethical standards for profession (e.g. inappropriate personal relationship with child or young person who uses the professional services).

Actions to take where poor practice and unprofessional conduct are having a negative impact on outcomes for children and young people: duty to report poor practice and unprofessional conduct; use of correct procedures for reporting poor practice and unprofessional conduct; accurate documentation and record-keeping; whistle-blowing.

3 Be able to meet professional responsibilities by reflecting on own performance and practice

Professional responsibility to maintain current and competent practice; keeping up to date with changing legislation, policy and practice; identifying training needs and updating own training.

Engage with professional supervision in order to improve practice: participate positively in professional supervision and practice observations in the work setting; contribute appropriately to personal development plans and reviews; participate in relevant training and development activities.

Seek and learn from feedback on own practice from colleagues and children and young people: reflecting on feedback and professional guidance; making changes to practice where necessary; use of appropriate methods to seek feedback from children and young people; reflecting on whether own practice is contributing to meeting the individual needs of children and young people.

Importance of understanding the limits of personal competence and when to seek advice: e.g. importance of not acting beyond the limits of own role, understanding consequences (for self and others) of acting beyond own role, recognising when not competent to meet requirements of child or young person, when to request support or to refer to another colleague, professional or agency.

4 Be able to develop effective working relationships with professional colleagues

Respect and value the professional competence and contribution of colleagues: importance of participating in planning and sharing of responsibilities; maintain confidentiality as appropriate; develop positive relationships with colleagues; appreciate and follow lines of reporting; recognising and sharing of skills; develop good interpersonal skills.
Own rights and expectations as a professional and how to assert them:
rights as an employee eg maternity rights, paid time off work, redundancy, right to be treated fairly; expectations eg regarding information and consultation, training, support and development; procedures for asserting own rights and expectations eg inform supervisor or Human Resources officer, formal complaints and grievance procedures, tribunals and courts; sources of impartial advice eg Commission for Equality and Human Rights, Age Concern, Citizens Advice Bureau

5 Understand the implications of equalities legislation for working with children, young people and families

How current equalities legislation affects work with children, young people and families: equalities legislation as appropriate to UK home nation eg the Children Act 2010, The Education Reform Act 1988, the Equality Act 2010; how workplace policies and codes of practice are influenced by these major pieces of legislation giving direction and cohesion

Examples of good practice in promoting equality and how and why they are effective: eg examining own possible prejudices in order to understand their source, implications and ways they could be eliminated, developing staff awareness, knowledge, skills and confidence to challenge prejudice and inequalities through training, support, discussion with other colleagues and other appropriate methods, actively reflecting equality considerations in recruitment and deployment of staff in settings

6 Understand the value of diversity and the importance of equality and anti-discriminatory practice

Meaning of diversity: the acknowledgement and respect of differences within and between groups or people; valuing and respecting individuals and their own interest and needs

Anti-discriminatory practice and examples of how it is applied in practice with children, young people and families: anti-discriminatory practice means no child or young person should be discriminated against on the basis of race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, age, disability or physical abilities, religion or belief; applying anti-discriminatory practice eg by encouraging a sense of belonging, valuing cultural diversity and respecting differences, avoiding stereotypes, sensitive use of language and communication, taking steps to include all children and young people in every aspect of the setting, inclusive approach to learning and play, reflecting the diversity of the group in the provision of activities and experiences

The effects of discrimination and the potential results for children and young people: diminished opportunity and life chances; disadvantage, feeling of exclusion; lack of motivation and reluctance to participate; feelings of mistrust, rejection, anger, despair, confusion; negative impact on self-esteem and self-image; negative behaviour eg aggression, violence, self-harm

Unit 20: Support Children and Young People to Achieve their Education Potential

Unit code: LDSSMP1
Unit reference number: D/600/9785
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 30

Unit summary

The aim of this unit is to provide learners with the skills and knowledge required to enable them to support individual children and young people to achieve their educational potential.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the principles, values and current legislation that supports work to help children and young people achieve their educational potential

Principles and values: putting the needs and rights of the individual child at the centre of service provision; promoting integrated working practices; maintaining personal and professional integrity; promoting equal opportunity and valuing diversity; working in partnerships with parents and carers

Factors that contribute to low achievement: eg lack of opportunity, poor literacy and numeracy skills, poor speech and language skills, lack of parental support, peer pressure, low self-esteem and aspirations, low expectations expressed by others, illness, poor diet or state of health, unrecognised disability

2 Be able to support children and young people to identify and articulate their learning needs, set goals and plan actions.

Support children or young people to articulate their educational needs and aspirations: involve child or young person in decisions affecting them; use child’s current interests and needs as focus and connection point; provide adequate, appropriate opportunities for children or young people to express their educational ideas and aspirations, preferences and dislikes; listen carefully to what child or young person has to say, seek clarification as necessary, seek feedback

Support children or young people to develop a plan of action identifying realistic goals for their educational development: create appropriate and individual action plans; setting out clear short, medium- and long-term goals; identify the resources needed to achieve the goals; identify any additional support needed by the child or young person to achieve the goals; identify support to address inappropriate and/or aggressive behaviour; working closely with carers to enable them to support the child/young person; process for reviewing achievement and revising goals

3 Be able to support children and young people to work towards their educational goals

Identify and celebrate successes and achievements: give genuine praise and encouragement for effort and achievement; use of rewards and incentives; encourage child or young person to focus on strengths and achievements rather than areas of weakness; progress towards achievement of goal and not just achievement of goal itself; use of constructive feedback; emphasise and demonstrate that successes and achievements are transferable from one area or activity to another

Identify barriers to achievement and support individual children or young people to work towards finding solutions: barriers eg lack of appropriate and/or sufficient physical resource, lack of available appropriate learning environment; lack of carer and/or peer support, lack of motivation of individual child or young person; work towards finding solutions eg providing emotional and practical support, recognise and value achievement both big and small, celebrate individual personal success, discuss sources of support and help

Provide support and guidance to children or young people to help them work towards achieving their educational goals: eg provide feedback at appropriate points, discuss what is working well and what could be improved, gauge level of motivation of child or young person and provide support as appropriate to help child or young person remain engaged and motivated

4 Be able to review educational achievements with children and young people

Evaluate with individual children or young people their achievements against their action plans: evaluate individual achievement against action plans and targets in consultation with child or young person; listen carefully and respectfully to child or young person’s feedback on their performance

Discuss and agree with individual children or young people ways of addressing and overcoming any problems and modify the action plan accordingly: modify action plan if necessary; discuss and agree ways to overcome any identified problems; discuss ways of achieving new goals

Unit 21: Support Children and Young People to Make Positive Changes in Their Lives

Unit code: LDSSMP2
Unit reference number: M/600/9788
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 27

Unit summary
This unit aims to provide learners with the skills and knowledge to help them identify any barriers that children and young people may encounter which impact on their lives and help them to support children and young people to overcome those barriers and achieve positive changes in their lives.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2 and 3 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how to support children and young people to make positive changes in their lives

Factors that can impact on the lives of children and young people: eg socio-economic background, poor parenting, disruptions in living arrangements, poor literacy, numeracy, speech and language skills, lack of opportunity, illness, bereavement, discrimination

The impact such factors may have: eg inappropriate and/or aggressive behaviour, low educational achievement and aspirations, low self-esteem, potential to self-harm, inability to establish and maintain positive relationships, at risk of offending behaviour, possible misuse of substances such as drugs, alcohol, solvents, poor motivation

How individuals and agencies support children and young people to make positive changes in their lives: the role of the youth worker, parent support workers, Education Welfare Office, mentors, educational professionals, behaviour and education support team (BEST), Social Services, speech and language therapists; range of support strategies adopted eg play therapy, drama, mentors, motivation workshops, listening to children and action planning, family counselling and support sessions

2 Be able to support children and young people to make positive changes in their lives

Interventions that can be provided to support children and young people to make positive changes in their lives: the value and impact of early intervention; use of available specialised support eg learning and development support, anger management, behaviour support classes, restorative justice, support to address substance misuse, support to address mental health issues, mentoring, action planning

Demonstrate engagement with children or young people to help them to identify actions that could be taken to support positive change: eg discuss choices or options for action to be taken, support child or young person to consider potential benefits and/or consequences of options, choices and actions, involve child or young person in decision making as appropriate

Work with a child or young person to develop appropriate action plan to support positive changes in their lives: develop an action plan that identifies the positive changes the child or young person needs to achieve; identify any barriers to achievement and how these could be overcome; set achievable and realistic goals, identify resources and support necessary for success; agree a review process and target dates for achievement

3 Be able to review support to children and young people to make positive changes in their lives

Support children or young people to review and amend their action plan: the identification and celebration of achievements; identifying where goals have not been met; agree reasons for non-achievement; involve child or young person in agreeing amendments to the actual plan; clear reasons and instructions regarding any amendments

Give examples from own practice of supporting children or young people to access further interventions: examples should show clear emphasis on supporting children and young people to achieve positive changes in their lives; revise the action plan in the light of the review process and identify the next steps for the child or young person

Reflect on own practice in supporting children or young people to make positive changes in their lives: evaluate practice against agreed criteria and objectives; use of appropriate tools and resources eg reflective practice log to measure progress against personal development plan and identify where changes, developments and additional training or support are required; reflecting on whether own practice has contributed to meeting the needs of individual children or young people; obtaining feedback from children or young people and others involved in the setting

Unit 22: Professional Practice in Learning, Development and Support Services

Unit code: LDSSMP3
Unit reference number: D/600/9799
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 5
Guided learning hours: 35

Unit summary

This unit aims to enhance the quality of practice of individual LDSS workers through a process of reflective practice, identifying professional development needs and taking steps to improve own practice. It also considers the role of professional supervision in supporting the development of individual practitioners. The whole unit and the work of all LDSS workers is underpinned and informed by the principles and values of the sector.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles.

Learning outcomes 3, 5 and 6 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit content

1. Understand the purposes of learning, development and support services

   Purpose of learning, development and support services; roles and responsibilities: a range of services and workers that aim to support children and young people; identify learning, development and support needs early; provide early intervention and support; deliver personalised and coordinated services to help ensure better outcomes for children and young people; place children and young people at the heart of decisions and processes that affect their lives; range of workers as part of ‘LDSS family’ eg Educational Welfare Officer, Connexion Personal Adviser, LearningMentors

2. Understand current legislation, policies and influences on LDSS

   Impact of current legislation, policies and influences on LDSS: legislation, policies and influences as appropriate to own home nation eg Equal Pay Act (1984), Education Reform Act (1988), The Children Act (1989), Special Educational Needs and Disability Act (2001), Equality Act (2010), SEN Code of Practice; impact on codes of practice and workplace policy including equal opportunities, confidentiality, safety, partnership with parents, first aid, staff training, child protection, reporting and record keeping

   Effective practice should inform and drive the legislative framework for work with children and young people: relevance and effectiveness of legislative framework is enhanced if influenced by current research and examples of best practice; importance of ‘lessons learned’ and recommendations for future improvements; recognising and using skills and knowledge of experts and successful practitioners who are currently engaged in practice

3. Be able to implement the current principles and values that underpin and inform the work of LDSS practitioners

   Current principles and values that underpin and inform the work of LDSS practitioners and their impact on practice: The ‘LDSS family of work’; child- or young person-centred approach; staff work together to identify needs early; multi-agency and integrated working; deliver coordinated packages of support; help to secure better outcomes for children, young people and their families

   Implement the principles and values in own practice: eg show child-centred or young person-centred approach to own role and responsibilities, respect and value the professional competence and contribution of colleagues and other professionals, participating in planning and sharing of responsibilities, appreciate and follow lines of reporting, recognising and sharing of skills, positive attitude to and use of feedback, updating of own knowledge and skills
Impact of the principles and values that underpin and inform the work of LDSS practitioners on children, young people and carers: LDSS principles and values are reflected in the planning and implementation of all activities, experience and services for children and young people with the aim of ensuring positive outcomes for all; teams work proactively together for the best outcomes for the child, young person and family; integrated working involves everyone supporting children, young people and families working together effectively to put them at the centre, meet their needs and improve their lives; children, young people and families are involved in decisions that affect their lives

4 Understand how the views of children, young people and carers can be used to improve learning, development and support services

Importance of obtaining the views of children, young people and carers to inform and improve the quality of service provision: the value and importance of involving children, young people and carers in the development of plans and services that affect them; if children, young people and carers participate in and agree to the identified goals, activities and procedures then chances of success are higher; obtaining views of children, young people and carers enables more effective planning and service provision designed to meet individual needs

How the views of children, young people and carers can be obtained: eg questionnaires, interviews, focus groups, one- to- one discussion, regular evaluations of services, practitioner reflection on practice

Examples from own practice of changes to service provision as a result of incorporating the views of children, young people and carers into provision: various ways eg encourage participation in decision-making by listening to needs and ideas of child or young person, discuss targets and goals in a collaborative manner, agreeing a method of recognising and recording progress which is clear and acceptable to all concerned, give constructive feedback, focus on strengths and progress rather than weaknesses, support development of resilience, provide accurate information about sources of help and support, use of clear and appropriate communication; how incorporating views of children, young people and carers can lead to changes in service provision eg adapting timescales and goals in accordance with needs of individual child or young person, making service provision more accessible according to individual family requirements or circumstances

5 Be able to use supervision to support continuing professional development and personal effectiveness

Use organisational reporting and/or supervision processes to identify and agree organisational and own responsibility for improving practice and performance: as appropriate to own setting eg personal development plans, shadowing another colleague, performance review, appraisal, reflective journal, learning needs in relation to job role, progression, children and young people’s workforce needs
Agree and implement changes to practice to enhance performance and promote continuing professional development: eg being a reflective practitioner, action planning and development plans, identify and agree training and/or support needs, update training, further training

6 Be able to reflect on own skills, knowledge and effectiveness to inform and improve own practice

Evaluate own skills, knowledge and practice against agreed criteria and objectives: regular review of own progress and development against agreed goals, targets and other forms of measurement; consider extent to which own practice meets required standards for role in relation to roles and responsibilities; refer to reflections to appraise extent to which own knowledge and performance meets standards; use reflective journal to consider progress made; evidence of achievements eg certificates; review goals and actions in light of progress

Develop a personal development plan and reflective practice log: Personal development plan and reflective log that identifies personal strengths and weaknesses, SMART objectives, personal and professional needs, development needs, proposals for meeting development needs including additional training if required, the review process, potential barriers to meeting the SMART objectives and how they can be overcome, remedial actions that can be implemented if objectives are not being achieved; reflective practice log to be completed on an agreed timescale eg weekly

Use the reflective practice log to measure progress against personal development plan and identify where changes and developments are required: making changes to plans; use feedback to raise awareness of strengths and identify areas for improvement, involving child and young person in reviewing plans; how a reflective log is valuable in supporting plans

Unit 24: Work with Babies and Young Children to Promote Their Development and Learning

Unit code: CYPOP 1
Unit reference number: A/601/0121
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 6
Guided learning hours: 45

Unit summary

The unit is designed to assess competence in work with babies and young children to support their learning and development. This would normally cover children from birth to their 3rd birthday.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment principles. Assessment of learning outcomes 2, 4 and 5 must take place in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1. Understand the development and learning of babies and young children

Pattern of development in the first three years of life and the skills typically acquired at each stage: significant milestones in each area of development; areas of development namely physical, social, emotional, intellectual, language and communication

How development and learning are interconnected: delays in expected patterns and rates of development can have negative impact on learning eg emotional or social difficulties may cause negative disposition towards learning, health problems may make certain aspects of learning very challenging for the child

Learning takes place in different ways: importance of early recognition of different learning styles and providing multi-sensory opportunity for learning eg visual, tactile, auditory, kinaesthetic; informal, spontaneous and formal, planned opportunities; recognising individual learning and development needs of the child and making plans and provision accordingly

Importance of play in learning and development: eg provides enabling, positive and enjoyable environment for learning, facilitates learning and development in all key areas (physical, emotional, social, intellectual, language and communication), provides development of social skills and relationships, bond with primary and other carers

Explain effects on development: eg maternal health and diet prior to conception, maternal health and diet during pregnancy, illness, stress, maternal drug or alcohol abuse during pregnancy, genetics and birth complications, maternal post-natal depression, poor diet

Impact of current research into the development and learning of babies and young children: eg the importance of high-quality day care, stable attachments, supporting involvement of parents and careers, supporting transitions; change in practice, policy and procedures based on outcomes of research

2. Be able to promote the development and learning of babies and young children

Carry out assessments of babies’ or young children’s development and learning needs: the use of observations to assess babies’ and young children’s development and learning; the use of observations to inform planning, consultation with parents; the use of baseline assessments

Demonstrate how the indoor and outdoor environment is used to support babies’ and young children’s learning needs: how each area of learning is accessed in both the indoor and outdoor environment; how activities and experiences are adapted to meet individual learning and developmental needs.
Plan appropriate play-based activities: eg activities that are planned on basis of assessments, observation, children’s current needs, interests and particular likes

Demonstrate the provision of play-based activities: activities and experiences that are both age appropriate and developmentally appropriate; show how activities have been adapted for the individual needs and/or interests of child

3 Understand the attachment needs of babies

Benefits of the key worker/person system in early years settings: John Bowlby’s attachment theory; the development of positive relationships with child and family; emotional security; development of healthy self-esteem

How babies and young children learn and develop best from a basis of a strong positive relationship with their key worker/person: emotionally secure; positive dispositions to learning; development of confidence

Possible effects of poor-quality attachments: poor quality attachments can affect babies’ and young children’s confidence, emotional stability and their ability to learn

4 Be able to engage with babies and young children and be sensitive to their needs

Engaging with babies and young children: eg sensitive, caring interactions, anticipating their needs, listening to babies and young children, providing opportunities for them to respond to interactions

Engage in playful activity: provide and engage in play activities that encourage babies’ and young children’s development and stimulate learning; participate enthusiastically in playful activities

How babies express their emotions, preferences and needs: how babies communicate with their carers, how to interpret babies’ expressions and body language, recognising babies’ needs and preferences, show how to respond in a way sensitive and appropriate to babies

Why it is important to manage transitions for babies and young children: identify range of transitions experienced by babies and young children; consider emotional impact of transitions; identify range of strategies for supporting babies and young children during transitions; how and why it is important to communicate with parents in order to support transitions; meeting individual needs and modifying approaches to meet different needs; identify the possible effect of poorly managed transitions on babies or young children and their parents

When and why babies and young children require rest and sleep: regular rest and sleep required for healthy growth and development, rest and sleep routines, health and safety requirements of sleep routines for babies, managing individual sleep patterns and routines in the setting
5 Be able to work in partnership with carers in order to promote the learning and development of babies and young children

Importance of parents and carers in the lives of babies and young children: parents and carers should be recognised as the child’s primary educator; parent and carer contributions should be sought, valued and respected; the impact that positive relationships with parents and carers have on babies and young children

How to exchange information with carers: identify range of ways to communicate with carers eg the use of email, phone, letters, noticeboards, newsletters, one-to-one communication; consider inclusive communication; how to ensure all carers can access information and communicate with the setting; confidentiality; professionalism

Ways of working in partnership with carers: consider the effectiveness of working with parents and the impact on babies and young children in the setting

Unit 25: Develop Interviewing Skills for Work with Children and Young People

Unit code: CYPOP 10
Unit reference number: L/601/1337
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 21

Unit summary
The aim of this unit is to provide the learner with the skills and knowledge to enable them to conduct effective interviews with children and young people in the context of supporting their learning and development.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles.
Learning outcomes 2 and 3 must be assessed in a real work environment.
Unit content

1 Understand the process of preparing for and planning the interviews

Importance of preparing for and planning the interviews: within boundaries of own role eg knowledge of child or young person’s needs, development stage, ability to understand and interpret interview process; documentary evidence eg observation and assessment records, behaviour and discipline records, reports and learning targets, learning style records; environment eg quiet space, relaxing seating, removal of barriers, accessibility for physical or sensory needs; personnel to be informed or to attend eg line manager, key worker, specialist staff, parents/carers, interpreter

Components of the interview planning process: within boundaries of own role eg format of and objectives for the interview, assessment of all documentary evidence, date and time agreed with child/young person; risk assessment of interview environment and interview process

2 Be able to conduct the interview with individual children or young people

Appropriate communication skills: eg active listening, open body language, eye contact, open questions, encourage participation, positive and constructive feedback, showing empathy, being non-judgemental, supportive within professional boundaries

Provide relevant information about the interview: within boundaries of own role eg format or agenda for interview, reasons or objectives for the interview, expected conduct during interview, rights and/or responsibilities of interviewee and interviewer, summary of outcomes, procedure for next steps, confirmation of confidentiality

Achievement of desired outcomes: within boundaries of own role eg maintain time schedule, follow agenda to achieve objectives, ensure fair hearing, present desirable outcomes, confirm confidentiality

Confidentiality and information sharing protocols: within boundaries of own role eg record details of interview, share records with interviewee and also parents or carers if appropriate, share information with relevant key personnel according to information sharing protocol

3 Be able to implement interview follow-up procedures

Interview follow-up procedures: within boundaries of own role eg copy paper records and gain signature if appropriate, store records according to setting’s procedures, identify follow-up meetings with appropriate timescales, record agreed action and monitoring processes, propose referral for specialist support if appropriate
Implement interview follow-up procedures: within boundaries of own role eg maintain secure storage of records, implement action plan and monitor development, lead further meetings as appropriate

Unit 26: Caseload Management

Unit code: CYPOP 11
Unit reference number: D/601/1343
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 21

Unit summary
This unit aims to provide the learner with the skills and knowledge to enable them to manage their caseload effectively and efficiently, making best use of their own time and promoting improved outcomes for children, young people, their families and carers.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 2 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit 28: Support Children and Young People to Have Positive Relationships

Unit code: CYPOP 14
Unit reference number: R/601/1369
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 20

Unit summary
This unit provides a basic knowledge and competence to support children and young people in the relationships they have with family, friends or professionals.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 2 must be assessed in a real work situation.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the importance of positive relationships for the development and wellbeing of children and young people

Different relationships children and young people may have:
relationships with peer group, family, other adults; horizontal relationships; vertical relationships; what is gained from different types of relationships

Importance of positive relationships for development and wellbeing: eg positive impact on self-esteem, ability to build trusting relationships, develop mutual respect, ensures good communication, ability to form and maintain positive relationships in the future, develop a strong support network

Possible effects of children having restricted or supervised contact in order to maintain relationships: negative impacts eg identity problems, difficulty forming and maintaining relationships, safety risks, emotional impact, self-esteem; positive impact eg supervised contact may help support identity problems, build relationships, enable children and young people to come to terms with their current situation

2 Be able to support children and young people to make and maintain positive relationships

How to support children or young people to maintain relationships: eg interact in ways that make children and young people feel welcome and valued

How to support children or young people to make new relationships: eg provide opportunities to take part in organised activities, support children and young people to develop agreements about how to behave, support children and young people to understand other people’s feelings and points of view

Provide practical and emotional support to encourage children or young people to commit to and enjoy positive relationships: provide practical and emotional support within boundaries of own role eg support positive relationships with family and peers, build trust, encourage children to identify and discuss benefits of positive relationships, help children prepare for transitions, support children through transitions, encourage decision-making as appropriate

3 Understand how to support children and young people when there are relationship difficulties

Importance of encouraging children or young people to resolve conflict for themselves if possible: empowering children and young people to make good choices for themselves; learn how to deal with disagreements and develop conflict-solving strategies; enable children and young people to avoid violence
How to support a child or young person who is distressed by relationship difficulties: eg providing opportunities for children and young people talk about their relationships, taking time to listen, importance of remaining objective, exploring possible solutions together

How to support a child or young person to end relationships that are making them unhappy: eg helping children and young people to recognise other options, recognising choices and consequences, investigate different solutions to the situation, exploring how to communicate feelings, making an action plan

Circumstances that would result in a relationship causing concern and the actions that should follow: the signs and symptoms that would indicate a possible problem eg changes in behaviour, poor attendance, unexplained injury; appropriate actions to be taken; record observations or discussions accurately and factually with time and date; reporting concerns to designated professionals

How to support children or young people to recognise and take action when they are involved in abusive or exploitative relationships: offering appropriate support within boundaries of own role eg creating a culture among children and young people that allows them to talk about what is happening to them, encouraging children and young people to recognise there is a problem, taking a no-blame approach, remaining non-judgemental, discussing choices and consequences

Unit 30: Coordinate Special Educational Needs Provision

Unit code: CYPOP 16
Unit reference number: T/600/9775
QCF level: 4
Credit value: 5
Guided learning hours: 35

Unit summary
To provide the learner with the competence required to work as a special educational needs coordinator in early years settings. The unit also assesses ability to support and advise colleagues.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles.
Learning outcomes 2, 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.
Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.

1 Understand the role of the special educational needs coordinator

The responsibilities of the special educational needs coordinator: day-to-day operation of SEN policy eg coordinating provision for children with SEN; contributing to the development of the setting’s SEN policy and procedures; overseeing its implementation and review; liaising, mentoring and advising colleagues; managing support assistants; managing records of children with SEN; liaising with parents and carers; liaising with external professionals and services eg educational psychologists, speech therapists, occupational therapists; contributing and/or coordinating training for staff; managing and advising on resources and equipment; undertake continuous professional development; accountability and responsibility

The importance of early recognition and intervention: meeting children’s holistic needs; improving short- and long-term outcomes; recognition and early removal barriers to learning and development; to enable a graduated approach eg early years action/action plus, school action/action plus; early identification of services which can support eg education, health, children’s social services; improve behaviour; ensuring access to the curriculum

Policies and procedures of the setting in respect of special educational needs: relevant policies eg special educational needs, equality and inclusion, safeguarding, health and safety; procedures in relation to assessment, activities, the environment, inclusive practice; staff training; procedures and protocols for assessment and review

The importance of liaison and partnerships with carers, other agencies and professionals: child-led model; working together to improve outcomes for children and young people; information sharing; involvement at all stages of assessment, delivery and review; concept of parents as experts on their own child; parent partnership services; shared goals: parental rights and responsibilities; supporting informed choice; involvement in shaping services and policy development; information and advice from specialist services; support for children with complex needs requiring multi-agency support

2 Be able to coordinate the observation, recording, assessment and planning to meet the individual requirements of children with special educational needs

Ways to coordinate and lead the observation, assessment and recording progress of children with special educational needs: procedures for drawing on information about children with special educational needs from child or young person, carers, other staff, outside agencies; ways to identify children with SEN eg those displaying developmental delay, poor concentration; statutory assessments; role of Common Assessment Framework (CAF); concept of assessment for learning; skills of observation; importance of also identifying child or young person’s abilities and skills; continuous observation and assessment; systems for monitoring and recording progress; format for writing a statement of special educational needs

Planning the next steps for children with special educational needs in collaboration with colleagues, children and their carers: individual education plans; identification of level of support eg school action / action plus; severity of difficulties; identifying support requirements eg people; resources; differentiation of activities; structuring learning in stages; ensuring SMART targets which allow progress to be measured; realistic expectations; the circumstances when a Statement of Educational Needs may be necessary

Ways that children’s individual play/education plans are developed, monitored and updated: description of support arrangements; record of child’s needs; details of services to be delivered; record of contributions/views of child, carers, SENCO, teacher, outside agencies; monitoring plans; identifying strengths and weaknesses of plans; reviewing progress

The importance of statements of special educational needs and the impact on provision: identification of support additional to or different from that provided to the majority of children; ensures that support and resources are made available to meet the needs of the child; identifies specialist support or programmes to meet the needs of child; identifies non-educational needs eg physiotherapy; the importance of annual reviews

3 Be able to engage with children with special educational needs and their carers

Barriers to communication and engagement and ways to overcome these: barriers to communication eg sensory impairment; speech and language difficulties, English as additional language, environment, (seating, noise, lighting); attitudinal barriers eg the child, carers, self, other staff, other children and young people; organisational barriers eg policies and procedures; discrimination; overcoming barriers eg adapting the environment and resources; knowledge of child’s needs, stage of development and abilities; using interpreters; advocacy; adaptation of materials and resources; specialist aids and equipment

Engagement with children who have special educational needs in own setting or service: protecting child’s rights; valuing child; respect wishes, listening for understanding; awareness of own body language; development of interpersonal skills; knowing and respecting preferences; giving choice; promoting independence; empowering; focusing on strengths and abilities; giving positive feedback; sharing reviews and assessment with children; use of culturally appropriate materials
Engagement with families of children who have special educational needs in own setting or service: recognising rights and responsibilities of parents; home or setting communication strategies; strategies to consult; parent forums; opportunities for feedback; maintaining professional relationships; information sharing; observing confidentiality; parental communication including written information; involvement in shaping services and policy development; providing emotional support; dealing with conflict; being aware of the needs which parent themselves may have

4 Be able to coordinate, support and advise colleagues working with children who have special educational needs

Ways to coordinate practice and coordinate provision: importance of shared goals and common purpose; transparent policies and procedures; leadership skills; record-keeping; monitoring; time management skills; developing partnerships; building relationships

Sources of support and professional development: line manager colleagues; local networks and support forums; outside agencies and professionals; third sector organisations eg The British Dyslexia Association, National Blind Children’s Society; local education authorities; Department for Education; Teacher Development Agency; Children’s Workforce Development Council; Teachernet

Ways to share new information: information eg new legislation, government frameworks, codes of practice of service or setting; share individual advice and information from outside agencies; discuss use of resources or aids; seek and give feedback on strengths and weaknesses of different types of communication; use of electronic communication, verbal communication to share new information; formal meetings; written communication; confidentiality

Ways to act as an agent of change and improvement: change and improvement eg routines, practice, attitudes; improving outcomes for children and families; working more effectively; developing and/or strengthening partnerships; application of skills; observation and assessment; innovative practice; problem-solving; managing change; participation and involvement in design and delivery of policy and procedures; leadership skills; self as role model; dealing with resistance to change

Work directly with colleagues to mentor and support practice: colleagues eg teachers, learning support assistants; role of mentor as peer support strategy; role of critical friend; classroom observation; valuing and respecting others’ views; sharing good practice; encourage reflective practice; coordinate training eg signposting to relevant courses; leading on training; dealing with differences in values or opinions

Unit 32: Care for the Physical and Nutritional Needs of Babies and Young Children

Unit code: CYPOP 2
Unit reference number: D/601/0130
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 6
Guided learning hours: 45

Unit summary
The unit is designed to assess competence in caring for the physical and nutritional needs of babies and young children. This would normally cover children from birth to their 3rd birthday.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. With the exception of assessment criterion 5.2, all learning outcomes for this unit must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Be able to provide respectful physical care for babies and young children

Appropriate care for babies and young children: identifying individual care needs; cultural and ethnic considerations; care of teeth, skin, hair and nappy area; child’s right to privacy and how this can be met

How to work with parents and carers: taking into account the preferences and wishes of parents and carers in the provision of physical care for their children

Demonstrate positive and respectful interactions with babies and young children: listening to children; speaking appropriately to babies and young children; acting in a caring and sensitive manner; carrying out personalised care routines; meeting individual care needs

Policy and procedures in place to protect children and practitioners when providing personal care: policies and procedures of setting, and regulatory guidance; importance of following policies; awareness of child protection issues; protection of self against false allegations

2 Be able to provide routines for babies and young children that support their health and development

Plan daily and weekly routines for babies and young children: identifying individual care and development needs; working closely with carers to provide a suitable plan

How to treat babies and young children during care routines: speak appropriately to babies and young children; respectful and sensitive interactions; using care routines as an opportunity for one-to-one interaction and learning/development of baby or child

How to carry out toilet training: identify principles of effective toilet training; stages of readiness for training; use of praise, encouragement and rewards; importance of working in partnership with carers; how to incorporate toilet training into everyday routines

3 Be able to provide opportunities for exercise and physical activity

Importance of physical activity for babies and young children: impact on healthy growth and development eg release of stress, aids rest and healthy appetite, strengthens muscles and joints, promotes good posture and increases bone density, develop balance and coordination, babies and young children express ideas and feelings through movement, explore what their bodies can do, cooperate with others, develop fine and gross motor skills

How to support babies or young children’s exercise and physical activity: selecting age and stage-appropriate physical activities; role of the practitioner in supporting physical activities; selection of appropriate equipment and resources; health and safety considerations, praise and encouragement; freedom to explore, access to both indoor and outdoor activities; help children to see physical activity as fun

4 Be able to provide safe and protective environments for babies and young children

The setting’s health and safety policies and procedures: how legislation informs practice; how policies are developed and implemented; how to establish and maintain a safe and protective environment

Safety features within the environment for babies and young children: identify the range of policies in place eg food hygiene, dealing with accidents and emergencies, behaviour management; how policies inform practice; how and when practitioners carry out risk assessments in the setting and when planning activities; the recording of accidents and incidents

Supervise babies or young children, demonstrating a balanced approach to risk management: consideration of age and stage of development and individual ability of baby or young child; role of the practitioner in providing appropriate support and encouragement; provision of appropriate and sufficient amount of activities and equipment

Sleep procedures in the setting: current guidance on minimising sudden infant death syndrome eg sleep position, room temperature; how these procedures are incorporated into everyday routines for babies

5 Be able to provide for the nutritional needs of babies under 18 months

Current government guidance on the nutritional needs of babies until they are fully weaned: baby feeding including breast feeding, bottle feeding and weaning; when and how to carry out weaning; principles of nutrition, provision of a balanced diet and healthy snacks; importance of using information from carers when planning a programme of weaning

Prepare formula feeds hygienically and following current guidance: different methods of sterilising feeding equipment, how to make feeds correctly and safely, importance of hygiene, calculating feed quantities

Benefits of different types of formula that are commonly available: formula milk for different ages and stages of development eg newborn, hungrier baby, toddler milk, night time milk; specialised milk for babies who have intolerance or allergy to cow’s milk formulas eg hydrolysed infant milk formulas, soya milk

6 Understand how to provide for the nutritional needs of young children from 18–36 months

Plan meals for young children that meet their nutritional needs based on current government guidance: current principles of nutrition; the balanced nutritional needs of young children; appropriate daily portions; importance of using information from parents and carers to inform planning of meals and healthy snacks; role of adult in modelling and promoting healthy eating; the social and educational role of food; effects of a poor diet on the general health of a young child

Food allergies and intolerances that a young child may experience: the range of possible food intolerances eg nuts, milk and dairy products, eggs, strawberries, tomatoes; recording and reporting of allergies; management of food allergies in the setting; importance of following instructions of parent or carer regarding the needs of their child; recognising signs and symptoms of food allergies or intolerances and dealing with possible reactions to food; supporting children and their families who have special diets

Unit summary

This unit is designed to explore the ways in which speech, language and communication skills are influenced when children and young people are learning more than one language. The unit addresses the cultural issues around the assessment and approaches to speech, language and communication development for children and young people learning more than one language.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit needs to be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 3 should be assessed in relation to real work activities.

Unit 37: Support Children and Young People’s Speech, Language and Communication Skills

Unit code: CYPOP 24
Unit reference number: L/601/2889
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 25

Unit summary

This unit explores the ways in which those working with children and young people can support the development of speech, language and communication skills. The unit also looks at how to recognise, and access specialist support, for those children and young people who may have speech, language and communication needs.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the importance and the benefits of adults supporting the speech, language and communication development of children and young people

Ways in which adults can effectively support and extend the speech, language and communication development:

0–5: verbal and non-verbal communication eg eye contact, facial expression, hand gestures, pointing, voice tone, sound patterns, repetition, rhyme, alliteration, naming familiar objects; encourage social interactions with peers and adults, provide opportunities to follow simple instructions; use of resources eg picture books, treasure baskets, story sacks, ‘telephone’, music and songs, dance, role play; work with parents and carers within boundaries of own role

5–11: eg encourage storytelling, news, drama, role play, anecdotes from personal experience – past, present and future, support social interactions between peers and adults, provide opportunities to follow more complex instructions, support sustained conversations, share opinions; work with parents and carers within boundaries of own role

11–16: eg encourage discussion and review of books, articles, film, TV, drama, music, join in and support social interactions, show interest in personal and social news, show awareness of social networking sites, build rapport of trust and openness, praise and support, check understanding, summarise; work with parents and carers within boundaries of own role

16–25: eg actively listen, reflect back, use open body language, use open questions, be non-judgemental, show empathy and understanding, make shared decisions, consult and negotiate, discuss current affairs, discuss and share opinions; involve parents and carers as appropriate within boundaries of own role

Positive effects of adult support: improved communication skills eg listening, body language, vocabulary development, development of conversation conventions and social interaction; positive behaviour; raised self-esteem and self-confidence; positive relationships with parents, carers, families

2 Be able to provide support for the speech, language and communication development of children and young people

Support for speech, language and communication development: eg play, structured activities, providing time and opportunities for self-expression, discussion and interaction with adults and peers, opportunities for one-to-one conversation, offer praise and constructive feedback, adapt own language style to suit age and stage of child or young person, engage with and involve parents or carers and family members, stimulating visual environment, opportunities for play, first-hand experiences
Methods of support in view of specific needs, abilities, home language, interests: eg familiarity with words for ‘special objects’, personal words for self-maintenance, use of Makaton and sign language, ICT, specialist communication aids, cue cards and picture cards, use of photographs, favourite toys, dual language books and posters, familiar objects, focus on hobbies and interests, parental involvement

Planning for speech, language and communication: follow planning procedures within boundaries of own role to initiate and implement plans eg circle time, singing, reading, poems and rhymes, puppets, news, drama, role play, discussions, presentations, organising and supporting events, ‘meeting and greeting’, interviewing, notices and posters

Information and feedback to evaluate the effectiveness of speech, language and communication support: eg contribute to record-keeping systems, observations and assessments, team meetings, staff meetings, parent and carer liaison, multi-agency groups within boundaries of own role

3 Understand how environments support speech, language and communication

Importance of the environment in supporting speech, language and communication development: eg range of resources, layout of environment, visual stimuli, staffing profile, range of roles and levels of responsibility, accessibility

Key factors that provide a supportive speech, language and communication environment: teamwork, parental involvement, multi-agency support; age appropriate activities and resources; distractions eg lighting, noise, temperature, ventilation; policies of setting eg behaviour management, inclusion, equal opportunities, special needs, curriculum, staff development, recruitment and staff deployment

Research evidence: eg development norms, cultural factors, individual needs, attitudes and behaviours, importance of play, specialist support, parental involvement; government reports and legislation relevant to own home nation eg Childcare Act 2006, Common Core of Skills and Knowledge for the Children and Young People’s Workforce, Early Years Foundation Stage Curriculum, National Curriculum, Every Child a Reader, Every Child a Writer

4 Be able to recognise, and obtain additional support for children and young people who may have speech, language and communication needs

Range of speech, language and communication needs: eg long- or short-term disability, level of need in one or more of the areas, developmental delay, hearing, behaviour

Indicators of speech, language and communication needs: eg limited ability to play with others, limited ability to build relationships, limited social skills, poor or inappropriate behaviour, isolation, low self-esteem and confidence, poor communication and interaction, poor literacy skills
Processes and procedures: within the boundaries of own role eg monitor, observe and record, raise concerns and issues, work with key professionals, involve parents and carers, refer to specialists

Unit 38: Lead and Manage a Community-based Early Years Setting

Unit code: CYPOP 3
Unit reference number: H/601/0131
QCF level: 4
Credit value: 6
Guided learning hours: 45

Unit summary

This unit is about providing leadership and management in a community-based setting that promotes the engagement, involvement and participation of parents.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the purposes, benefits and key features of community-based early years provision

Purpose and features of community-based settings: range and types of services offered to children and families; support groups; training opportunities; range of professionals; roles of professionals in setting

A community-based early years setting can be an agent of community development: provision of resources; provision of professional support; provision of practical help; funding; parenting support and networking opportunities

Benefits arising from community-based early years provision: benefits for children, parents, carers, the early years setting and the local community eg ongoing support, opportunities for development and informal or formal education, access to information, networking and social cohesion

2 Be able to lead the team in a community-based early years setting

Demonstrate leadership skills in own practice: demonstrate good interpersonal and communication skills; knowledge and application of early years principles, procedures and values; good professional practice and the ability to share information and ideas; work closely with parents, carers and others involved in the setting; updating of own knowledge and skills

Implement activities with the setting’s staff team to share and promote their understanding of good practice: update staff on new developments and examples of best practice through eg networking opportunities, meetings and workshops, emails, training events; identification and review of training and support needs; facilitate reflective practice; review staff progress and development, celebrate successes and achievements

Maintain a team culture among all of the staff and parents in a community-based early years setting: implement strategies to promote a team approach in the setting eg regular team meetings, sharing of ideas, group training, newsletters, seeking and giving feedback in an inclusive manner, recognising and valuing contributions of all involved in the setting, clear understanding of different roles and responsibilities within the team and how each contributes to meeting team goals

Effectiveness of own practice in implementing the principles of community-based early years provision: reflective practice; carrying out regular evaluations of practice; including staff and parents in evaluation processes; action planning
3 Be able to engage parents as partners in the community-based early years setting

Establish and maintain a relationship of partners with the parents of an early years setting: recognising why partnerships with parents are important; effective ways of establishing partnerships; encouraging and valuing contributions from all parents in an inclusive and non-judgemental way; sharing information and maintaining partnerships eg through effective communication, showing respect for diversity, appropriate activities that encourage participation of parents

Exchange information with parents about the progress of their child’s learning and development: plan and implement appropriate manner and time of communication with parents; ways of exchanging information eg setting up and maintaining learning journals, keeping learning journal information up to date, ensuring leaning journals are accessible to parents and children, parents’ newsboard, newsletters, individual consultations; identify and overcome barriers to exchange of information

Involve parents in decisions about plans and activities to progress their child’s learning and development: valuing parents’ ideas and opinions; establishing a culture of encouraging parents’ contributions; recognising and valuing parents as the child’s first and most enduring educators; highlight opportunities for involvement without exerting pressure or sense of obligation; highlight benefits of involvement for child, parents and others; involve parents in decisions that affect their child and offer flexibility and choices as appropriate

Involve parents in the activities of the early years setting: encouraging parents’ participation in the setting’s activities by eg creating welcoming, inclusive environment and atmosphere, emphasising the qualities and skills that parents have and how they can contribute to activities of the setting; ensuring activities are accessible and take account of the cultures, ethnicities and social backgrounds of parents represented in the setting; ensuring clear, appropriate communication with parents about the activities of the setting eg purpose, timescales, relevance, benefits

4 Be able to engage parents in the management/decision-making processes of an early years setting

Role of the parent management committee/support group in a community-based early years setting: to ensure parents views are represented; to ensure settings values and principles are met, to contribute to decision making; to participate in the leadership of the setting

Demonstrate support to parents’ involvement in the parent management committee/support group: show how parents are encouraged to be involved in the setting eg supporting communication with parents about the role and activities of the management committee/support group, highlight opportunities for parents to be involved in decision making and the benefits of their involvement
5 Be able to provide learning opportunities to support parents’ participation in a community-based early years setting

Utilise informal learning opportunities: use observations of parents’ interactions in activities to inform planning of further activities; informal activities that promote the learning and development of parent, parent’s own child other children in the setting

A detailed account of a learning activity provided by the setting: aimed at developing parents’ understanding of the setting early years curriculum: why the activity was appropriate for the setting’s parents eg took account of different cultures, ethnicities and social backgrounds represented in the setting, relevant to age and stage of development of children in setting, based on feedback about needs and/or interests of individual children and/or parents; how the setting encouraged parents to participate in the activity eg welcoming and inclusive atmosphere, activity accessible to parents, sensitive and respectful communication between staff and parents before, during and after the activity, ideas and contributions of parents actively encouraged and valued

Provide parents with information about resources to enable them to develop the knowledge and skills to participate effectively in the parent management committee/support group of the setting: sources of information eg information about policies and plans of the setting such as documents and meetings, information about the role of the parent management committee/support group; provide information in an accessible and effective way eg appropriate language and methods of communication, timely communication, use of translators if necessary

6 Be able to manage the resource, regulatory and financial requirements for a community-based early years setting

Regulatory requirements of the work setting: relevant early years curriculum for setting eg Early Years Foundation Stage; relevant inspection body, lines of responsibility and reporting; National Standards; health and safety

How human resources are managed within the setting: employment of staff; contracts, terms and conditions of employment; qualifications, continual professional development; employer and employee roles, rights and responsibilities

How systems of resource management operate in the work setting: different types of resources eg human, financial, facilities; the role of the parent management committee in resource management; the roles and responsibility of the team; accountability for resource management and concept of efficiency and value for money

How financial systems in the setting are operated and accountability maintained according to appropriate standards: managing budgets, funding and financial systems; accountability, efficiency and transparency

Unit summary

The unit is designed to introduce learners working with children in their early years to the importance of physical activity with an emphasis on gross motor and movement skills. It assesses the learner’s competence in planning and implementing physical activities and routines and encourages evaluation of the effectiveness of practice.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit must be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s Assessment Strategy. Learning outcomes 2, 3, 4 and 5 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the importance of physical activity and the development of movement skills for young children’s development, health and wellbeing

Why physical activity is important to the short- and long-term health and wellbeing of children: short-term benefits include reducing levels of anxiety, release of physical energy, lowering blood pressure; long-term benefits include helping to develop stronger muscles and bones, child less likely to be overweight, decreased risk of developing type 2 diabetes, forms positive habits for the future, opportunities for social interaction with others

Explain the development to movement skills in young children and how these skills affect other aspects of development: children’s physical development includes holistic development of the child through different areas of developmental milestones, individual children develop at different rates but in broadly the same sequence, gross motor physical development eg infant reflexes, development of locomotion, balance and co-ordination; fine motor physical development eg infant reflexes, use of tools, increase in control of tools; the impact physical development has on other areas of development; a young child who is not yet mobile is not able to explore the environment in the same way as a more mobile child possibly impacting on their social and intellectual development; young child who regularly participates in group physical activities has opportunities to develop language and communication skills eg listening to instructions, expressing feelings; young child who regularly participates in group physical activities has opportunities to develop social skills eg cooperation and taking turns; development of movement skills linked to intellectual development eg reasoning and problem-solving skills

2 Be able to prepare and support a safe and challenging environment for young children that encourages physical activity and the development of movement skills

Prepare the environment and explain how it allows all children to develop, practise and extend their movement skills according to their age, need and abilities: provide a safe, secure encouraging environment; working in partnership with parents; inclusive environment that meets the needs of individual children; clear planning on how to meet and support the needs of the child; provide quiet and nosier periods/areas; provide indoor and outdoor activities that develop fine manipulative skills, fine and gross motor skills; provide activities that encourage the repetition of physical skills; showing sensitivity to culture and background of individual children when preparing the environment

Demonstrate in own practice how young children are kept safe when undertaking challenging physical activities: relevant health and safety procedures are implemented; children are encouraged and supported to take managed risks; children are supported and encouraged during physical activities, children given appropriate levels of supervision and independence; children encouraged to think about risks and consequences of risks in physical play (according to their age and abilities); opportunities for children to express choices and preferences; children encouraged to show awareness of themselves and others

Explain the importance of natural outdoor environments for young children’s physical activity and movement skills: provides the opportunity for children to gain first-hand contact with weather, seasons and the natural world; provides freedom and space to explore and be physically active; opportunity to use senses and imagination, positive impact on wellbeing; encourages all aspects of learning and development

3 Be able to plan and implement physical activities for young children

Plan opportunities for physical activity for young children: plan age-appropriate and stage-appropriate physical activities based on the children’s current interests, needs and preferences; physical activities that are safe and stimulating; provide opportunities to develop existing skills as well as develop new ones

Meeting the individual movement skills needs of children: eg taking into account the age and abilities of children, adopting an inclusive approach to facilitate participation by all children, children with special needs and/or disabilities, awareness of stage of development of child and preparing them for next stage of development, challenge existing skills and encourage development of new skills

Including activities that promote competence in movement skills: use of indoor and outdoor activities; development of coordination, gross motor skills, fine motor skills; different types of activities eg games, dance and creative movement, swimming for young children, athletics for young children, use of small and large play equipment

Encouraging physical play: activities planned eg to be stimulating, challenging but safe, age and stage-appropriate, positive adult approach to role modelling and participation in physical play and activity, presenting physical play as fun, adequate space, opportunities, resources and equipment made available

How planned physical activities are implemented: eg appropriate adult supervision of planned physical activities, health and safety requirements implemented, activities are inclusive and reflect age, needs and abilities of children in setting, adequate adaptation of activities for children with disabilities or special needs, adequate time, space and resources made available for physical activities

4 Be able to build opportunities for physical activity into everyday routines for young children

Importance of building physical activity into everyday routines: eg building good habits for the future, activities become enjoyable rather than a task, informal opportunities to build fitness, stamina and good health
Demonstrate in own practice how young children are provided with opportunities for physical activity within everyday routines: identify the opportunities children have for physical activity within the daily routine; how these opportunities are utilised

5 Be able to evaluate the effectiveness of provision in supporting young children’s physical activity and movement skills

Effectiveness of planned provision in supporting physical activity and supporting confidence and progression in movement skills: assessing progress of individual children; feedback from children, parents and others involved in the setting; comparing outcomes of planned provision against goals, targets and other forms of measurement

Identify and record areas for improvement: observation; improving activity delivery; assess progress of children; comparing against objectives set for activity; setting realistic goals for improvement

Reflect on own practice in supporting young children’s physical development and movement skills: regular reflection; focused; use a structured approach; appropriate way of recording eg a reflective journal/diary, learning log, diary, critical incident journal; reflective questions eg description (what happened, what was the context); analysis (what went well, why, what did not go well, why, how do I feel about it, why did I do what I did); theory (what needs to be done differently, why); action (what needs to be done next, how); seek alternatives; keep an open mind; view from different perspectives; think about consequences; test ideas through comparing and contrasting; ask 'what if?'; synthesise ideas; seek, identify and resolve questions

Unit 41: Support Care Within Fostering Services for Vulnerable Children and Young People

Unit code: CYPOP 42
Unit reference number: J/601/1806
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 20

Unit summary
To assess competence in the provision of specialised support care within fostering services for vulnerable children and young people. Support care is preventative and aims to prevent admission into local authority care. It is also sometimes used to support adoption services.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2 and 3 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit 43: Facilitate the Learning and Development of Children and Young People Through Mentoring

Unit code: CYPOP 44
Unit reference number: T/601/1381
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 4
Guided learning hours: 30

Unit summary

This unit is describes the skills and knowledge required to identify the learning and development needs of children and young people and help them express their goals and aspirations. It also describes the application of those skills and knowledge to the practice of mentoring individual children or young people to enable them to achieve identified and agreed outcomes. Reviewing the effectiveness of the mentoring process is also an important outcome of the unit.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.

Unit summary

To prepare learners to work as home-based child carers/childminders. As well as learning relevant aspects of childcare this knowledge based unit supports the development of policies and procedures relevant to registration and the basic business skills to set up a home based childcare service.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Assessment must include a portfolio of items relevant to registration with the registering authority in the relevant UK home country.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how to set up a home based childcare service

Current legislation covering home-based childcare and the role of regulatory bodies: registration requirements and registration procedure; training; inspection eg the role of Ofsted; meeting the requirements of frameworks and legislation for relevant home nation eg Early Years Foundation Stage, Every Child Matters

Develop policies and procedures: why policies and procedures are required in the setting; policies that are required including accidents, illness and emergencies, behaviour, safeguarding, equal opportunities, how policies are implemented eg updating policies, meeting the requirements of the relevant framework, plans and procedures of what to do in an emergency, use of relevant forms to record illness and accidents

Importance of confidentiality and data protection: why maintaining confidentiality is important; maintaining principles of trust; giving and receiving sensitive information; storing information; policy and practice, legislation; circumstances when it is not possible to maintain confidentiality eg disclosure of certain information by a child

Develop a marketing plan for own home-based childcare service: eg how to target information at families, where to advertise, methods of advertising, identifying own unique selling points (USP), promoting vacancies

Financial planning for own home-based service: eg financial planning, record-keeping, budget management, expenses, financial records, completion of tax returns, self-assessment, making and receiving payments

Sources of support and information for the setting up and running of home based childcare business: eg National Childminding Association, Ofsted, childminder groups, childminding network, training, publications and magazines such as Who Minds

2 Understand how to establish a safe and healthy home-based environment for children

Key components of a healthy and safe home-based environment: meeting requirements for early years framework of home nation eg Early Years Foundation Stage; meeting the requirements of other relevant policies eg Every Child Matters–Being Healthy, Staying Safe, Enjoying and Achieving, Making a Positive Contribution, Achieving Economic Wellbeing; providing a stimulating and enabling environment, providing for children’s developmental needs; providing a physically safe environment; meeting children’s emotional needs; providing appropriate routines for children; know why accidents happen and how to prevent them
Principles of safe supervision of children in the home-based setting and off site: treating children as individuals; recognising individual needs and abilities; providing appropriate levels of supervision; risk assessments and home safety

Ways of ensuring that equipment is suitable for children and meets safety requirements: eg following manufacturer’s guidelines, carrying out risk assessments, identifying child’s stage of development, selecting appropriate resources and equipment, checking equipment regularly for signs of wear or damage, regular cleaning of equipment

Know where to obtain current guidance on health and safety risk assessment of the home-based work setting: eg National Childminding Association website, Ofsted, National Standards website, Health and Safety Executive, Pre-school Learning Alliance

How to store and administer medicines: written permission to administer routine medication; medicines to be stored in original container and clearly labelled with child’s name, date of birth and details of how and when to be administered; secure storage, if refrigeration is required for medicines, they should be kept in a secure box away from food and clearly labelled; medicines must only be prescribed by a medical professional

3 Understand the importance of partnerships with parents for all aspects of the home-based childcare service

Importance of partnership with parents for all aspects of the childcare service: parents are the child’s first and main carer and educator; strong partnerships promote emotional security and development of child; sharing of information helps to provide best care, support transitions, and support the settling-in process; following parental wishes with regards to feeding, sleep routines and care routines

How partnership with parents are set up and maintained: eg good communication with parents, exchanging information regularly, establishing a relationship prior to starting in the setting, home visits, settling-in visits, value input and ideas of parents, encourage parents to be involved in decisions affecting their child

4 Understand the principles of development of routines for home based childcare

How routines are established: routines should meet the child’s individual needs and where possible be the same as the home routine; parental involvement in developing individual routine eg getting information and feedback from parents regarding child’s routine, dislikes and preferences, involving parents in decision making; participation of child eg giving children clear instructions but also allowing element of choice and independence as appropriate to age and abilities, routine should encourage child to participate, feel secure and cared for; different aspect of daily routine eg sleep routines, feeding routines, hygiene routines
Adapt routines to meet the needs of children at different ages and stages of development: consideration given to individual requirements and needs; necessary changes made to routines to accommodate each child eg younger children need naps during the day whereas an older child may only require a period of rest or quiet time.

Ensure that each child is welcomed and valued in the home-based work setting: eg warmly greeting each child and parent, recognising individual needs, welcoming and encouraging comforters, encouraging or creating links with home eg a daily diary, ensuring the child’s faith or heritage is represented in the activities, toys and equipment of the setting.

5 Understand how to provide play and other activities for children in home-based settings that will support equality and inclusion

Importance of play to children’s learning and development and the need for inclusive approach: importance of play to learning and development eg important learning tool, play is a key way to learn in an enjoyable and challenging manner, play should be at a child’s own level, provides the opportunity to try out and develop new and existing skills, play supports all areas of child’s development; importance of inclusive approach eg making play accessible to all children in the setting regardless of age, ethnicity, cultural background, disability or ability, ensuring adequate opportunities and resources are available for play, adapting play to meet needs of individual children.

Plan a challenging and enjoyable learning environment in the home: use of everyday domestic routines eg cooking, cleaning, washing up, gardening, shopping as learning experiences; suitable play activities and experiences.

What can be learned about children by observing them at play: promotes understanding of the basic needs of children; knowledge of their individual needs; helps identify how best to meet their needs; helps identify developmental progress; helps identify any changes in child’s normal pattern of behaviour; raises awareness of possible hazards in the home and signs of illness; observation of play aids planning of activities and experiences.

Identify how and why it is important that children receive equal treatment and access based on their individual needs and acknowledging their rights: equal access and treatment based on individual needs as required by legislation and policy eg Every Child Matters, Early Years Foundation Stage, Equality Act 2010; importance of equality of treatment and access and individual needs/rights for development of child in all areas eg physical development, development of communication, intellectual/cognitive development, social, emotional and behavioural development, moral development; negative impact of inequality and lack of emphasis on individual needs eg delayed development, negative behaviour; child-centred approach improves chances of positive outcomes for children.

Compare how other resources available for children support their play: eg consider how everyday experiences support play and can be made into learning opportunities eg cooking, shopping.

Concept of safeguarding and the duty of care that applies to all practitioners: the welfare of the child is paramount and first duty of care is the child; safeguarding refers to keeping a child safe from harm of any kind and child protection is part of this responsibility; the home and garden should be safe; safety plans should be made for visits and outings; adult must be alert to possible dangers around children; practitioners are responsible to ‘recognise, respond and refer’; practitioners have a duty to report any suspicious incidents as well as accidents

Possible signs, symptoms, indicators and behaviours that may cause concern in the context of safeguarding: commonly accepted definitions of abuse including physical abuse, physical neglect, emotional neglect, failure to thrive, sexual abuse, emotional abuse, organised abuse; range of possible signs and symptoms; changes in normal pattern of behaviour can vary greatly depending on the age of the child eg showing apprehension when children cry, displaying self-destructive behaviour, displaying aggression, comfort-seeking; other signs eg unexplained or unsatisfactory explanation of injury, poor hygiene, severe persistent nappy rash, constant tiredness, constant illnesses

Regulatory requirements for safeguarding children that affect home-based childcare: first duty of care is the child; duty to recognise, respond and refer; duty to record details of disclosure or injuries; any cause for concern is to be reported following the Local Safeguarding Children Board procedures; child protection concerns that could identify a particular child are kept confidential and only shared with people who need to know this information

Procedures that need to be followed by lone workers in home-based settings when harm or abuse are suspected or alleged either against them or third parties: any allegations of abuse that are alleged to have taken place within the setting must be reported immediately to relevant authority for own home nation eg Ofsted

Typical behaviours exhibited by young children: expected behaviour for their stage of development; possible reactions to key events in their lives eg regression, aggression, withdrawal

How ground rules for behaviour and expectations are developed and implemented: eg rules developed with the input of the children, clearly displayed and/or communicated and regularly referred to, updated if required, kept simple and achievable, are age and stage-appropriate

Unit 47: Promote Creativity and Creative Learning in Young Children

Unit code: CYPOP 7
Unit reference number: A/601/0135
QCF level: 4
Credit value: 5
Guided learning hours: 35

Unit summary
The unit is designed to deepen knowledge and understanding of the importance of creativity and creative learning for young children and competence in promoting this in early years settings. The unit also encourages the learner to support change and improvement in practice.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Unit content

1 Understand the concepts of creativity and creative learning and how these affect all aspects of young children’s learning and development

Differences between creative learning and creativity: creativity as a process eg developing music, dance, writing stories, drama, drawing, painting; creativity involves taking risks and experimenting; links between imagination and creativity; creative learning provides opportunities for exploring, discovery, sensory development, experimentatation

Current theoretical approaches to creativity and creative learning in early childhood: ‘creativity and critical thinking’ as one of the commitments to the EYFS principle of learning and development; focus more on creative process than end product; important connections between creativity, problem-solving and critical thinking; link between play and development of creativity in babies and young children; creativity and imagination linked to development of reading and writing; theories of leading early years specialists eg Moyles

How creativity and creative learning can support young children’s emotional, social, intellectual, communication and physical development: creativity supports all areas of a child’s development; how creative activities can support and encourage creative development eg children working together on a collaborative piece of work may develop their social skills, physical creativity such as dance can enhance development of balance and coordination, activities such as writing and poetry encourage development of language skills

2 Be able to provide opportunities for young children to develop their creativity and creative learning

How to promote creativity and creative learning: eg provide plenty of opportunity and time to play, provide a wide range of stimulating materials and resources, encourage children to use resources in many different ways, opportunities to represent ideas in different ways, sensitive supportive practitioners, providing more child-initiated activity than adult-led tasks, recognising that over-organised activities can stifle creativity, celebrating and displaying the creative work of all children

Why young children require extended and unhurried periods of time to develop their creativity: eg adequate time to develop ideas, experiment with materials and resources, opportunity to revisit creative activities and experiences, opportunity to express feelings and opinions, opportunity to solve problems and challenges for themselves
3 Be able to develop the environment to support young children’s creativity and creative learning

Explain the features of an environment that supports creativity and creative learning: wide range of resources and materials linked to creativity; time to develop ideas and to revisit experiences; opportunity given to explore, experiment and problem-solve; sensitive, supportive interactions from practitioners; the process is valued above the end product; inclusivity means everyone’s creative work is valued

Monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of aspects of the environment in supporting young children’s creativity and creative learning: observe children engaged in creativity in different areas of the setting; aspects of the environment eg adult intervention, physical resources, space and equipment, atmosphere; evaluate what went well and identify what the practitioner could do to enhance the children’s creative experiences

4 Be able to support the development of practice in promoting young children’s creativity and creative learning within the setting

Evaluate and reflect on own practice in promoting creativity and creative thinking: consider each area of development and how creativity is being used to support it; evaluate own ideas on how creativity should be promoted in the setting; evaluate practice against agreed criteria and objectives; use of appropriate tools and resources for evaluation and reflection eg reflective practice log; identify where changes, development and additional training or support are required; reflecting on whether own practice has contributed to meeting the needs of individual children or young people; obtaining feedback from children or young people and others involved in the setting

Support others to develop their practice in promoting creativity and creative learning: eg information sharing and sharing of best practice, give constructive feedback to develop competence, confidence and motivation in others, use feedback to raise awareness of others’ strengths, support others to identify areas for improvement and advise on actions to be taken to improve performance, help others identify sources of support and training, encourage mentoring and work shadowing

Develop a programme of change to the environment to enhance creativity and creative learning giving a justification and expected outcomes for each area of change: changes to the environment eg atmosphere, resources, equipment, planning and/or assessment of creative activities; develop programme of change eg use appropriate documents and/or procedures for planning, work in collaboration with children, parents and others in the setting, use appropriate goals and means of measuring outcomes, show clear evidence of inclusivity and child-centred focus in the programme of change, implement change at appropriate time and in appropriate circumstances

Unit 49: Provide Information and Advice to Children and Young People

Unit code: CYPOP 9
Unit reference number: A/601/1334
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 22

Unit summary

The aim of this unit is to provide the learner with the skills and knowledge to enable them to provide accurate, up-to-date and impartial information and advice to children and young people, to enable them to make an informed choice about their future.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit must be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2 and 3 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the role of practitioners in providing information and advice to children and young people

Importance of providing accurate and up-to-date information and advice: planning for future education and employment eg selection of exam subjects, education pathways, FE/HE, training schemes/working and learning, apprenticeships, employment, work experience, voluntary work; financial implications eg benefits, maintenance allowances, education grants and loans, sponsorships, bursaries, internships; types of contracts eg short-term, fixed term, part time, full time, temporary, permanent; pay and working conditions eg minimum wage, shift patterns, working environments, holiday and sickness arrangements; signposting to current support agencies or professionals eg careers advisers, Connexions, Job Centres, advice and guidance centres, admissions officers

Role of practitioners in providing impartial information and advice: support in making informed choices, protect from exploitation; support in preparing for employment eg CVs, interview skills, personal presentation; signposting for personal issues and relationships eg counselling, health services, advocacy and legal help, personal safety

2 Be able to establish and address the information and advice needs of children and young people

Encourage participation and engagement: use of effective communication skills eg active listening, positive body language, summarising, checking and reflecting back; use of effective conversation skills eg inviting feedback, open questions; use of appropriate environment; use of communication systems or personnel to support physical or sensory need

Information and advice needs: eg interests and motivation, academic qualifications, certificates such as first aid, achievements such as school awards, scouting awards, sports awards, work experience/employer testimonials, progress files, school reports, health and fitness activities, hobbies

Appropriate sources: publicity leaflets eg careers, colleges, university and higher education prospectuses, careers leaflets, Connexions, Job Centre advertisements, newspaper advertisements; web-based and IT sources eg UCAS, career planning software, CV builders; access to information by young people with physical or sensory needs, or languages other than English; appropriate ways of finding information to find out needs of child or young person eg verbal information, internet searching, documentary information, contact information for organisations

Verify the accuracy and currency of information: eg publication dates, contact names, up-to-date telephone numbers, currency of systems and procedures, up-to-date financial information, current benefits information

Managing choices different from those of carers: eg listening skills, encouraging explanation for choices, offering realistic alternatives, mediating, diffusing arguments, negotiating, showing diplomacy and understanding, signposting to relevant support and information for all parties
3 Be able to provide children and young people with appropriate information and advice to enable them to make informed choices

Importance of providing opportunities for informed choices: empowers child or young person with sense of ownership, independence and control, builds confidence and self-esteem, presents measurable and realistic goals, supports appropriate career planning

Choices available: eg full-time education, apprenticeships, higher education, employment

How to check that the young person has understood the range of available options: eg question, repeat, summarise, ask for clarification, make lists, use mind maps and/or flow diagrams, set out actions and targets with deadlines, ask young person to write down main points of meeting, check understanding via support personnel where there are physical or sensory needs or language differences

Record interaction following organisational procedures and legal requirements: eg data protection, confidentiality

Unit 50: Support Young People to Move Towards Independence and Manage Their Lives

Unit code: CYPOP 12
Unit reference number: F/601/1349
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 20

Unit summary
This unit provides understanding and competence to support young people to move towards independence. This should ideally be undertaken over a period of time so that young people are well prepared as they grow older and are ready to be independent adults. This unit is equally important whether young people are leaving care, foster care or family home.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with the Skills for Care and Development's QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 2, 3 and 4 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the way that young people move from dependence to independence

Difficulties in moving to independence: emotional reasons eg incomplete attachment, loneliness, absence of positive role models, damaging or unsatisfactory relationships; physical and intellectual reasons eg disabilities, learning difficulties, mental health problems, risks, threats; social reasons eg disrupted living arrangements, multiple placements, abuse or exploitation

Independence – relative to stage of development and level of understanding and ability: eg social maturity, cognitive maturity, ability to process information, organisational and time management skills, motivation and determination, assertiveness and ability to negotiate, self-advocacy, self-care skills, physical needs and dependence

Transitions and movement between dependence and independence: eg leaving school, home, care setting, partnerships, relationship breakdown, end of training/apprenticeship/work placement, physical health/mental health needs, pregnancy, financial status, employment, unemployment, benefits

2 Be able to prepare young people for the practical challenges of independence

Shopping for, storing and preparing food for a healthy, balanced diet: shopping eg budgeting, understanding produce ‘sell by’, ‘use by’ and ‘best before’ dates, nutritional values and labelling, government recommendations for daily food intake, eating for health; storing food eg temperature, expiry dates, refrigerator/freezer storage, dry foods, tins, jars and drinks; preparing food eg hygiene of surfaces, separate boards and utensils, hand-washing, safe preparation of meat and fish, oven temperatures, cooking times; healthy, balanced diet eg nutrition essentials, food groups and portions, fibre, salt/sugar content, fat content, additives, fresh fruit and vegetables

Prepare plans for maintaining health and wellbeing: health eg registering with GP and dentist, attending medical screening, regular dental check ups, seeking medical advice; wellbeing eg healthy balanced diet, safe limits for alcohol consumption, smoking cessation advice, regular exercise, rest and sleep, hobbies and relaxation

Information to manage and maintain accommodation: manage eg where to find rented accommodation, how to rent a flat/room/house, legal position of tenants/lodgers, keeping a rent book/receipts, understanding rental agreements/contracts/periods of notice/bonds; maintenance eg regular basic maintenance such as changing light bulbs, simple DIY such as putting up pictures, curtain rails, hooks, gardening, essential repairs such as water heaters, central heating boilers, plumbing and sanitation, reading meters, understanding landlord/tenant responsibilities
Managing personal finances: eg budgeting, understanding how bank accounts work, avoiding and/or managing debt, understanding credit, avoiding financial abuse, understanding consumer rights, seeking financial advice

Why practical support and advice for independence is long-term: changes occur dependent on eg life skills, short-term or long-term emotional health, cognitive and language skills, memory and understanding, social skills, physical and sensory needs, personal safety and vulnerability, fluctuations in financial stability, benefits status; needs eg assessment of practical/life skills, outreach support, 24 hour contact points, safe and secure accommodation, mentoring, consistency and availability of support, key person

3 Be able to prepare young people for the emotional challenges of independence

Recognising society norms of acceptable behaviour and interaction: eg dealing with challenges, demonstrating self-control, coping with change, making positive relationships, using acceptable language, making decisions, understanding and keeping within the law

Where to find support for isolation or loneliness: eg self-help groups, youth centres or clubs, sports clubs, key workers, family support workers, social workers, pastoral support in schools and colleges, drop-in centres, friends, online social networks

How to support those worried and unsure about becoming independent: eg listen, share anxieties, offer constructive solutions to problems, be positive, offer practical support, act as advocate/mediator/negotiator

Supporting the development of resilience: eg encouraging positive interactions, cooperation, participation, promoting a positive self-image, encouraging ownership, personal empowerment and control, minimising defensiveness and aggression, show interest in achievements, support educational and personal goals

The importance of ‘home’: eg feelings of stability, security, familiarity, safety, confidence, happiness, feeling of wellbeing

Risks in day-to-day situations: eg pubs and clubs, shopping in crowds, obtaining cash, shopping online, meeting people through the internet, opening the door to strangers, purchasing on the doorstep

Assessing risks: eg awareness of alcohol-related behaviour, theft, bank/credit card fraud, credibility of internet contacts, stranger danger, reliability of doorstep sales

Minimising risks: eg going out in pairs or groups, informing of whereabouts and expected return times, providing personal contact information, protecting bag or wallet from theft, awareness of credit and debit card fraud, danger of giving personal details over the internet, Information and skills for self-protection: sensible precautions eg planning journeys, having contingency plans if arrangements change, spreading valuables about person and out of sight, being aware of pickpockets, keeping in touch with friends/family/carers, avoiding being alone on public transport or taxis, moving away from people if feeling uncomfortable, avoiding distractions such as sending text messages on mobile phone or listening to music, knowing how to reverse charges from public telephone, knowing how to contact emergency services.

Unit 51: Support the Creativity of Children and Young People

Unit code: CYPOP 30
Unit reference number: M/600/9807
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 20

Unit summary

This unit provides competence in working with children and young people to develop their creativity and innovative thinking. The unit explores day-to-day creativity for living and participation in organised creative activities.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit should be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcome 2, learning outcome 3 and learning outcome 4 should be assessed in a real work situation.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how creativity promotes wellbeing for children and young people

Benefits of creativity for the wellbeing of children and young people:
creativity as key aspect of effective learning and development; adults should draw on creativity of children and young people in planning and carrying out learning activities; encourages problem-solving, flexibility and imagination, provides opportunity for reflection and reasoning, allows children and young people to try out ideas and experiment, enables children and young people to apply what they have already learnt

Potential benefits of different types of creative activity: different types of creative activity eg solitary, shared, group, sedentary (eg writing), active (eg gardening, sport), cerebral (eg chess, computer games) benefits of different types of creativity include emotional and social development, intellectual development, ability to express own ideas, participate in teamwork, bond with adults and peers; eg model making can promote problem-solving, intellectual development, imagination, eg music and dance can have emotional benefits enabling children and young people to express themselves and participate in physical exercise

Formal and informal creative activity: formal activity tends to be adult-led; informal tends to be child-initiated; aiming for balance between child-initiated and adult-led experiences; different types of informal creative activity eg creative thinking, cooking, baking, flower arranging, decorating, computer gaming; different types of formal creative activity eg drama groups, music groups, art classes, creative writing groups, discussion and debating groups, fashion design classes, architectural design or drawing

2 Be able to encourage children and young people to recognise and value their own and others’ creativity

Working with children and young people to promote and encourage creativity: provide opportunities in setting for appropriate creative activities; guide and support creative experiences without taking over, encourage child-initiated or young person-initiated creativity; show genuine interest; praise and encourage creativity; ‘scaffold’ learning

Importance of encouraging children and young people to recognise and value creativity: valuing creativity and demonstrating positive acceptance helps children and young people to see creativity and self-expression in a positive light, children and young people learn to value own talents and skills and those of others, development of self-esteem and sense of achievement can be transferred to other areas of life

Encouraging children or young people to explore their opportunities for creative activity: eg help children and young people relate creativity to everyday life experiences and events eg leisure activities, schoolwork, community projects, charity fundraisers, explain how one creative skill can be linked to another eg music and dance, poetry and song lyrics, listen carefully to ideas of children and young people and offer constructive feedback

3 Be able to support children and young people to take part in creative activities

Resources to support children and young people to take part in organised creative activities: indoor and outdoor space; time and opportunity; sensitive, supportive interactions from adults; access to a range of suitable resources and materials

Encouraging children or young people who are taking part in organised creative activities: engaging in positive interactions with children and young people during creative activities; offering advice or feedback when requested without being intrusive; recognising that risk and challenge is part of the creative process for child or young person; helping them to identify what went well and what could have been done differently or achieved more successfully

Importance of encouraging carers to support children and young people’s creative activities: creative development has greater impact when its principles are shared and equally valued both in the setting and within the home environment

4 Be able to participate in creative, day-to-day activities with children and young people

Importance of spending creative time with children and young people: positive impact on all round development of child or young person eg developing teamwork skills, bonding with adults and peers, developing problem-solving skills, thinking skills, supports emotional development and self-esteem

Spend time with children and young people in creative activity: eg actively encourage children and young people to initiate their own learning and make choices and decisions as appropriate to their age and abilities, make use of everyday opportunities (both planned and spontaneous) to develop creative thought and expression in child or young person, ask appropriate questions to extend and support child’s curiosity and thinking, show interest in and respect for child or young person’s thoughts, feelings and ideas so that child or young person is encouraged to express their thoughts, feelings and ideas

Supporting children and young people to recognise how creativity can be used in all aspects of life: help children and young people recognise links between creative activity and everyday experiences; recognise and highlight skills used for different tasks; identify how skills are transferable between activities

Unit 52: Work with Children and Young People in a Residential Care Setting

Unit code: CYPOP 35
Unit reference number: A/600/9809
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 5
Guided learning hours: 35

Unit summary
This unit provides generic knowledge and competence for practitioners working in residential care, regardless of the theoretical approach used. Many areas of competence for working with children and young people are common to all practitioners, but this unit explores the specific skills and understanding needed to share a living space with children and young people.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s Assessment Strategy. Learning outcomes 3, 4 and 5 must be assessed in real work situations. Simulation is not permitted for these learning outcomes.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand the legal, policy, rights and theoretical framework for residential care for children and young people

   Current theoretical approaches to residential provision for children and young people: attachment theory; separation/loss theory; concept of corporate parent

   Influence of current policies and legislation on residential care provision: requirements of national minimum standards for children’s care homes; Human Rights Act 1998, Children Leaving Care Act 2000, Local Authority circulars (eg LAC (2004)), Office for National Statistics; emphasis on multi-agency working and integrated approach; child-centred or young-centred approach to provision of services; emphasis on positive outcomes for child or young person

   How the life chances and outcomes of children and young people in residential care compare with those who are not: eg children in residential care or who have been in residential care more likely to feel socially excluded, more likely to experience difficulty in succeeding in education and finding long-term employment, more likely to have emotional and behavioural difficulties

2 Understand own role and professional responsibilities in a residential care setting

   Requirements of professional codes of conduct and how they apply to day-to-day work activities: professional bodies; Care Councils eg General Social Care Council (GSCC), Care Council for Wales, Northern Ireland Social Care; Council code of practice; requirements of organisational policies of setting eg quality issues, complaints and appeal procedures, confidentiality, human rights, employee and employer rights and responsibilities, equal opportunities policies, whistle-blowing, anti-discriminatory practice, recording and storing of information, confidentiality

   How to ensure that own practice is inclusive and anti-discriminatory and how to challenge practice that is not: understanding and adapting own beliefs and attitudes; recognising stereotypes in attitudes or written materials; review and develop inclusive policy and procedures; identifying and challenging discriminatory behaviour; know how to report concerns; whistle-blowing policy; confidentiality; protection from repercussions towards the individual who reported the incident or those whose practice is being questioned; avoiding discrimination or victimisation
How power, prejudice and discrimination can affect children and young people: discrimination eg direct discrimination, indirect discrimination, institutional discrimination; prejudice and discrimination eg some individuals being treated less favourably than others, lack of opportunity, injustice, harassment, stereotyping, labelling; affect on children and young people eg delay in development, diminished opportunities and life chances, disadvantage, feeling of exclusion and rejection, lack of motivation and reluctance to participate, feelings of mistrust, anger, despair, confusion, negative impact on self-esteem and self-image, negative behaviour eg aggression, violence, self-harm

How to fulfil own responsibilities to colleagues through responsible, constructive and cooperative teamworking: importance of teamwork; inclusive practice; non-judgemental attitude; valuing professionalism and skills of colleagues; using agreed assessment methods; accurate report writing and care planning; develop good interpersonal skills eg assertiveness, effective communicator; relationships built on trust and mutual respect

Professional requirement to maintain current, competent practice: Continuous Professional Development (CPD) requirements; understand and follow lines of reporting and accountability; requirements and procedures for record-keeping, sharing information, staff supervision and support; adhering to codes of conduct and ethics for own profession

Importance of maintaining positive relationships with people in the local community: developing partnerships with the local community eg through projects, volunteering, mentors; active listening to the ideas of people in the local community; knowledge of groups represented in the local community eg beliefs, cultures, values, preferences; using appropriate and/or preferred methods of communication with people in the local community

3 Be able to work with children and young people through the day-to-day activities involved in sharing a living space

Develop relationships with children or young people through jointly undertaking practical activities: sharing of residential tasks appropriate to young person’s age and in line with policies and legislation; taking account of child or young person’s culture, beliefs, ethnicity, age, abilities, interests and individual when involving them in practical activities; adopting inclusive approach to undertaking of practical activities; offer support and encourage development of independence and accountability in child or young person; offer choice/flexibility and involve child or young person in decision making as appropriate

Ways to work with children or young people to plan, review and evaluate activities and agreements for group living: importance of young people taking ownership of living space; recognise child or young person’s need for independence and sense of belonging and dignity; involve child or young person in decision making; design achievable, realistic activities and arrangements; other ways eg identify resources and support necessary for success, agree a review process and timeframes for achievement, identify and celebrate progress and achievements, identify where agreed goals have not been met, agree reasons for non-achievement, involve child or young person in agreeing any changes to activities and arrangements, provide clear reasons and instructions regarding any changes

How to encourage children or young people to take responsibility for their own plans: support children and young people to take responsibility for their own plans as appropriate to their age and level of understanding; provide accurate information about consequences so that children and young people can make well-informed choices; provide support in a non-judgemental and respectful way; encourage development of self-esteem so that children and young people feel confident about making choices relating to their own lives

How to link planning day-to-day activities in a residential setting links to the overall care plan for a child or young person: need for young people to share their views meaningfully and in a variety of ways; involve children or young people in decisions that affect their lives; help children and young people to understand the importance of attending care review meetings and other meetings; planning and recording how day-to-day activities meets individual development needs of the child or young person eg development of social and communication skills, physical development, emotional development

How to encourage positive behaviour through modelling and reinforcement in all aspects of group living: importance of worker being a good role model through own behaviour and using positive reinforcement; encourage children and young people to attend school, complete homework, participate in other activities

4 Be able to work with children and young people in a residential setting

How to facilitate agreement of arrangements for living together regardless of group size: act as a positive role model, assist children and young people to show consideration to others; allow young people to devise ‘house rules’ and to share their views on what should occur when the ‘rules’ are not adhered to; set clear boundaries

How to address and resolve conflict and disagreements with and between children or young people in a residential setting: eg acting as a positive role model, importance of encouraging children or young people to resolve conflict for themselves if possible, empowering children and young people to make positive choices for themselves, support children and young people in learning how to deal with disagreements and develop conflict solving strategies, assist children and young people in developing coping strategies, stress management and anger management skills, enable children and young people to avoid violence, plan positive, attractive activities for children and young people to engage in to minimise risk of boredom

Use an understanding of group dynamics to promote and encourage children or young people to achieve positive outcomes in all aspects of their lives: the stages of forming groups, eg Tuckman’s theory; different types of group which a child or young person might be part of; how people in a group gain or do not gain influence over others in the group eg through social status, appearance, age, personality; effect of group dynamics and influence of others on child or young person’s behaviour, self- image, self-identity and self-esteem; supporting child or young person’s links with their families and local community

5 Be able to safeguard children and young people in a residential care setting

How to equip children or young people to feel safe and to manage risks:
support children and young people to assess risks; help children and young people develop skills to minimise risks; provide information about ways for children and young people to feel safe and protect themselves

The practical application of legislation, policies and procedures and key messages form research and child protection enquiries for residential care setting: highlighting the importance of personal safety eg via talks from relevant local agencies, input from PCSO, Youth Offending Team worker; inter-agency practice, multi-agency working, integrated approach and information sharing; listening to views and concerns of children and young people; working in an open, accountable and transparent way; following requirements for risk assessment; implications of Serious Case Reviews, legislation, policies on missing children or young people in care; reporting arrangements where abuse inside and/or outside the setting is suspected; requirements for reporting recording and sharing information; importance of following organisational policies for setting

How to take action to protect children and young people in residential care from risks of harm or abuse from outside or inside the residential setting: follow required policies and procedures of the residential care setting eg health and safety, behaviour management plans and care plans, supervised/restricted contact between child or young person and certain people outside of the setting; work in integrated way to share information with other agencies and professionals involved in the care of the child or young person; help children and young people develop skills to protect themselves from risk of harm or abuse; understanding of individual circumstances, needs and abilities of child or young person that could make them vulnerable to harm or abuse

Unit 53: Promote Positive Behaviour

Unit code: HSC 3045
Unit reference number: F/601/3764
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 6
Guided learning hours: 44

Unit summary

The purpose of this unit is to provide the learner with the knowledge, understanding and skills required to promote positive behaviour and respond appropriately to incidences of challenging behaviour.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements

This unit must be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development's QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 3, 4, 5 and 6 must be assessed in a real work environment.

Learners can enter the types of evidence they are presenting for assessment and the submission date against each assessment criterion. Alternatively, centre documentation should be used to record this information.
Unit content

1 Understand how legislation, frameworks, codes of practice and policies relate to positive behaviour support

Restrictive interventions: planned intervention based on risk assessment and care plan or emergency intervention based on judgement identification of risk; contact should be with robust areas of the body only and with clear justifications; guidance from Physical Control in Care (HMP, 2005)

Who needs to be informed when restrictive interventions have been used: as required by relevant legislation, policies or procedures eg manager, supervisor, headteacher, parent/carer of the child or young person who has been subject to restrictive intervention, if any other child or young person has been injured during the incident of restrictive intervention then the parent/carer of injured child or young person should be informed of injury to their child

Why least restrictive interventions should always be used: when using physical restraint, the level and duration of the restraint should always be the minimum necessary to restore safety; least restrictive interventions are in the best interest of the child or young person and others eg because restrictive intervention of child or young person who is aggressive or highly agitated could increase the child or young person’s level of aggression or agitation; overly restrictive interventions may violate rights, dignity and safety of the child or young person, use of least restrictive interventions in order to maintain respect for the dignity and rights of the child or young person throughout the incident

Acceptable and unacceptable interventions: acceptable when reasonable force is necessary in order to restrict movement and protect from injury or harm eg head banging, hair pulling, self harming, cutting own skin, self-induced vomiting, injury to others; unacceptable eg shaking the child or young person, causing pain, using restrictive interventions as a source of punishment, restricting breathing

Safeguards must be in place if restrictive interventions are used: organisational policies and procedures, eg assessment of risk, risk reduction, lines of reporting, named persons, advocacy, confidentiality, recording arrangements, complaints policy, appeals procedure, behaviour management plan; staff training including breakaway strategies; presence of medically trained staff
2 Understand the context and use of proactive and reactive strategies

Proactive strategies: preparing, supporting and equipping the child or young person to behave in a positive way eg child-centred or young person centred approach, setting boundaries and agreeing ground rules as appropriate to needs of individual child or young person, use of positive, realistic and effective behaviour management plan for individual child or young person, practical considerations such as arrangement of the setting, appropriate body language and tone of voice, proximity to child or young person.

Reactive strategies: response to inappropriate behaviour of child or young person eg managing and de-escalating the situation, active listening, being non-threatening, being calm, encouraging appropriate behaviour, not ignoring the behaviour, removing demands, creating diversionary activities, reinforcing positive behaviour.

Importance of identifying patterns of behaviour or triggers to challenging behaviour: identifying triggers and how to minimise triggers eg ensure appropriate structure/planning of environment, resources and activities to meet child’s individual needs and provide sense of security, calm and safety; importance of consistency, familiarity and routine in minimising risk of triggers; setting clear boundaries and communicating them in a way that is clearly understandable to child or young person.

Child-centred or young person-centred approach: eg use of individual behaviour management plans, involve child or young person in decision making as appropriate to their age and abilities, listening to views of child or young person, providing opportunities for child or young person to express their feelings and thoughts.

Importance of reinforcing positive behaviour: eg being a positive role model, reinforcing behavioural expectations, giving praise and positive attention, effective communication, building trusting relationships, allowing child to have privacy and space.

Impact on individual’s wellbeing of using reactive rather than proactive strategies: eg proactive strategies more likely than reactive strategies to enhance child’s sense of independence, self-esteem and self-efficacy because they are aimed at preventing rather than managing unacceptable behaviour.

3 Be able to promote positive behaviour

Factors associated with challenging behaviours: eg substance misuse, abuse, learning difficulties, mental health problems, low self-esteem and aspirations, lack of education, lack of appropriate role models.

Evaluate effectiveness: evaluate effectiveness using appropriate and agreed methods eg supervision, observation, goals and targets, record-keeping, reflective practice, feedback from children or young people and others in the setting.

Highlight, praise and support positive aspects of individual’s behaviour in order to reinforce positive behaviour: eg give feedback and praise for positive behaviour, identify and celebrate progress and achievements, use of rewards, incentives and sanctions, encourage child to focus on areas of strength, highlight how achievement and skill in one area is transferable.
Best practice: eg refer to current research and trends in promoting positive behaviour, apply government guidelines and those of setting, demonstrate child-centred approach to behaviour management, emphasise proactive approach

4 Be able to respond appropriately to incidents of challenging behaviour

Types of challenging behaviour: disruptive behaviour; dangerous behaviour; destructive behaviour; aggression; self injury; stereotyped behaviour

Responding to incidents of challenging behaviour in a way that follows required guidelines and maintains the dignity of and respect for the individual child or young person: tell the child or young person that the behaviour is unacceptable; broken record strategy; active listening and communicating with the child or young person; address the behaviour in a way that does not diminish value or dignity of individual as a person; respond to the facts; stay calm; adopt consistent approach; use of positive/negative reinforcement; making child or young person aware of the consequences of their behaviour

Reporting and recording arrangements regarding incidents of challenging behaviour: follow organisational requirements for reporting and recording incidents eg record incident including time, location, name of child and staff members involved, description of incident and events leading up to the incident, intervention used, injuries sustained, witnesses, inform parent, carer and/or any other required person, include details in care plan and/or behaviour plan

5 Be able to support individuals and others following an incident of challenging behaviour

Methods to support return to calm state: reassurance; remove from situation and others, diary to record feelings and/or actions; debrief individual and support to them to reflect on incident

Support individual to reflect on incident: provide opportunity to express feelings experienced before and during the incident eg anger, fear, confusion, vulnerability, frustration; provide appropriate support for individual to recognise why their behaviour was unacceptable and the consequences of their behaviour for self and others eg discuss facts in calm, non-judgmental way, refer to feelings of others involved; provide opportunity to express feelings experienced after the incident eg relief, embarrassment, guilt, upset

Feelings of others involved or witnessing an incident of challenging behaviour: feelings eg fear, anger, helplessness, pity, anxiety, confusion

Debrief others involved or witnessing an incident of challenging behaviour: others eg children and young people (appropriate to age and understanding), families, colleagues, managers; debrief eg as a group and/or individually if required, provide reassurance, input from external agencies such as psychologist, Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service (CAMHS)

Steps that should be taken to check for injuries following an incident of challenging behaviour: as appropriate to and required by procedures of setting; if injuries have occurred, guidelines for health and safety must be followed; refer to health professionals to assess for injuries if necessary
6 Be able to review and revise approaches to promoting positive behaviour

Work with others to analyse behaviour: analysing triggers and reasons for challenging behaviour; analysing the behaviour itself; consequences for individual involved in incident of challenging behaviour; consequences for those who witnessed the incident; sharing information, ideas and skills to suggest how future incidents of challenging behaviour could be prevented

Work with others to review approaches using required sources of information: review approaches eg policies, checking organisation practice against current good practice guidelines; sources of information eg supervision, observations, record-keeping, incident book, reflective log, feedback from children, young people, colleagues and others in the setting

Reflection on how own role in an incident of challenging behaviour can improve the promotion of positive behaviour: evaluate practice against agreed criteria and objectives; use of appropriate tools and resources eg reflective practice log to identify where changes, developments and additional training or support are required; reflecting on whether own role has contributed to meeting the needs of individual children or young people; reflecting on whether own role demonstrated appropriate proactive strategies and techniques

Unit 54: Support Use of Medication in Social Care Settings

Unit code: HSC 3047
Unit reference number: F/601/4056
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 5
Guided learning hours: 40

Unit summary
This unit assesses support for the use of medication in social care settings. It covers broad types, classifications and forms of medication, as well as safe handling and storage. It addresses practical support for use of medication that reflects social care principles and values, and includes the need for accurate recording and reporting.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
This unit must be assessed in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment Principles. Learning outcomes 5, 7 and 8 must be assessed in the workplace.

Unit 59: Support Young People Who Are Looked After or Are Leaving Care

Unit code: YP0006-03
Unit reference number: A/502/5224
QCF level: 3
Credit value: 3
Guided learning hours: 23

Unit summary
This unit aims to enable learners to understand and support young people who are looked after or leaving care and to know about the relevant statutory and legal frameworks.

Assessment requirements/evidence requirements
Assessment of learners’ performance for this unit must take place in a work-based situation. It is accepted that the assessment of some knowledge and understanding may take place in a different environment, for example in a training and development centre or another environment, which is not the immediate workplace. However, the assessment of this knowledge and understanding should be linked directly to workplace performance and should include performance evidence.

Unit content

1 Understand the issues affecting young people who are looked after or leaving care

Looked-after young people: following a care order; with the agreement of the parents; care plan

Annexe B: Quality assurance

Key principles of quality assurance

- A centre delivering Edexcel qualifications must be an Edexcel recognised centre and must have approval for qualifications that it is offering.
- The centre agrees as part of gaining recognition to abide by specific terms and conditions around the effective delivery and quality assurance of assessment; the centre must abide by these conditions throughout the period of delivery.
- Edexcel makes available to approved centres a range of materials and opportunities to exemplify the processes required for effective assessment and provide examples of effective standards. Approved centres must use the guidance on assessment to ensure that staff who are delivering Edexcel qualifications are applying consistent standards.
- An approved centre must follow agreed protocols for: standardisation of assessors; planning, monitoring and recording of assessment processes; internal verification and recording of internal verification processes; and for dealing with special circumstances, appeals and malpractice.

Quality assurance processes

The approach to quality assured assessment is made through a partnership between a recognised centre and Edexcel. Edexcel is committed to ensuring that it follows best practice and employs appropriate technology to support quality assurance process where practicable. Therefore, the specific arrangements for working with centres will vary. Edexcel seeks to ensure that the quality assurance processes that it uses do not place undue bureaucratic processes on centres and works to support centres in providing robust quality assurance processes.

The learning outcomes and assessment criteria in each unit within this specification set out the standard to be achieved by each learner in order to gain each qualification. Edexcel operates a quality assurance process, which is designed to ensure that these standards are maintained by all assessors and verifiers.

For the purposes of quality assurance all individual qualifications and units are considered as a whole. Centres offering these qualifications must be committed to ensuring the quality of the units and qualifications they offer, through effective standardisation of assessors and internal verification of assessor decisions. Centre quality assurance and assessment processes are monitored by Edexcel.
The Edexcel quality assurance processes will involve:

- gaining centre recognition and qualification approval if a centre is not currently approved to offer Edexcel qualifications
- annual visits to centres by Edexcel for quality review and development of overarching processes and quality standards. Quality review and development visits will be conducted by an Edexcel quality development reviewer
- annual visits by occupationally competent and qualified Edexcel Standards Verifiers for sampling of internal verification and assessor decisions for the occupational sector
- the provision of support, advice and guidance towards the achievement of National Occupational Standards.

Centres are required to declare their commitment to ensuring quality and appropriate opportunities for learners that lead to valid and accurate assessment outcomes. In addition, centres will commit to undertaking defined training and online standardisation activities.
Annexe C: Centre certification and registration

Edexcel Standards Verifiers will provide support, advice and guidance to centres to achieve Direct Claims Status (DCS). Edexcel will maintain the integrity of Edexcel QCF NVQs through ensuring that the awarding of these qualifications is secure. Where there are quality issues identified in the delivery of programmes, Edexcel will exercise the right to:

- direct centres to take actions
- limit or suspend certification
- suspend registration.

The approach of Edexcel in such circumstances is to work with the centre to overcome the problems identified. If additional training is required, Edexcel will aim to secure the appropriate expertise to provide this.

What are the access arrangements and special considerations for the qualifications in this specification?

Appropriate steps should be taken to assess each applicant’s potential and a professional judgement made about their ability to successfully complete the programme of study and achieve the qualification. This assessment will need to take account of the support available to the learner within the centre during their programme of study and any specific support that might be necessary to allow the learner to access the assessment for the qualification. Centres should consult Edexcel’s policy on learners with particular requirements.

Edexcel’s policy on access arrangements and special considerations for Edexcel qualifications aims to enhance access to the qualifications for learners with disabilities and other difficulties (as defined by the 1995 Disability Discrimination Act and the amendments to the Act) without compromising the assessment of skills, knowledge, understanding or competence. Please refer to Access Arrangements and Special Considerations for BTEC and Edexcel NVQ Qualifications for further details. www.edexcel.com.
Annexe D: Assessment requirements/strategy

The qualification is internally assessed and verified and externally verified according to Edexcel’s quality control processes and in line with Skills for Care and Development’s QCF Assessment principles, as set out in the Skills for Care and Development QCF Assessment Principles Statement below.

Those qualified to make Quality Assurance Decisions

Skills for Care and Development has specified that awarding organisations will determine what will qualify those undertaking internal quality assurance to make decisions about that quality assurance.

Those conducting the internal quality assurance decisions (internal verifiers) must

• hold or be working towards a suitable internal verifier qualification to confirm they understand how to internally verify assessments. By default, this is currently the Internal Verifier unit V1 (and by implication legacy D34 unit). In future, the suitable internal verifier qualification will be the Level 4 Award in the Internal Quality Assurance of Assessment Processes and Practice (QCF) or the Level 4 Certificate in Leading the Internal Quality Assurance of Assessment Processes and Practice (QCF) but an appropriate equivalent may apply

• have sufficient and relevant technical/occupational familiarity in the unit(s) being verified

• be fully conversant with the standards and assessment criteria in the units to be assessed

• understand the awarding organisation’s quality assurance systems and requirements for this qualification.

If a Centre wishes to make an application to include other qualifications that they feel qualifies an individual to make assessment decisions, they should contact the Edexcel Business Manager in writing, giving full details of the qualification. The Centre’s application will be considered in consultation with other awarding organisations and CWDC Skills for Care and Development to ensure a consistency of approach. Edexcel will maintain an up-to-date list of suitable qualifications on our website, www.edexcel.com

Skills for Care and Development QCF Assessment Principles Statement

1 Introduction

1.1 Skills for Care and Development (SfC&D) is the UK sector skills council (SSC) for social care, children, early years and young people. Its structure for realising the SSC remit is via an alliance of six organisations: Care Council for Wales, Children’s Workforce Development Council, General Social Care Council, Northern Ireland Social Care Council, Scottish Social Services Council and Skills for Care.
1.2 This document sets out those principles and approaches to QCF unit/qualification assessment not already described in the Regulatory Arrangements for the Qualifications and Credit Framework. The information is intended to support the quality assurance processes of Awarding Organisations that offer qualifications in the Sector, and should be read alongside these. It should also be read alongside individual unit assessment requirements.

1.3 These principles will ensure a consistent approach to those elements of assessment which require further interpretation and definition, and support sector confidence in the new arrangements.

1.4 Where Skills for Care and Development qualifications are joint with Skills for Health, Skill for Health will also use these assessment principles.

2 Assessment Principles

2.1 Assessment decisions for competence based learning outcomes (eg those beginning with ‘to be able to’) must be made in a real work environment by an occupationally competent assessor. Any knowledge evidence integral to these learning outcomes may be generated outside of the work environment but the final assessment decision must be within the real work environment.

2.2 Assessment decisions for competence based Learning outcomes must be made by an assessor qualified to make assessment decisions.

2.3 Competence based assessment must include direct observation as the main source of evidence.

2.4 Simulation may only be utilised as an assessment method for competence based Lo where this is specified in the assessment requirements of the unit’.

2.5 Expert witnesses can be used for direct observation where: they have occupational expertise for specialist areas or the observation is of a particularly sensitive nature. The use of expert witnesses should be determined and agreed by the assessor.

2.6 Assessment of knowledge based Learning outcomes (eg those beginning with ‘know’ or ‘understand’) may take place in or outside of a real work environment.

2.7 Assessment decisions for knowledge based Learning outcomes must be made by an occupationally knowledgeable assessor.

2.8 Assessment decisions for knowledge based Learning outcomes must be made by an assessor qualified to make assessment decisions. Where assessment is electronic or undertaken according to a set grid, the assessment decisions are made by the person who has set the answers.
3 Internal Quality Assurance

3.1 Internal quality assurance is key to ensuring that the assessment of evidence for units is of a consistent and appropriate quality. Those carrying out internal quality assurance must be occupationally knowledgeable in the area they are assuring and be qualified to make quality assurance decisions.

4 Definitions

4.1 Occupationally competent:
This means that each assessor must be capable of carrying out the full requirements within the competency units they are assessing. Being occupationally competent means they are also occupationally knowledgeable. This occupational competence should be maintained annually through clearly demonstrable continuing learning and professional development.

4.2 Occupationally knowledgeable:
This means that each assessor should possess relevant knowledge and understanding, and be able to assess this in units designed to test specific knowledge and understanding, or in units where knowledge and understanding are components of competency. This occupational knowledge should be maintained annually through clearly demonstrable continuing learning and professional development.

4.3 Qualified to make assessment decisions:
This means that each assessor must hold a qualification suitable to support the making of appropriate and consistent assessment decisions. Awarding Organisations will determine what will qualify those making assessment decisions according to the unit of competence under assessment. In any case of significant uncertainty, the SSC’s will be consulted.

4.4 Qualified to make quality assurance decisions:
Awarding Organisations will determine what will qualify those undertaking internal quality assurance to make decisions about that quality assurance.

An expert witness must:

- have a working knowledge of the QCF units on which their expertise is based
- be occupationally competent in their area of expertise
- have EITHER any qualification in assessment of workplace performance OR a professional work role which involves evaluating the everyday practice of staff.
Annexe E: Skills for Care and Development List of Qualifications for Assessors

Skills for Care and Development (SfCD) has specified that each assessor for this qualification must hold a qualification suitable to support the making of appropriate and consistent assessment decisions. In conjunction with other awarding organisations, SfCD has prepared a provisional and indicative list of qualifications to include any of the following (this list is current as of October 2010. Centres are advised to check the Edexcel website for updated lists):

- D32 Assess Candidate Performance and D33 Assess Candidate Using Differing Sources of Evidence
- A1 Assess Candidate Performance Using a Range of Methods and A2 Assessing Candidates' Performance through Observation
- QCF Level 3 Award in Assessing Competence in the Work Environment (for competence / skills Learning outcomes only)
- QCF Level 3 Award in Assessing Vocationally Related Achievement (for knowledge Learning outcomes only)
- QCF Level 3 Certificate in Assessing Vocational Achievement
- Qualified Teacher Status
- Certificate in Education in Post-Compulsory Education (PCE)
- The Practice Teacher Award
- Mentorship and Assessment in Health and Social Care Settings
- Preparing to Teach in the Lifeline Learning Sector (PTLLS)
- Certificate in Teaching in the Lifelong Learning Sector (CTLLS)
Annexe F: Training and Development Agency for Schools QCF Assessment Strategy

Certain units in this qualification (as indicated in the Assessment requirements/evidence requirements section of the unit) should be assessed in line with the Training and Development Agency for Schools QCF Assessment principles, as set out in the Training and Development Agency for Schools QCF Assessment Principles Statement below.

Training and Development Agency for Schools QCF Assessment Principles Statement:

1 Introduction

1.1 The Training and Development Agency for Schools (TDA) is the sector body for the school workforce in England. The TDA’s vision for qualifications for school support staff was set out in its Sector Qualification Strategy for school support staff which was published in January 2009 after widespread consultation with the sector.

1.2 These Assessment Principles set out the approaches to QCF unit/qualification assessment not already described in the Regulatory Arrangements for the Qualifications and Credit Framework issued by OFQUAL. The information is intended to support the quality assurance processes of Awarding Organisations that offer qualifications in the Sector, and should be read alongside these. It should also be read alongside individual unit assessment requirements.

1.3 These principles are derived from those developed by Skills for Care and Development (SfCD). A large number of units covered by the SfCD assessment principles are included in qualifications for the children’s workforce in schools to support integrated ways of working and workforce mobility. Consistency of approach in assessment across units developed by different sectors will support awarding organisations to develop clear and fit for purpose assessment methodologies.

1.4 These principles will ensure a consistent approach to those elements of assessment which require further interpretation and definition, and support sector confidence in the QCF arrangements.

1.5 These principles apply to those units developed by the TDA. Units included in qualifications for school based staff that have been developed by other Sector Skills Councils or Sector Bodies will need to be assessed in accordance with any assessment principles and requirements set by those organisations.

2 Assessment Principles

2.1 Assessment decisions for criteria that must be assessed in the workplace, as identified in unit assessment requirements, must be made in a real work environment by an occupationally competent assessor.
2.2 Assessment decisions for criteria that must be assessed in the workplace (competence based assessment criteria) must be made by an assessor with the expertise to make assessment decisions.

2.3 Competence based assessment must include direct observation as the main source of evidence.

2.4 Simulation may only be utilised as an assessment method for competence based assessment criteria where this is specified in the assessment requirements of the unit.

2.5 Expert witnesses can be used for direct observation where:
- they have occupational expertise for specialist areas, or
- the observation is of a particularly sensitive nature.
The use of expert witnesses should be determined and agreed by the assessor.

2.6 Assessment of criteria not identified in the unit assessment requirements as requiring assessment in the workplace may take place in or outside of a real work environment.

2.7 Assessment decisions for knowledge based assessment criteria must be made by an occupationally knowledgeable assessor.

2.8 Assessment decisions for knowledge based assessment criteria must be made by an assessor qualified to make assessment decisions. Where assessment is electronic or undertaken according to a set grid, the assessment decisions are made by the person who has set the answers.

3 Internal Quality Assurance

3.1 Internal quality assurance is key to ensuring that the assessment of evidence for units is of a consistent and appropriate quality. Those carrying out internal quality assurance must be occupationally knowledgeable in the area they are assuring and be qualified to make quality assurance decisions as determined by the Awarding Organisation.

4 Definitions

4.1 Occupationally competent:
This means that each assessor must be capable of carrying out the full requirements within the competency units they are assessing. Being occupationally competent means they are also occupationally knowledgeable. This occupational competence should be maintained annually through clearly demonstrable continuing learning and professional development.

4.2 Occupationally knowledgeable:
This means that each assessor should have relevant knowledge and understanding, and be able to assess this in units:
- designed to test specific knowledge and understanding, or
- where knowledge and understanding are components of competency.
This occupational knowledge should be maintained annually through clearly demonstrable continuing learning and professional development.

4.3 Qualified to make assessment decisions: Awarding Organisations must ensure that those making assessment decisions have the necessary expertise to do so, which may include having, or be working towards, appropriate qualifications.

4.4 Qualified to make quality assurance decisions: Awarding Organisations will determine what will qualify those undertaking internal quality assurance to make decisions about that quality assurance.

4.5 Expert witness:

An expert witness must:

- have a working knowledge of the QCF units for which they are providing witness testimony
- be occupationally competent in their area of expertise
- have EITHER any qualification that includes assessment of workplace
- performance AND/OR a professional work role which involves evaluating the everyday practice of staff
